TAKE GRAVE VIEW OF HUERTA NOTE

Washington Officials Feel Much Depends on Lind's Reception in Mexico.

CRISIS TALK IN SENATE

More Serious Than Cuban Affair, Says Bacon, Defending the President.

MIGHT DEPORT THE ENVOY

Clark of Wyoming Assails Administration's Secrecy—Lind Sails from Galveston.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—That the Mexican situation is serious, even critical, is admitted in the highest official circles. This admission has an added significance when considered in the light of the policy of secrecy that the Government is maintaining. The refusal of President Wilson to take Senators and Representatives into his confidence came in for criticism in the Senate to-day. There is a manifest disposition to complain over what are regarded as star-chamber methods in dealing with an affair of such momentous importance.

A basis for bringing matters to a crisis is afforded in the notice served on the American Embassy in Mexico City last night by the Acting Minister of Foreign Affairs that "if Mr. Lind does not bring credentials in due form, together with recognition of the Government of Mexico, his presence in this country will not be desirable."

That, apparently, is a distinct threat to order Mr. Lind out of Mexico, an act that might pave the way for reprisals by this Government. Washington's attitude is that there is no necessity for anybody connected with the Huerta Administration to receive Mr. Lind, because he is not accredited to anybody. This calm view, however, does not meet the defiant stipulation of Huerta, according to opinion in Congress.

There has been some talk in Washington that Huerta might go so far as to apply to Mr. Lind the provisions of Article 33 of the Mexican Constitution, which enables the Government to deport "undesirable foreigners."

Opinions along this line have come from men acquainted with Huerta's character and the situation in Mexico City. Whether they have had any intimation that Huerta contemplated deporting Mr. Lind has not been ascertained. However, the language of the notice served on the American Embassy bears a striking similarity to the salient phrase of that article, and for that reason is doubly significant.

Hope at the White House.

High officials of the Administration to-day were optimistic of a peaceable solution of Mexico's troubles in spite of their admission that the present situation was grave. To their way of thinking the President had a perfect right to send a private citizen of the United States to act as advisor to Nelson O'Shaughnessy, the American Chargé d'Affaires in Mexico City. Mr. Lind has no official status, they suggest, and he does not need any credentials. Whatever is done by the embassy in an official way will be done by Mr. O'Shaughnessy and not by Mr. Lind. Therefore, it is argued, why should there be any objection to the part Mr. Lind is to play?

It is realized here, however, that Huerta sees Mr. Lind's mission in another light. To Huerta's view he is to use his influence among Mexicans and foreigners to bring about the elimination of Huerta as an incident of his effort to obtain a cessation of hostilities. That such an attitude on the part of an alien without official status will not be tolerated by Huerta does not create surprise among those who know something of Mexico's President.

It also is asserted that if a diplomatic representative should pursue such a course he probably would receive his passports.

Mr. Lind, officials say, not only is without credentials to any official authority in Mexico, but he does not bear any "message" to President Huerta. Further than that and the explanation that Mr. Lind will be the advisor of the American Embassy, nothing of an authoritative nature concerning his status is forthcoming from the Administration and there is absolute official secrecy as to the character and scope of his mission. There are semi-official hints, however, that the statement of the programme entrusted to Mr. Lind is substantially as outlined in a Washington dispatch in THE NEW YORK TIMES on Tuesday.

Why Huerta Is Angry.

The program as understood here contemplates an agreement for the cessation of hostilities pending a constitutional election for President. The voluntary retirement of President Huerta and the installation of a provisional President until the constitutional government is installed. There has been enough said by officials to show that a refusal to recognize Huerta is a cardinal principle of the plan. It is this feature that has offended Huerta. It is regarded as responsible for his intimation that Mr. Lind's presence in Mexico will be undesirable.

To what extent, if at all, the notice served on the American Chargé d'Affaires last night with reference to Mr. Lind's status will influence the Administration to modify the instructions to Mr. Lind cannot be ascertained because of the policy of secrecy about which open complaint was made in the Senate to-day.

There is a feeling here that the threatened fire will burst into an uncontrollable blaze if the stand that Huerta has taken does not receive some consideration. All these things go to show that as far as it affects the relations between JAPAN PREPARES NEW NOTE.

Will Again Take Stand That California Law Violates Treaty.

TOKIO, Aug. 8.—The Japanese Government has prepared a new note for presentation to the United States Government in answer to Secretary of State Bryan's last communication to Japan concerning the California alien land ownership legislation.

The new note defends the position Japan previously assumed—that the land ownership bill violates the Japanese-American treaty.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 7.—Sailing Aug. 13 from Vancouver on the same ship with Gen. Felix Diaz, Special Ambassador from Mexico to Japan, will be Dr. Juichi Soyeda and Tadao Kamiya, the two commissioners sent to this country by the Affiliated Chambers of Commerce of Japan to investigate the conditions surrounding the California alien land act.

"We hope that the law passed recently at Sacramento will never go into effect, but if it does you may rest assured that the Japanese will regulate their conduct to comply, at the same time striving to enlarge the permanence of their residence here," said Dr. Soyeda to-day.

LORD CHANCELLOR'S VISIT.

Only Five Days in America—Trip to be Made to West Point.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Aug. 7.—The Lord Chancellor, Lord Haldane, will sail for New York on the Lusitania on Aug. 23 for the purpose of attending the Bar Association's meeting in Montreal. He was overwhelmed with invitations both from the United States and Canada as soon as he announced that he would visit America, but he has declined all with one exception.

The day after he arrives in New York he will go up the Hudson in the late J. Pierpont Morgan's yacht Corsair and inspect the cadets at West Point.

A special train will take the Lord Chancellor and his party to Montreal, where he will arrive on Sunday morning, Aug. 31. His address to the Bar Association will deal with the part the lawyer plays in international affairs. The day after his speech he will return to New York, and he will sail for home on the Lusitania.

His visit to America will therefore last only five days.

SEES HER DUTY AND DOES IT

Mrs. Rupp Has Husband Arrested for Disturbing Suffrage Meeting.

While Mrs. Emma Rupp, East New York's most ardent suffragist, was occupying a small and rickety platform at Shepherd and Miller Avenues last night for the purpose of exhorting East New York to take up the great cause she was much annoyed by a tall man on the fringe of the crowd who seemed to regard her propaganda with hostility. He showed this by loud suggestions that she devote her energy to the care of her home and by rehearsing all the small boys in a chorus of catcalls. They proved such adept pupils that Mrs. Rupp suddenly descended from the platform with the announcement that she would settle matters and strode off toward the Miller Avenue Police Station.

The delighted crowd waited for her return with a policeman, watched with interest while she arranged the arrest of the offender on a disorderly conduct charge, and trailed along behind while prisoner, policeman, and complaining witness went back to the station.

It was when the prisoner gave his name as Lawrence Rupp and his address 1,100 Glenmore Avenue, the same address as she had given, that the Lieutenant did some questioning.

"Your husband?" he exclaimed incredulously, when the explanations had been made.

"Certainly, he's my husband," said Mrs. Rupp firmly.

"And you want him arrested?"

"I do," she replied. "The fact that he's my husband is all the more reason why he ought to know better than to break up my meetings."

So Mr. Rupp, who is a machinist, will have to explain himself this morning in the Jersey Avenue Court.

SHOVEL MAYOR'S EMBLEM.

Gaynor Independent League Sends Out 7,000 Petitions.

The Mayor Gaynor Fusion and Nominating League, which has already amalgamated with several other organizations of independent voters who are working for the Mayor's renomination and reelection, commenced yesterday the distribution of petitions.

About 7,000 were mailed to voters, and as many more will be sent out to-day and to-morrow. The league has selected for its emblem a shovel, representing actual subway construction, and has decided to nominate under the name of "Gaynor Independent League."

Appended to the forms of petitions is a notice to notaries public, Commissioners of Deeds, and members of the league indicating the manner in which petitions should be executed in order to comply with the provisions of the election law referring to independent nominations. The Secretary of the league is John M. Harrington of 27 William Street.

TRACE HANAN JEWELS HERE.

Some of the Stolen Gems Said to Have Been Offered for Sale.

Private detectives at work on the Hanan jewel robbery, which occurred on July 25 at Narragansett Pier, announced yesterday that some of the jewels belonging to Mrs. John H. Hanan had been traced to Manhattan and that an attempt had been made to dispose of them.

According to the story told here yesterday the proffered piece of jewelry which aroused suspicion was a black enamel breast pin, wnth bowknot outlined in diamonds. The clue offered by the appearance of this piece in New York last week is being followed by the detective agency whose services were engaged by Mrs. Hanan through its Providence branch. The clue was picked up through a circularization of all the pawnshops and jewelry stores in the city.

The men who offered the gems for sale immediately left the store when they realized they were under suspicion.

WHITMAN ACCEPTS FUSION NOMINATION

In a Letter to Chairman Hapgood He Says It Is No Time for a Division of Forces.

TO WORK HARD FOR TICKET

Hopes to Bring Republicans Into Line, Though Some Are Sulking—Lukewarm, Say Mitchelites.

In a letter to Norman Hapgood, Chairman of the Citizens' Municipal Committee, copies of which he gave out at his home at 37 Madison Avenue last evening, District Attorney Charles S. Whitman broke his long silence and announced that he would accept the Fusion nomination for District Attorney and exert every effort to elect the entire anti-Tammany ticket.

Mr. Whitman's letter confirms the attitude he took when at Bretton Woods, N. H., last unday he received the first full information of the choice of John Purroy Mitchel as the Fusion candidate for Mayor. o a TIMES staff correspondent Mr. Whitman then intimated his intention of stick to the Fusion ticket as chosen. Pressure upon him since his return has not availed to change this attitude.

After sending his letter to Mr. Hapgood last night Mr. Whitman started back to the White Mountains, where he will remain until Tuesday.

The members of the Fusion Committee were jubilant over the District Attorney's announcement, but friends of John Purroy Mitchel, the Fusion candidate for Mayor, described the letter as "lukewarm." In it Mr. Whitman said he had fought hard with members of the Republican organization to get them to agree to fusion, and he felt sure that he had at last swung them into line.

No Time for Division—Whitman.

This is Mr. Whitman's letter:

New York, Aug. 7, 1913.

Norman Hapgood, Esq., Chairman of Citizens' Municipal Committee, 200 Fifth Avenue, New York City:

Dear Sir: I accept the Fusion nomination for District Attorney, and will exert every effort to elect the entire anti-Tammany ticket. From the first my determination has been to do nothing to weaken the Fusion movement. The real question has been how to lend it my most effective support. For the reason that you and others urge upon me, that my acceptance will give strength to the ticket, and because a third ticket in the field would insure Tammany success, I have determined to accept the place that has been allotted to me, irrespective of any other question.

I have delayed making the announcement of my position because I have felt it my duty to hear in full the views of those who so loyally supported me and to take the opportunity of expressing my own views to them upon the situation. It has been urged upon me that the decision of the Fusion committee was dictated by partisan motives and accomplished by partisan methods. The fact remains that a Fusion ticket has been arranged, and that this is no time for the division of the anti-Tammany forces.

The Republican Party in the constitutional convention, which provided that municipal elections should be separated from State elections, recognized the principle that municipal government should be divorced from party government. The willingness of the Republican Party to participate in the union of citizens for the common good was based upon a recognition of this principle, and the Republican Party deserves great credit, with its 180,000 enrolled voters, in placing the general welfare above party advantage.

Cause Greater Than Partisanship.

The Republican Party best serves itself in supporting the Fusion movement, for by so doing it commands the respect of the community. It is stronger as a party in the State and the Union for joining forces with all good citizens, regardless of party, against corruption in the City of New York than by selfishly insisting upon the selection of any particular Republican for any particular office.

The purpose of the Fusion Committee was to bring about concerted action to secure the most efficient and honest government possible for the City of New York. The union of all citizens in this common cause is of far greater importance than the division among parties of offices or the distribution of patronage.

Personal ambition or partisan feeling must be subordinated to the public good. The movement inaugurated by your committee should receive the support of all voters of all parties who wish to put an end to commercial and political graft and who wish to establish business administration in the great city departments, the carrying forward of the great administrative work of the development of transit, protection to health, preservation of order, the assurance of safety, the abolishment of special privilege in any form, and the general welfare of this the greatest of our cities.

The selections made by the committee assure co-operation along these lines by all the candidates, and all should now unite in making their election sure. I will do my part. Very sincerely yours,

CHARLES S. WHITMAN.

Republicans Still to be Placated.

Republican organization members were still sullen last night and there was much talk of knifing the ticket. It was even said that the organization may yet bolt the Fusion ticket and nominate the District Attorney for Mayor anyway. The Kings County Republicans were most dissatisfied at the District Attorney's decision, and it is likely that they will refuse to rescind the resolution passed by the Executive Committee on Wednesday declaring for the District Attorney for Mayor (although Mr. Whitman said he thought he would be able to smooth out the situation.

"I believe that the Republican leaders will now do their best to help the Fusion ticket," said Mr. Whitman, when asked if he cared to supplement his letter with a statement. "I have worked hard to bring about such a conclusion, and I think I can truthfully say it has been the hardest work I have ever undertaken. I am satisfied that everything is now arranged satisfactorily. At least, I hope so. I am sure the Republican organization will support the entire Fusion ticket. As for Kings County, I have gone over the situation there thoroughly with Congressman William M. Calder, and I think it is all going to come out all right. Naturally, a great deal of soreness remains, but this will pass away ultimately, and by election time I expect to see every Republican supporting the Fusion ticket loyally."

The District Attorney gave evidence all during the day that he was laboring under a strain and that considerable pressure was being brought to bear upon him to change his mind and desert Fusion. County Chairman Samuel S. Koenig, Herbert Parsons, and Congressman Calder were with him most of the day. At one time it was said that the District Attorney had agreed not to take the Fusion nomination unless Mr. Mitchel could obtain the indorsement of all the parties represented in the Fusion Committee, and

FIRST BRYAN PEACE TREATY IS SIGNED

Salvador and the United States Agree Not to Go Hurriedly to War.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—For the next five years the United States and Salvador will not go to war without first thinking it over seriously. This was settled this afternoon when the two countries signed the first of the international peace treaties under the Bryan plan for world-wide peace. Although the treaty is to undergo the ordeal of ratification by the Senate, officials of the State Department are confident that it will go into force as intended. The signers were Secretary Bryan and Don Federico Mejia, the Minister of Salvador.

The signing of the first treaty comes just four months after Secretary Bryan advanced his peace plan as one of the cardinal policies of President Wilson's Administration. The idea contemplates that when two nations feel like going to war they shall sit down and think while an international jury examines their ground of dispute and brings in a report. Then they may fight or not just as they choose.

The underlying theory of the plan is the rudimentary fact in human nature that if two intending combatants hesitate they are both lost so far as the impending scrap is concerned, and what might have been war breaks up in a flooding sense of the humor of the situation.

The text of the treaty with Salvador is of interest inasmuch as it is the form prepared for all the peace treaties, just as all the arbitration treaties arranged five years ago by Secretary Root were planned on one form. The treaty follows:

> The Republic of Salvador and the United States of America, being desirous to strengthen the bonds of amity that bind them together and also to advance the cause of general peace, have resolved to enter into a treaty for that purpose, and to that end have appointed as their plenipotentiaries the President of Salvador, Senor Don Federico Mejia, Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary of Salvadore to the United States, and the President of the United States and the Honorable William Jennings Bryan, Secretary of State, who, after having communicated to each other their respective full powers, found to be in proper form, have agreed upon the following articles:
>
> Article I. The high contracting parties agree that all disputes between them, of every nature whatsoever, which diplomacy shall fail to adjust, shall be submitted for investigation and report to an International Commission, to be constituted in the manner prescribed in next succeeding article; and they agree not to declare war or begin hostilities during such investigation and report.
>
> Article II. The International Commission shall be composed of five members, to be appointed as follows:
>
> One member shall be chosen from each country by the Government thereof, one member shall be chosen by each Government from some third country, the fifth member shall be chosen by common agreement between the two Governments. The expenses of the commission shall be paid by the two Governments in equal proportion.
>
> The International Commission shall be appointed within four months after the exchange of the ratification of this treaty, and vacancies shall be filled according to the manner of the original appointment.
>
> Article III. In case the high contracting parties shall have failed to adjust a dispute by diplomatic methods, they shall at once refer it to the International Commission for investigation and report. The International Commission may, however, act upon its own initiative, and in such cases it shall notify both Governments and request their co-operation in their investigation.
>
> The report of the International Commission shall be completed within one year after the date on which it shall declare its investigation to have begun, unless the high contracting parties shall extend the time by mutual agreement. The report shall be prepared in triplicate; one copy shall be presented to each Government and the third retained by the commission for its files.
>
> The high contracting parties reserve the right to act independently on the subject matter of the dispute after the report of the commission shall have been submitted.
>
> Article IV. Pending the investigation and report of the International Commission, the high contracting parties agree not to increase their military or naval programmes, unless danger from a third power should compel such increase, in which case the party feeling itself menaced shall confidentially communicate the fact in writing to the other contracting party, whereupon the latter shall also be released from its obligation to maintain its military and naval status quo.
> Article V. The present treaty shall be ratified by the President of the Republic of Salvador, with the approval of the Congress thereof; and by the President of the United States of America, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate thereof, and the ratifications shall be exchanged as soon as possible. It shall take effect immediately after the exchange of ratifications, and shall continue in force for a period of five years; and it shall thereafter remain in force until twelve months after one of the high contracting parties have given notice to the other of an intention to terminate it.

Byt its projectors the fact that this treaty is made between one of the greatest and one of the smallest of nations is regarded as exemplifying in the highest degree the true spirit of the peaceful settlement of international issues.

$1,000,000 MARRIAGE PLOT.

Alleged Scheme Discovered to Despoil Three Indians of Their Lands.

Special to The New York Times.

CARLISLE, Penn., Aug. 7.—Judge E. J. Van Court of Oklahoma was here this week taking the depositions of two young Indians at the Carlisle School in a suit involving an alleged marriage conspiracy to get possession of the $1,000,000 estate of the Derrisaws, an Indian family. It is alleged that Beeley Derrisaw, then 18 years old, was lured from his home in Oklahoma a year ago by a companion, conducted to McAlester and induced to marry one Sallie Cindle, aged 30 years. He married without the permission of R. B. Hutchinson, his guardian. Under the Oklahoma law a marriage without such permission can be annulled. The purpose of the present suit is to annul the Derrisaw marriage.

Beeley Derrisaw, his brother Oscar, 16, and his sister Mattie are joint heirs to the $1,000,000 estate. It is alleged that the schemers also had picked out mates for Oscar and Mattie. The guardian sent the girl to an Arizona Indian school and Oscar and Beeley to Carlisle.

The conspirators are said to be led by an Oklahoma banker.

NO FEDERAL MONEY FOR N. J. REGIMENTS

Secretary of War, in Enforcing the Dick Act, Hits Militia of His Own State.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMP FIELDER, SEA GIRT, Aug. 7.—The division organization as well as that of the Second Brigade of the New Jersey National Guard are to be wiped out entirely, as far as recognition by the War Department is concerned, if the provisions of a circular issued by Secretary of War Lindley Garrison are enforced. According to the circular, the War Department, after Jan. 1, will not recognize militia organizations in any State unless they conform to the requirements of the regular United States Army. Neither will it continue its appropriations to such organizations.

The Dick act, which was passed by Congress about ten years ago, carried with it an annual appropriation of $2,000,000 for militia organizations of the United States. This money, according to the act, was to be apportioned only to State militia whose organizations conformed in every respect to those of the regular army. Full enforcement of these requirements was found to be impracticable at the time of the act's passage, and extensions of time in which to bring the organizations to the set standard were granted.

Secretary Garrison has decided that ten years has been ample time in which to effect the changes desired in the various States, and he has ordered that no further appropriations be made to those organizations which do not now conform to requirements, and that no official recognition be taken of any organization until it does so conform.

To maintain a division organization there must be three full brigades of three regiments, with complete strength of twelve companies each; two regiments of field artillery, one regiment of cavalry, four field hospitals, four ambulance companies, four signal corps companies, a pack train, an ammunition train, and a supply train.

Under these requirements New Jersey could never hope to maintain her division organization, as it would require the acquisition of four regiments of infantry, almost two complete regiments of field artillery and one of cavalry, the pack, ammunition, and supply trains, and other organizations called for under the act. The various States are given until the first of the year to establish all but two field hospitals, two ambulance companies, a pack train, an ammunition train, and a supply train, which may be added any time prior to July 1, 1915.

The order practically severs the Second and Third Regiments of Trenton and Camden, respectively, which comprise the Second Brigade, from the organization benefiting under the Governmental appropriation. It also entirely eliminates the division organization of New Jersey. The Second and Third Regiments, unless another full-strength regiment to complete the Second Brigade can be mustered before Jan. 1, will be regarded as separate organizations after that date. They will, however, report to the brigade commander of the First Brigade for orders and for administrative purposes. It means the severing of Brig. Gen. John A. Mather's connection with the Guard as the head of the Second Brigade.

The First Brigade, composed of the Newark, Paterson, and Jersey City regiments will be unaffected by the order. None of the regimental organizations will be affected except that the number of the commanding officer's staff will be slightly cut. However, should some of the companies in the regiment disband and others not organize and take their places within six months, there would be a more marked effect upon the regiments, as they would lose their Colonels in command and be placed under Lieutenant Colonels. In a regiment having less than the twelve required companies the Majors would command the full batallions and the odd companies would be regarded as separate organizations.

The one department not affected under the provisions of the circular is that of the Adjutant General, whose office is the one with which the Government deals exclusively and the only one which is regarded as its direct representative in the various States.

CHILD LABOR BILL SHELVED.

Manufacturers' Opposition Kills the Georgia Measure.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 7.—There will be no child labor legislation at the present session of the Georgia Legislature. President Anderson of the Senate introduced a measure for the purpose of bettering child labor conditions, but such strenuous opposition developed that the measure has been finally shelved.

The Anderson bill proposed to raise the age limit for working children from 12 to 13 years for next year, and fixed the age limit for 1915 at 14 years. The measure also provided that all children before being employed, should give proof of their ability to read and write. It was thought this measure would be acceptable both to the mill owners and the friends of the children, but such an undercurrent of opposition developed on the part of the manufacturers that the measure was shelved.

A drastic child labor bill could be put through the House, but as the session is nearing its close, there will be no legislation on the subject.

MRS. DENNY IN AUTO WRECK.

Her Car Hits Lumber Truck on Narrow Berkshire Highway.

Special to The New York Times.

LENOX, Mass., Aug. 7.—Mrs. Thomas Denny of 574 Madison Avenue, New York, who is at the Maplewood in Pittsfield for the season, narrowly escaped a very serious accident on the Lenox Road, two miles north of Stockbridge, this afternoon.

Mrs. Denny was motoring with Miss Adeline L. Denny and Miss E. B. Ellison of New York, when their car hit a heavy lumber truck on a narrow piece of highway. The fore left wheel of Mrs. Denny's car was wrecked and a part of the side of the automobile ripped off. None of the party was hurt, but they were badly frightened. Mrs. Denny and her guests were brought back to Pittsfield by one of the hotel automobiles.

BARRICADE STREETS IN MILAN STRIKE

Workers Stone Troops and Injure Many—Women Prevent Passage of Trains.

MAY AFFECT ALL ITALY

Laboring Classes in Misery Owing to War in Northern Africa and Consequent Demands by State.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MILAN, Friday, Aug. 8, (uncensored.)—For the second time in six weeks a general strike has broken out at Milan, and for four days past has been parlyzing civic life. It is now assuming alarming proportions. The number of strikers has increased from 10,000 to 150,000.

The agitation arose out of the metal workers' strike in Lombardy and Piedmont, where the masters refused to grant a collective demand for an all-round rise of half a cent an hour in wages.

The Government, while proclaiming neutrality, has, as usual, resorted to the darling device of muzzling the press, and there has been a wholesale seizure of foreign press telegrams regarding the disorders. Large bodies of troops have been drafted from other centres, and the city resounds with the clang and clatter of armed men and wears an aspect of military occupation.

This ostentatious display of force has angered the populace and has provoked disorders, which tend to convert a purely economic struggle into a political revolution, which is being joined by all the anarchist elements.

Malatesta, the Anarchist leader, whose deportation from England was attempted some time ago, came over from London to encourage the revolutionary elements. Barricades were erected in the streets, and for hundreds of yards the granite paving was torn up to obstruct the furious charges of cavalry. Warehouses were sacked, building materials seized, dray carts overturned, and telegraph poles uprooted to be used as means to resist the soldiery. Telephone wires were also cut. Hordes of women, placing themselves across all the railway tracks, prevented the circulation of steam trains. Groups of strikers stoned passing express trains, and logs of wood were stretched across the rails.

To-day proved a sanguinary one. Not only were the troops mercilessly stoned, but the exasperated crowds attacked the soldiers with daggers and revolvers. Forty wounded officers of cavalry, carabiniers, and civil police are lying in hospitals, many in a dangerous condition. Many pistol shots were fired from upper stories of dwellings against the police and more than 500 arrests were made.

The disorders have spread to provincial towns, where the situation is serious on account of the astounding deficiency of police. This latter circumstance has enabled gangs of thieves and burglars to undertake systematic raids upon the private residences of the many families known to be away holiday-making.

It is difficult at the moment to say where it will all end. No doubt the workers have had a bad time of late. There is a serious industrial crisis throughout the whole of Italy, chiefly consequent upon the war in Tripoli, and the consequent enormous absorption of the national wealth by the State.

Employers, with their warehouses overcrowded with unsold and now probably unsalable goods, are in no hurry to make peace, and the toiling masses are feeling the pinch of poverty more keenly than at any time since the disastrous riots of 1898.

They are showing grim determination. Last month there were seventy-seven strikes, involving, according to the official statistics, some 16,000 workers, but these numbers are preposterously below the truth, for the rolls of the Chamber of Labor show that over 40,000 were involved in the metal trades alone. Unemployment is widespread.

The strike is reacting upon Rome, Naples, Geneva, and other big centres. The labor federations threaten to extend the strike over all Italy.

MRS. SAYRE'S NEW CHARITY.

Mother of Miss Wilson's Fiance Gives Plans for Maternity Home.

Mrs. Robert H. Sayre, mother of Francis B. Sayre, the fiancé of President Wilson's daughter, Miss Jessie Wilson, appeared before the Town Board of Babylon last night and asked that a tract of land between Great South Bay and the ocean be leased to her so that she could erect there a home for women who are about to become mothers. The board thought well of the plan, and informed Mrs. Sayre that if she made formal application before its next meeting her project would probably be got through at that time.

Mrs. Sayre plans to establish an institution consisting of five buildings, to serve as educational, social, and feeding centres before the birth of the infants of inmates. Funds for the buildings, which are to include dining room, sitting room, kitchen, and laundry, and cottages containing single rooms for 100 mothers, will be supplied by a wealthy woman whose name is to be made public later.

Mrs. Sayre has been interested in baby welfare work for some time. She explained to the Town Board of Babylon last night that she considers the land at Great South Beach one of the healthiest spots on the coast, ideally located for a home where women in poor financial circumstances or frail health might spend three or four months before the birth of their children.

MAYOR ON A PARK BENCH.

He Visits the Battery and Youngsters Get Ice Cream Money.

While the Interborough's Subway Band was playing in Battery Park last night Mayor Gaynor was discovered sitting on one of the benches, and from that moment the music was merely an accompaniment. A fascinated circle saw one of the Mayoral knees occupied by a small boy, who faltered out that his name was Michael Donovan.

"Donovan?" exclaimed the Mayor. "Why, when I saw you keeping time I thought you were a little Italian boy."

"But that was an Irish tune, Your Honor," explained Father Henry of the Home for Irish Immigrant Girls.

When young Donovan slipped down a quarter was gleaming in his hand and thereafter the attentions of the crowd of youngsters became oppressive. They eyed the Mayor lovingly and those who got near enough left immediately for a neighboring ice cream parlor.

PAVLOVA IN ROW ON STAGE.

Strikes Novikoff While Dancing with Him—Both Walk Off.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Friday, Aug. 8.—At the Palace Theatre last night Mme. Pavlova, while dancing with Novikoff, suddenly dealt him a blow on the shoulder. Novikoff immediately left the stage, and, although the dance had hardly begun Mme. Pavlova also walked off through the opposite wing. The orchestra was left to finish the piece to an empty stage.

Another item of the programme in which the two should have appeared was canceled. Mme. Pavlova danced two more dances, but Novikoff did not reappear.

CANTON IN PERIL.

Many Killed in Battle There—British Reinforcements Arrive.

CANTON, Aug. 7.—Five hundred men were killed or wounded in the fighting between the Northern Government troops and the rebels at the east gate of Canton, which was attacked by two divisions of the Northern army yesterday.

The position of the city is regarded as serious.

Reinforcements, consisting of a detachment of an Indian regiment from Hongkong, have arrived to guard the lives and property of foreigners in the Shameen district.

BURGLARS AT BAY IN MINE.

Posse with Bloodhounds Trails and Surrounds Ohio Safeblowers.

STEUBENVILLE, Ohio, Aug. 7.—Three burglars who blew open the safe and wrecked the Post Office at Richmond, Ohio, nine miles west of here, this morning, were cornered by the Sheriff and a posse with bloodhounds in an abandoned coal mine near Aldamont Hill, south of here, to-day. Their capture is expected before many hours.

The burglars got $150 in money and stamps. The explosion roused everybody in the village, and they saw the men getting away in a buggy, but made no attempt to stop them because of lack of arms and ammunition.

STOCK TAKES QUEER TRIP.

Lost in Wall Street, It Is Found in a Gutter in 135th Street.

An envelope containing $9,000 in certified checks and $1,500 worth of negotiable Standard Oil stock was sent by a messenger boy on Tuesday afternoon to a customer of the brokerage firm of Bywater & Frambach of 25 Broad Street. At 2 o'clock on that afternoon the boy returned with the checks and the report that he had lost the stock somewhere in Wall Street.

At opening time next morning the firm was notified by telephone that Bernard Keller, a chauffeur living at 609 West 135th Street, on his way home late Tuesday night had seen a big envelope lying in the gutter in front of his home, had picked it up, examined it, and found inside the missing stock—intact.

The firm paid him a reward of $20, and is still wondering how the stock got from Wall Street to 135th Street and how, since it was going, it came to stop there.

SAVES BOY BY 2-MILE SWIM.

Swimming Instructor at Mother's Plea Goes Out to Child Adrift.

Special to The New York Times.

STAMFORD, Conn., Aug. 7.—After swimming two miles through a rough sea, Joseph O'Neil, swimming instructor at Casino Beach here, rescued Sidney Newstead, the young son of Herman Newstead, a Stamford merchant, in Long Island Sound this afternoon.

Newstead was in a rowboat. When some distance off the beach he lost both oars. Wind and tide sent the boat toward mid-Sound. Newstead waved his arms and called for assistance. His mother ran up and down the beach calling for some one to save her son.

O'Neil plunged into the water and set out in pursuit of the boat. The chase was watched by hundreds. O'Neil gained steadily on the boat. Reaching it, he made Newstead lie down in the boat. After a rest he again took to the water and got the oars, floating not far away. Then O'Neil climbed into the boat and rowed back to the beach. He was cheered by the onlookers and received the fervent thanks of the little boy's mother.

POLICEWOMEN MAKE ARREST

First in Chicago by New Force—A Woman the Prisoner.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 7.—"Madam, you are under arrest; we are officers of the law," announced Policewoman Margaret Wilson, who, accompanied by Policewoman Margaret Butler, took Mrs. Nellie Cameron into custody to-night at North Clark and West Erie Streets on a charge of disorderly conduct.

Mrs. Cameron, who is 23 years old, attracted the attention of the policewomen and they made the first arrest credited to the new addition to the force. The prisoner was walked to a patrol box, where a detective telephoned for the patrol wagon.

Both policewomen were almost unnerved, when some one in the crowd shouted, "Three cheers for the women 'cops' and their first arrest." When the wagon arrived Mrs. Cameron was turned over to the "wagon man" and the policewomen resumed their "beat."

MOVE TO IMPEACH OR INDICT SULZER

Steps to Remove the Governor from Office to be Taken When Legislature Reconvenes.

MAJORITY FOR IMPEACHMENT

But Some Members of Frawley Committee Fear a Cry That This Is "Politics."

NEW $250 CHECK FOUND

SULZER TO EXPLAIN LATER

Secretary Promises "Full and Frank Statement" After He Learns All That the Inquiry Develops.

Unless there is a change in the plans of the legislative leaders, some definite step looking to the removal from office of Gov. Sulzer will be taken when the Legislature reconvenes at the Capitol next week. This was learned after the session of the Frawley Investigating Committee ended yesterday afternoon.

Senator James J. Frawley, Chairman of the committee, shares with the other members of that body and with Eugene Lamb Richards, its counsel, the view that enough evidence has been adduced to prove that Gov. Sulzer violated that section of the Corrupt Practices Acts which requires a political candidate to file with the Secretary of State a full and detailed statement of all contributions received and all expenses, above $5, incurred during his campaign. The consensus of the committee is that any evidence on that point from now on will be merely cumulative.

While there is practical unanimity among the members of the committee and its counsel on this point, there is marked difference of opinion regarding the method to be used in seeking to oust the Governor from office. Some members of the committee hold that the evidence that has been brought out regarding the Sulzer campaign fund has been sufficient to show that the Governor himself knew that large contributions, which had been received, were not listed on the Governor's sworn statement filed with the Secretary of State, and therefore that ample ground has been furnished to ask for the Governor's indictment for violation of the Corrupt Practices Act. His conviction on such a charge, it was said yesterday, would bar him automatically not only from retaining his present office, but from holding any public office in the future, although the offence in itself is only a misdemeanor.

Those who hold the view that the committee should try to get Gov. Sulzer out of office by indictment and conviction, admit that they are influenced in a measure by the fear that if the Legislature, controlled as it is by Tammany Hall, should proceed to impeach the Governor, the cry of politics would be raised and a public sentiment in favor of Gov. Sulzer possibly would be aroused. With the aid of the courts invoked, it is held that no such contention could be made successfully.

Wish to Impeach Governor.

Other members of the committee believe that the Legislature should make no attempt to shirk responsibility, but should proceed on the ground that the disclosures already made have shown Gov. Sulzer to be unfit to hold his office These members of the committee take the ground that the Governor's efforts to block the inquiry into the administration of his campaign fund, as well as the disclosures made at the committee hearings and the refusal of witnesses to answer questions have convinced the people of the State that where there is so much smoke there must be some fire.

The advocates of impeachment proceedings are said to be a majority of the committee, and the opinion expressed yesterday was that this procedure would be followed. As a vehicle for quick action—and this is what the opponents of Gov. Sulzer desire above all things—the Legislature, with its heavy Democratic majority and its friendly machine element on the Republican side, is looked upon as far more likely to carry out their plans than are the courts.

Should the Governor's case be taken to the courts there would be appeals and all sorts of opportunities for dilatory tactics, which beyond doubt would defer the final decision in the case until after the Assembly elections, in November. Gov. Sulzer's friends are planning at the election to obtain a vote of confidence for him which would imply a vote of censure for his political enemies as well. Dread of that verdict may have influenced those who are advocating impeachment proceedings which would be concluded in a short time comparatively, from which there could be no possible appeal.

Witnesses Fail to Respond.

The big crowd which filled the Council Chamber at the City Hall yesterday was disappointed, for the session of the Frawley Committee was marked by no sensational disclosures of any kind. In fact, very little testimony was taken. Most of the witnesses who were subpoenaed did not respond. The general absenteeism on the part of witnesses made it necessary for the committee to meet again to-day, much against the wishes of Chairman Frawley and the other members.

The absence of witnesses, according to Eugene Lamb Richards, counsel for the committee, prevented the adding of several new items to the list of contributions which testimony has shown were made to the Sulzer campaign fund and for some reason were omitted from Gov. Sulzer's sworn statement, filed with the Secretary of State. Only one addition to the list was made yesterday, a check for $250, contributed by Peter Doelger, the brewer.

If witnesses subpoenaed by the committee appear at to-day's session, Mr. Richards says that he will increase by several thousand dollars the contributions to Gov. Sulzer's campaign which have been concealed up to the present time.

In succession Mr. Richards yesterday called the names of witnesses representing F. Augustus Heinze of copper fame, who the committee believes contributed $1,000 to the Sulzer campaign; Archibald S. White, who, it is believed, gave a large sum; Baruch Brothers, the bankers and brokers, who, according to information which has reached the committee, figured in a money transaction with Gov. Sulzer which will have an important bearing on the present inquiry; Herbert Lehman of Lehman Brothers, and Samuel Uhlmann, a dealer in hops at 17 Battery Place. Mr. Uhlmann gave $300 to the Sulzer campaign, and Mr. Sulzer failed to include this contribution in his sworn statement. None of the witnesses representing these firms and individuals responded. The principals, according to Mr. Richards, are in Europe.

Mr. Richards says he believes that there are hundreds of contributions for which no accounting has been made, and he points to the large deposits made to the credit of the Sulzer account in the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company. From a balance of $1,100 just before Mr. Sulzer's nomination this account increased to more than $24,000 during the month of October last. There were deposits of $12,000 during the same period to the credit of the Sarecky account in the Mutual Alliance Trust Company. Mr. Sarecky deposited some contributions for Sulzer.

It is believed that before the committee finishes its hearings some inquiry will be made as to the amount contributed to the Sulzer campaign by William R. Hearst. The committee, it is said, has in its possession information showing that a representative of Mr. Hearst went to Gov. Sulzer at the opening of the campaign and asked the Governor to name the size of the contribution he thought the former Independence Leaguer ought to make.

The campaign contribution from Peter Doelger, according to the testimony brought out yesterday, reached Mr. Sulzer through Charles A. Stadler of the American Malting Company. It is likely that Mr. Stadler will be asked to testify before the committee. Mr. Richards has received reports showing that large contributions were made by the George Ehret brewing interests, by persons representing the Lion Brewery, and by Jacob Ruppert. Mr. Ruppert was associated with Gov. Sulzer in Congress and in some Alaska business ventures.

Looking for Henry T. Oxnard.

It was learned also that subpoena servers for the committee have been trying to find Henry T. Oxnard, the beet sugar leader, who has shown a marked interest in the past in legislation affecting the race tracks. Mr. Richards would not say yesterday whether Mr. Oxnard would be questioned regarding the Sulzer campaign fund.

Mr. Richards asked Chairman Frawley at yesterday's session to take steps to bring before the Legislature for contempt Melville D. Fuller, the Wall Street broker; Frederick L. Colwell, and Louis A. Sarecky, Mr. Sulzer's confidential clerk, all of whom have declined to answer questions regarding the Sulzer campaign fund and stock transactions.

Colwell admitted on the stand Wednesday that he frequently discussed stocks with Mr. Sulzer, but declined to answer a question whether he acted for the Governor in the purchase of the 200 shares of Big Four stock entered in the anonymous "Account 500" on the books of the brokerage firm of Fuller & Gray.

Threat of Contempt Proceedings.

"I have communicated with counsel for these witnesses," said Mr. Richards, "and have waited in vain this morning to hear that they would come here and testify. I have waited twenty-four hours. I ask the Chairman of this committee to direct these witnesses to come here to-morrow and answer the questions put to them which they refused to answer before.

"Should they persist in their refusal after this additional time of grace, I ask that they be brought before the Legislature when that body meets next Monday night. I believe the Legislature wants quick action. I am sure I do.

"The Legislature can deal with them far more quickly and effectively than can the courts. The case of Republican State Chairman William Barnes, which has been cited so frequently by the Governor, shows that there was delay of two months and more before a conclusion was reached, and then nothing was done."

Mr. Richards said that under Chapter 27, sub-division four of the legislative law, the witnesses, should they fail to purge themselves of the contempt charges, can be kept in jail as long as the Legislature is in session. It was pointed out that there can be no appeal from the decree of the Legislature nor any review, not even through habeas corpus proceedings.

At the opening of the hearing Mr. Richards took up a new line of inquiry pursued on Wednesday, when an attempt was made to show that Gov. Sulzer had used part of the contributions made to his campaign fund in stock transactions, carried on through the firm of Fuller & Gray. At that time "Account 500" on the books of that firm, when scrutinized, showed that its anonymous sponsor, whom the committee contends is Gov. Sulzer, had purchased 200 shares of Big Four stock. Mr. Richards yesterday succeeded in showing through the first witness he called that 100 shares of the same stock had been bought for cash through the firm of Boyer, Griswold & Co., and that the stock had been delivered to Frederick L. Colwell, who on the stand had declined to say whether he was Mr. Sulzer's agent in the speculative market. Mr. Richards attempted to connect this new deal in Big Four with the check contributed by John Lynn, brother of Judge Wauhope Lynn. This check, which was put in evidence on Wednesday, for some reason had been certified. It bore the indorsement of Boyer, Griswold & Co.

Only four witnesses were examined at the session yesterday. The first of these was Philip Boyer, a private banker, who said he lived at Manhasset, L. I. Mr. Boyer said he was the senior member of the firm of Boyer, Griswold & Co. until it went out of business last March. Now he is associated with the brokerage firm of W. C. Langley & Co. at 10 Wall Street. Mr. Boyer identified the Lynn check and the indorsement of his old firm.

Colwell Paid Cash for Stock.

"Do you know Frederick L. Colwell?" asked Mr. Richards.

"I do," said the witness. "He came to us last Fall and asked if he could obtain 100 shares of Big Four stock if he paid cash for it. We opened an account, probably in Colwell's name. He paid for the stock and got it."

"Was this check given to your firm in part payment?" asked Mr. Richards.

"I do not know," said the witness.

"If a check was used in a cash transaction like this, it would, as a matter of course, have to be certified?"

"Yes, sir," Mr. Boyer replied.

"Did the firm of Boyer, Griswold & Co. carry an account for William Sulzer?" the witness was asked. He replied in the negative.

Before Mr. Boyer was excused, Mr. Richards arranged with him for the production of the books of his old firm and for the appearance of some of its employes who may be able to tell whether the Lynn check was presented [illegible] part payment for the Big Four stock. "What is the purpose of this line [illegible] investigation?" asked Senator Fraw[illegible]

"[illegible] want to prove that the Lynn [illegible] went into a stock transaction," [illegible] Mr. Richards. "We want to [illegible] further that the man to whom [illegible] was delivered was Frederick [illegible], that he bought Big Four [illegible] Boyer, Griswold & Co., and [illegible] Big Four stock from Fuller [illegible] on Account 500, and that con[illegible] to the Sulzer campaign fund [illegible] to pay for both purchases."

[illegible]mmert, a clerk in the employ of [illegible] W. Myers, former Con[illegible] this city, now in the bank[illegible] at 20 New Street, was the [illegible]. Mr. Myers is a warm frien[illegible] Sulzer. He is abroad. Mr. [illegible] was asked if he had looke[illegible] the canceled checks returned [illegible] Myers's bank, and if any of the[illegible] the indorsement of William Su[illegible]. Mammert said he had made such a search, but found no checks on which Mr. Sulzer's name appeared. He said there were several checks to "Cash" and to "Bearer," and he was directed to produce them before the committee to-day.

Charles Gotthelf of the American Flag Company, the third witness, had been subpoenaed to produce canceled checks and letters relating to a supposed contribution by him to the Sulzer campaign fund. Mr. Gotthelf said he had made no contribution to the fund.

"Did you get a letter from Gov. Sulzer telling you not to give us the information we seek?" asked Mr. Richards.

"I did not," the witness replied.

Mr. Richards then asked Valerian O'Farrell, a detective employed by the committee, to step forward.

"Did you not tell this gentleman that if the committee were after campaign contributions you had better destroy a letter from Gov. Sulzer which you had in your pocket?" asked Mr. Richards.

"I do not remember," said Mr. Gotthelf. "That is private business, anyhow, and you have no right to ask such questions."

"We are looking into your private affairs with Gov. Sulzer just now," said Lawyer Richards. "What is it, anyhow?"

"Oh, just friendship of many years' standing."

Suppressed Destruction of Letter.

Senator Frawley at this point asked the witness if he had told the detective that he had better destroy a letter in his pocket from the Governor, and the witness said he had never said that.

"But you did destroy the letter, nevertheless," insisted Senator Frawley.

The witness said that he probably did, but that the letter was unimportant and had no bearing on the inquiry.

"Do you keep a bank account?" asked Mr. Richards. Gotthelf said that he did.

"Will you produce your vouchers and your check books here to-morrow?" asked Mr. Richards.

"I won't promise that until I have consulted my attorney," said the witness. Finally he compromised by promising to make a new search for the Sulzer letter, which he said in all probability had been destroyed.

The committee had been waiting long for witnesses who failed to respond, and was on the point of adjourning when one of the absentees appeared. He was Henry A. Keckheuser, a clerk in the employ of Peter Doelger, Jr., the brewer. He produced the check for $250 which had been contributed to the Sulzer campaign fund, which the Governor had not acknowledged. The check was drawn on the Yorkville Bank and had been indorsed by Sarecky and placed to his account in the Mutual Alliance Trust Company.

At the opening of the hearing yesterday a letter was read from the Rev. O. R. Miller, who recently accused three unnamed Tammany members of the Senate of demanding a $10,000 bribe from a mercantile agency in this city. Mr. Miller had been asked by Senator Frawley to testify before the committee. In his letter he said he would appear before the committee any time next week, but insisted that he must be represented by counsel, as he was unfamiliar with "the devious ways of the law."

"I have not received any answer from Gov. Sulzer to the invitation we sent to him to appear," said Mr. Richards. "Well, the Governor has scarcely had time to answer," said Senator Frawley.

The committee will meet again this afternoon.

SECRETARY TALKS FOR SULZER

Promises Full Statement Later—Does Law Require Full Report of Receipts?

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Aug. 7.—Gov. Sulzer returned to Albany this morning several hours earlier than he had intended when he left here yesterday. To all questions about the testimony adduced before the Frawley Committee relative to his campaign funds he replied that he had nothing to say. He, however, did say that his Secretary, Chester C. Platt, had prepared a statement which must answer for the present. This answer by proxy is against the advice of the Governor's friends, who advised him to say nothing until the investigation by the Frawley Committee is concluded. This is Mr. Platt's statement:

> The people understand the motives which actuate the Frawley Committee. They know who is behind it, and why the charges against the Governor are being made.
>
> Some of these charges are false, some are distorted truths, easily explained, and some of the charges are insinuations about which, at present, the Governor is wholly ignorant.
>
> No one should be misled by the fragmentary and garbled testimony before the Frawley Committee as to funds received or expended in Gov. Sulzer's campaign last Fall. A full and frank statement of all the facts will be made just as soon as the Governor can learn exactly what are the facts. Money was received and paid out to promote the Governor's election of which he had no knowledge. He necessarily must delay making any statement until investigations now under way are finished.
>
> This much of an explanation may be made now: The law does not require a candidate for public office to make a statement of moneys received, but only of sums paid out. Those who made out the statement which the Governor signed, and which was filed with the Secretary of State, made a mistake in reporting any receipts, and, in fact, they reported receipts and expenditures which were not those of the Governor at all, but were the receipts and expenditures of a campaign committee which was working to promote the Governor's election.
> There is no law restricting the amount which such a committee had a right to receive and expend.

Mr. Platt's statement that the law does not require a candidate to make a statement of moneys received is questioned in the Secretary of State's office, where the statements have to be filed.

Section 546 of the election law provides that the statements shall in each case "include the amount received, the names of the persons or committee from whom received," and the date of its receipt. Section 547 provides that the campaign contributions shall be under the true name of the contributor. The Secretary of State furnishes the blank forms for the statements.

DELANEY NOW UNDER FIRE.

Sulzer Men Say He Has a Hospital for Tammany Derelicts.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Aug. 7.—John A. Hennessy, the Governor's investigator of State departments, to-day subpoenaed Matthew J. Horgan, Secretary of the Frawley Committee. Mr. Horgan is Deputy Commissioner of Efficiency and Economy, and is serving the Frawley Committee under a three months' leave of absence.

John H. Delaney, Commissioner of Efficiency and Economy, does not dispute the right of Mr. Hennessy to investigate the department. Delaney made nineteen appointments last week. He has been directed to produce the correspondence regarding them. Gov. Sulzer's friends say that the department has become "a hospital for Tammany derelicts."

Sulzer's friends accuse Mr. Delaney of treachery to the Governor and say the Governor will oust him.

Another indication of the bitterness of the political fight is shown in the dismissal of eight Albany men from places in the Highway Department. These men were dropped by Commissioner Carlisle. They are all Murphy-McCabe Democrats.

SHOWS WAY TO FRAWLEY.

Method by Which Facts About Account 500 Might Be Learned.

The information desired by the Frawley Investigating Committee relative to stock purchases can be obtained by the Governing Committee of the Stock Exchange, according to a member of the committee.

When he was asked what the attitude of the Exchange would be in case the Frawley committee should call upon the Exchange to aid it in its efforts to establish the identity of the owner of the mysterious account, "No. 500," and other accounts, a member of the Governing Committee said yesterday that he believed the Exchange, if called upon, undoubtedly would aid the committee

"There is no doubt that the Exchange authorities have power to ascertain from members all the facts regarding their dealing with customers," said this governor.

On April 4, 1910, a new rule was added to the by-laws of the Exchange which requires all members to have full knowledge of their customers. This addition to the by-laws says that every member of the Exchange shall be required to use diligence to learn the essential facts relating to every account accepted by himself or by his clerks, and also in regard to the possible use of a name for the account other than that of the person interested.

TRIES TO PROVE NO QUORUM.

Sulzer Questions Legislators About Disputed Session of July 23.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Aug. 7.—A personal canvass is being made by Chester C. Platt, Gov. Sulzer's secretary, to prove the Governor's recent statements that the bills certified as passed at the extraordinary session of the Legislature were not acted upon by a quorum. In order to do this Mr. Platt sent letters to the legislators, which included the following:

> By direction of the Governor, I am writing to ask you if you were present at the session of the Assembly on July 23. As questions of importance to the public welfare are involved, and as there is some dispute as to who were present and who were absent, it is desired to settle this dispute by a letter from each Assemblyman.

When Gov. Sulzer was asked if he had received many replies to the letter, he referred reporters to Mr. Platt, who replied that the matter was not very important.

DR. HARRIS NOT IN COURT.

Wife's Lawyer Complains That He Was Too Busy Playing Golf.

Dr. George Henry Harris of 616 Madison Avenue was not in court yesterday when his wife's application for $12 a week alimony was called before Justice Weeks. Maurice Meyer, attorney for Mrs. Harris, remarked:

"It's a shame that this doctor, who plays golf every day, cannot come into court at the proper time to tell why he doesn't want to pay his wife alimony. He finds time to go out and wander all over the links every day, but no time for his wife."

"If you'd hire a clerk who would not go to the ball games, but attend to the service of summonses, Dr. Harris would be here," retorted Thomas F. Walsh, the husband's lawyer.

Justice Weeks adjourned the case a day to learn whether Dr. Harris had been served properly. Mrs. Harris, who was a nurse before her marriage, and who first met her husband while they were attending the same patient, charges neglect. Her husband asserted that her jealousy of women patients had ruined his practice.

MUST STAY WITH HUSBAND.

Mrs. Clara Briner Tousey's Request for Separation Is Denied.

Supreme Court Justice Guy handed down a decision yesterday denying the application of Mrs. Clara Briner Tousey for a separation from her husband, Dr. Ralph Tousey of 160 West Seventy-seventh Street. Justice Guy found no merit in Mrs. Tousey's charges against her husband, whom she accused of being old-fashioned with respects to his ideals of womanhood. She also accused him of neglecting her companionship for the sake of his practice. She said his income was more than $10,000 a year and that he would inherit $100,000 on the death of his mother.

Dr. Tousey retorted that his wife's shopping had cost him in four years $11,000 more than his income. They were married in New York Sept. 11, 1909, and have a son, Ralph, three years

MITCHEL WRITES HIS OWN PLATFORM

Declares for Efficiency, Economy, and Non-Partisan Conduct of City's Business.

WOULD REFORM THE POLICE

And Favors Rigid Regulation of Service Corporations—Young Republicans Indorse His Ticket.

John Purroy Mitchel, Fusion candidate for Mayor, announced last night what he termed his general position in regard to matters of the first importance which will be considered in the coming campaign and which must receive the attention of the next administration. The announcement was in the form of a letter to Philip J. McCook, President of the New York Republican Club, the Executive Committee of which held a meeting at the Prince George Hotel and indorsed the Fusion municipal ticket.

In his letter, which is practically a declaration of his personal platform, Mr. Mitchel set forth the following as the questions of greatest importance to be determined by the next administration:

1. The enforcement, unqualifiedly, of non-partisanship in the conduct of the city's business.
2. Furtherance of efficiency and economy in the government of the city.
3. Vigorous treatment of the police question and the improvement of police administration.
4. An effort to obtain a home-rule charter, framed by local representatives, and adopted after referendum.
5. An effort to obtain direct, non-partisan primaries for all municipal elections.
6. Prompt construction of subways now provided for; vigorous enforcement of contract provisions, and continued development of rapid transit facilities.
7. Investigation of measures available to the City Government for reducing the cost of living by the establishment of a proper market system and adequate terminal facilities.
8. The extension of port and other terminal facilities, including the elimination of the New York Central tracks from Eleventh Avenue.
9. Effective regulation of public service corporations.
10. Adequate school accommodations and the development of an educational programme.

The Fusion candidate for Mayor then outlined his position regarding non-partisanship, rapid transit, and public service corporation regulation, as follows:

If elected Mayor I shall in no respect give a partisan or factional administration, or recognize partisan affiliation as a basis for any appointment or official act. I trust that my record in public office is a guarantee that this pledge will be literally executed.

Non-partisanship is the fundamental basis of fusion. It is also a principle which I have always held should be applied in the business of municipal government. If I lent myself in the administration of the government to the development or upbuilding of any faction or group after election to the Mayoralty of this city I would consider that I had been false to the first and most fundamental of my compacts with the citizenship of this city.

My aim, if elected, will be to co-operate with and obtain the support and counsel of the best in all parties, and to stand steadfast against everything else. I have made no pledge to any person or group, nor will I make any.

I have already said that while I differed with those who believed the terms of the contracts for the operation of the dual subway system were satisfactory from the point of view of the city, I, nevertheless, regard those contracts as now binding obligations upon the city, and, if elected, I propose to do all in my power to secure the construction of the new subways under and pursuant to the terms of those contracts, and to enforce in every way in my power a strict compliance with those terms on the part of the operating companies. In other words, I shall protect the integrity of the contracts.

I am in favor of enforcing, by all means at the command of the city, a thorough-going and effective regulation of public service corporations. I am in favor of municipal operation only as an expedient when regulation fails to protect the community against bad service or excessive rates.

It has been suggested recently that I unqualifiedly advocated municipal operation of our rapid transit system. This is wholly untrue, as an examination of the records of my speeches during the past three and a half years will amply demonstrate. My position on that question was that municipal operation was unnecessary; that we could secure a satisfactory private contractor on terms such as would insure to the city both control and a fair share of the net income of the enterprise, but that in the last analysis, if driven thereto by the obduracy of public operators, I would prefer municipal operation to a complete surrender of control of the city's interest in the net earnings of the enterprise.

When the question of adopting resolutions indorsing the entire Fusion ticket came up, Frederick C. Tanner, Republican leader of the Twenty-fifth Assembly District, offered an amendment to have the indorsement apply only to the candidates for Mayor, Controller, President of the Board of Aldermen and District Attorney. He said the committee would make a mistake if it indorsed the candidates for Borough Presidents at this time, before it had been determined whether or not the Republican organization would accept them, and that it would be difficult enough to get the head of the ticket through the Republican Designating Committee.

Mr. Tanner, who said he spoke the sentiments of District Attorney Whitman, as he had been advising him all day, attacked the members of the Fusion Committee of 107 who remained away when the vote on candidates was taken.

"Of all the mean, cheap politics I've seen played since I have been in the game, about the cheapest and meanest was indulged in by many of the minority members of that committee," said Mr. Tanner.

Charles E. Hughes, Jr., son of United States Supreme Court Justice Hughes, spoke against Mr. Tanner's resolution, saying that for the committee to withhold its indorsement of the entire Fusion ticket at this time would mean that they advised the rank and file of Republicans to split the ticket, and to do this would mean the triumph of Tammany.

Only eight of the twenty or so members of the committee voted with Mr. Tanner.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—Twenty million dollars of Government funds will be ready for deposit with the national banks in the crop sections of the country this month, another $20,000,000 in September, and $10,000,000 more, if necessary, in October.

This was the understanding which Southern bankers reached at the conference they had to-day in the Pan-American Building with Secretary McAdoo and Assistant Secretary John Skelton Williams of the Treasury Department relative to the Government's proposal to deposit funds with the national banks of the South and West for the forthcoming crop movement. Over 100 bankers from thirty-six Southern cities were present.

To-morrow there will be a similar conference with bankers from all the crop-raising States of the West.

The Southern men, while not authorized to make any statement as to the details of to-day's conference, are of the impression that if $40,000,000 of Government money is placed on deposit, $20,000,000 will go to the Southern banks and $20,000,000 to the Western banks. The exact amount of money to be deposited has not been determined.

The Southern bankers indicated how much money they would want. All their statements were noted stenographically, but have not been transcribed or studied by the Treasury officals. The conference was held behind closed doors, and it was impossible to obtain from the Treasury Department to-night any statement of the amounts of the applications further than the fact that the requests ranged all the way from $100,000 to $5,000,000.

If the whole $50,000,000 proposed to be deposited were distributed among the Southern banks of the thirty-six cities represented at the conference, each city would receive an average of about $1,500,000. But the money is also to be shared probably about equally with the West, and this means that the average for the Southern cities would not be over $750,000 a city. Each city will not, it is understood, receive the same amount, as the money distribution will be based on the size of the applications somewhat, but more particularly upon the need for making such deposits in the different cities.

President Charles Godchaux of the Whitney Central National Bank of New Orleans made the largest application. He thought that $5,000,000 should be placed at the disposal of the national banks of New Orleans. If this request were granted on an allotment of $20,000,000 for the South, it would leave only $15,000,000 for the rest of that section. The bankers of Memphis, Chattanooga, and Nashville indicated that these three cities would want about $3,000,000 between them. Memphis wants $600,000, and Chattanooga $300,000, Senator Lea said.

A representative of the Baltimore Clearing House announced that Baltimore would want about $4,000,000.

It is apparent from the figures quoted that the possible $50,000,000 of Government deposits that might be made available for the South and West would not cover the amounts which the Southern bankers want.

Owing to the value of the cotton crop, Texas indicated that it would have the greatest crop movement of any Southern State. It was explained by the Texas bankers that it would take $400,000,000 to move the State's cotton crop this year, and it must be moved in ninety days. They said the crop would be financed in the usual manner without Government aid, if necessary, but that owing to market conditions all the help that the Government could give would be gladly received and would relieve the general financial strain.

The Texas bankers did not state any specific figure, but will cheerfully accept all the Federal aid they can obtain. They indicated that they want the Government deposits only for the time actually required to get the export movement of cotton well under way, as the foreign gold would afterward begin to come in.

John Skelton Williams, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, in the course of a statement he issued to-night concerning the conference, said:

"Secretary McAdoo explained the aims and purposes of the Department relative to the proposed deposit of Government funds at this season; the general character of the security which he will require; the time proposed for making the deposit with the banks and the time suggested for their withdrawal; and invited comments and recommendations from the assembled bankers in regard to the details in carrying out the plan.

"The Chairman of each delegation explained conditions in their respective sections, indicated the amount of money which they would like to have deposited in each city represented, and discussed generally the details of the arrangement.

"The Secretary proposed to accept as security for deposits Government bonds and high-class State, municipal, and other bonds of unquestioned standing and also prime commercial paper. All Government bonds will be accepted at par; all other bonds must be passed upon by the Secretary, and when approved will be accepted at 75 per cent. of their market value. All commercial paper offered must be passed upon by a committee of six in each city, composed of five members of the Clearing House Association and one additional member not a member of the Clearing House, who shall be the special representative of the department.

"It is proposed that one-half of the amount allotted to each bank will be deposited with that bank in August, the other 50 per cent. in September. Of the funds deposited, 33 per cent. shall be returned by Dec. 15, 25 per cent. by Jan. 15, 25 per cent. by Feb. 15, and the remaining 25 per cent. by March 1. Some of the bankers present expressed a desire to return the entire deposit on or before Jan. 1, and all agreed that the whole amount should be returned not later than March 1."

President Wilson received the bankers in the afternoon and delivered a brief address. On reassembling, Senator Owen and Congressman Glass explained the provisions of the Currency bill.

Secretary McAdoo emphasized the determination of the Government to protect and maintain its credit, saying that all of its obligations, direct and implied, would be fully and faithfully carried out.

Votes of thanks to the administration for offering to aid the crop movement and to Mr. Owen and Mr. Glass were passed.

TAKE GRAVE VIEW OF HUERTA NOTE

Mexico and the United States the situation is critical.

What is feared most by members of Congress is that Mr. Lind's presence in Mexico City may cause anti-American demonstrations that will rouse popular feeling in this country and cause a widespread demand that the Mexican troubles be brought to an end.

Administration officials are inclined to take the view that Senator Clark of Wyoming and other Republicans in Congress are actuated by partisan motives in trying to force the issue involved in the Mexican situation. This is the main reason in justification of the Administration's refusal to consult the Republicans with regard to the steps now under way to bring order out of the chaos south of the Rio Grande.

William C. Lyons of Denver, who has been in Washington trying to obtain an appointment to the Consular Service, has been designated to go to Mexico City in connection with the mission of Mr. Lind. In what capacity he has been chosen is not disclosed. Mr. Lyons is a Democratic leader in Denver. He does not speak Spanish and has had no experience in diplomacy. Secretary Bryan made the choice. Mr. Lyons will go to Denver to-morrow and proceed thence to Mexico City.

Gloomy View in Senate.

The tangled relations of the United States and Mexico were the subject of debate in the Senate to-day when friends of the Administration as well as its critics, admitted that ex-Gov. Lind's mission practically was hopeless.

The debate arose over the resolution of Senator Clark of Wyoming, directing the Committee on Foreign Relations to investigate and report to the Senate conditions in Mexico, and recommendations for their betterment. It was in his effort to stave off a vote on the resolution that Chairman Bacon, who all along had stood by the President, expressed his doubts of Mr. Lind's success. In the end, after over an hour's debate, the resolution was displaced by the Tariff bill, and went to the calendar, to be taken up only by an affirmative vote of the Senate.

Mr. Bacon had supported the President's policy of cautious delay with the utmost loyalty, and the dark picture he drew of what might be expected to follow Mr. Lind's failure, made a profound impression upon the Senate. He already had intimated that little was to be expected from the mediatory endeavors of the President's confidential adviser at the American Embassy at Mexico City, when the telegram addressed by the Mexican Foreign Office to the American Department of State, asserting that unless Mr. Lind brought credentials and recognition of the provisional Government, his presence would be undesirable.

Mr. Lind carries no credentials, and President Wilson has made it plain that under no circumstances will he recognize Gen. Huerta's rule. These facts were in the minds of Senators when Mexico's message was read.

One of the most interesting suggestions in Mr. Bacon's presentation of the Administration's side of the question was that President Wilson's primary purpose in sending Mr. Lind to Mexico was not to accomplish peace, but to prove to the world that the United States desired peace.

Mr. Bacon made no attempt to deny the delicacy of Mr. Lind's mission, but the mere fact that he had been sent on an errand of peace, the Senator said, might prove of great moral value to the United States should stronger tactics become necessary.

Oddly enough Mr. Bacon's most open intimation that armed intervention hung in the balance was conveyed in his argument to the Senate that there was a chance that Mr. Lind might succeed. That intimation came when he said that Gen. Huerta's refusal to receive Mr. Lind might have been issued in a moment of irritation. A different attitude might be found, he said, by the time Mr. Lind reached the City of Mexico and the danger of rejecting his proposals, in which all civilized countries support the United States, was brought home to the Mexican officials.

The debate began as soon as Senator Bacon asked that Mr. Clark's resolution be referred to his committee.

"Ordinarily," said Mr. Clark, "I would be guided by the wisdom and long experience of the Senator from Georgia, (Mr. Bacon.) But I cannot, in view of existing conditions, consent to his suggestion. The Senate for months, yes, for years, has been trying to get light on the Mexican situation.

"The President may have a policy, but we don't know what it is. He is now sending his third personal representative to Mexico. Lives are being lost and nothing is being done. This resolution should not be referred. We should investigate for our own part as the Administration has investigated. We need the information that has not been given to us. If we had had this information several months ago, many Americans who are now dead in Mexico would be alive. Nothing is more important than the protection of our citizens. Yet no one in Mexico is so poor as to claim allegiance to the United States. We have instead the humiliating reflection that American citizens are appealing to foreign embassies for protection."

Bacon Counsels Caution.

"I heartily agree with the Senator," replied Mr. Bacon, "that nothing more important is before the Senate and the attention of the American people. But if that is true, there is no higher duty on us than to approach the subject with the utmost gravity.

"The Senate is not in the dark as to what is going on. We know what is being done. We stand in the face of an unspeakable danger. Our desire is that peace be restored in Mexico and that persons and property be safeguarded.

"The President is seeking the best results through peaceful means. That much is a known fact, not through irresponsible newspaper paragraphs, but by the official announcement of the Secretary of State for the President that the United States has formulated a plan to accomplish these ends by peace and is now trying to put the plan into execution.

"Senators may say the plan will not succeed. Ecery one recognizes that the situation is one of great difficulty. And every one recognizes that in a situation of extreme difficulty, there is no certainty of success. But every chance, no matter how small, should have our best efforts instead of being repudiated in advance. The President has openly sent his personal representative in the hope of bringing about peaceful results."

"Hasn't the Senator received a copy of the telegram from the Mexican Minister of Foreign Affairs?" interrupted Mr. Fall.

"I know to what the Senator refers," replied Mr. Bacon.

Mr. Fall then read the telegram, which Mr. Bacon admitted he had received from private sources.

"I might have come to that myself," went on Mr. Bacon, "and to the suggestion that the chance of success is small. But this answer from the de facto Government should not be considered until it is put into effect.

Nations Will Back America.

"When Mr. Lind reaches Mexico, the reply may be different. The situation may have changed. And with the recognition of the danger of a failure of his mission, with a recognition that in what the Government of the United States has undertaken—to aid a sister republic in the restoration of order—every civilized country of the world backs up the United States, it is not to be assumed that Mexico will reject our proposals. This possibility is not weakened by any message that may have been sent to us in a moment of heat and irritation.

"The situation now before us is infinitely greater than what preceded the Spanish war. Our intervention in Cuba was a tempest in a teapot in comparison with what would be necessary to restore order and maintain it, as we would have to, for a generation or two. The President before this unspeakable emergency, in good faith and as a man of integrity, has undertaken a policy, and we should not adopt a resolution based on an assumption of its failure. There are many things it is difficult to refrain from saying on this matter, but I do refrain."

Smith Talks of Lobby.

Mr. Smith of Michigan then charged that the President had been guided by a lobby from Mexico rather than by official advices.

"The President may be misled as well as others," said Mr. Smith. "He may have misinformation. So far things have gone on in a way to bring no credit to this country. There has been nothing that measures up to the dignity and importance of this country in the Western world."

Before the debate closed Mr. Clark denied any intention of affronting the President, but the situation, he said, was bigger than the President or any other citizen. The Senate, he said, needed information and he asked that his resolution go over until to-morrow without prejudice. At the suggestion of Senator Hoke Smith, however, the resolution was forced to the foot of the calendar.

LONDON SEES A CRISIS.

Mexican Relations at Breaking Point, Says The Times.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—A sensation has been created here by the news that the Huerta Government has declined to receive John Lind as President Wilson's unofficial representative. The London Times has received a cablegram from Manuel Garza Aldape, Acting Secretary of State in Mexico, containing the official statement given out in Mexico City declaring that if Mr. Lind fails to produce credentials in proper form, accompanied by recognition of the Government, his presence in the country will not be acceptable. The Times considers that this brings the strain of the relations between Mexico and the United States to the breaking point.

"Huerta," says The Times, "evidently is determined to defy the American Government and persist in his refusal to resign the Presidency or allow foreigners to take a hand in the pacification of the country."

A Mexico City dispatch to The London Times says it is reported that the Catholic Party, now in convention to nominate candidates for the Presidency and Vice Presidency, decided not to propose candidates but to continue to support Huerta in his work of pacifying the country. If this is true, undoubtedly the position of the Government will be enormously strengthened.

LIND SAILS FROM GALVESTON.

Envoy on Board the New Hampshire—Due at Vera Cruz To-night.

Special to The New York Times.

GALVESTON, Texas, Aug. 7.—John Lind, who is on his way to Mexico as the representative of President Wilson, reached Galveston at 4:40 o'clock this morning on a special Interurban train from Houston, having been delayed several hours on account of a wreck. He immediately took an automobile to the water front, and there boarded a waiting tender from the battleship New Hampshire, which took him aboard the warship.

The New Hampshire sailed for Vera Cruz at 10 o'clock this morning, going under full head of steam and with orders to reach that port as soon as possible. She should arrive at Vera Cruz on Friday night.

Mr. Lind was reticent when questioned by interviewers here.

"I do not know how long I will remain in Mexico," he said.

"I do not expect the Ambassadorship to be offered to me, and if it is I shall decline to accept it. My mission to Mexico, I believe, has already been well defined and I shall communicate with no one except the President."

When told of Huerta's statements appearing in the press dispatches this morning and of the attitude of other Mexican officials, Mr. Lind said that he could form no opinion on this matter until he was thoroughly acquainted with all the facts in the case.

AMERICANS REACH SAFETY.

Prisoners Fired On as They Fled—Rebels Routed in Battle.

Special to The New York Times.

EL PASO, Texas, Aug. 7.—After being arrested and imprisoned, their guide shot, and their lives threatened, Charles Biesel, Bernard McDonald, and Ray Harrell, three Americans, were liberated at Chihuahua City only to be fired upon by Federals from the troop trains at Villa Ahumada on Wednesday when they were returning to El Paso by automobile.

They reached here late to-night, after having as harrowing an experience on the return trip as they did when they were arrested en route to Santa Barbara.

Harrell, the American automobile owner, who lost his car at Chihuahua, said of the experience:

"We were into Santa Rosali and in the hands of the Federal outposts before we knew it. We were arrested and taken to Chihuahua City by the Federals. The first stop they made they shot our guide, Salvador Gonzales, a ranchman. They threatened us next. We were placed in prison in Chihuahua as soon as we reached the State capital.

"The jail was dirty, as all Mexican jails are, and we did not know when we were to be tried or put to death. American Consul Letcher did everything possible for us, and finally obtained our liberty after the State Department had demanded our release. They kept my car, but we rented one in Chihuahua and started back to the States. On the way from Chihuahua the Federals opened fire on us, and the bullets struck all around us. We were again arrested by the Federals, but showed our passports and were released.

"Our experience was one we do not care to repeat, for we fully expected to be executed at the time our guide was. Our treatment from the Federals was fair, but nothing to brag about, as they did not show any love for us."

Covered with dust from the Chihuahua Desert, two train loads of Mexican rebel wounded arrived here to-day from the front at Rancheria, where the first defeat was administered to the rebel arms by the Federals in command of Col. Enrique Mancilla on Tuesday and Wednesday. The men had been on the road two days, and had suffered untold tortures. Two men died from their wounds on the way to Guadalupe, and another is expected to die to-night.

Another, a mere boy, was hit by a Federal Mauser bullet, which exploded and tore his face away. That the battle was a victory for the Federal arms was conceded by the wounded men and verified by telegraphic dispatches from Chihuahua. Pancho Villa, for some reason, failed to join Ortega and the little band of 900 had to withstand the artillery and machine gun assault of 2,000 Federals.

The first battle lasted throughout Tuesday, the wounded leaving the battlefield at noon. The troop trains arrived at Chihuahua on Wednesday night after fighting their way through the rebel lines. One troop train returned to Juarez to-night with wounded Federals on board. There were twenty of these wounded men. The rebels have brought in thirty wounded and more are expected to-night. The total loss in dead and wounded is estimated to be 325 evenly divided between Federal and rebel forces.

The rebels who arrived here tell of treachery of the Federals, who marched toward them with a white flag as if to bury their dead and care for their wounded. Instead, the Federals opened fire on the rebel wounded as they lay on the ground, and then engaged the rebels at close range, much of the fighting being done with pistols at hand-to-hand range. After the Federals had shot several prisoners, the rebels put six Federal prisoners to death.

HUERTA MAY IGNORE LIND.

Mexican President's Position Is Strengthened by "Defiance" of Us.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 7.—President Huerta's prestige among Mexicans in the capital undoubtedly has been strengthened by what is regarded as his defiance of the United States, although many consider that he acted precipitately. Just what attitude Huerta will assume toward John Lind, President Wilson's personal representative, is a matter for speculation; but whether he shall be expelled or merely ignored remains undetermined.

Conservative Mexicans believe that Huerta will not drive Mr. Lind from the country, but will be content with ignoring him, except, perhaps, for subjecting him to surveillance in order to see that he does nothing possible of being construed as mixing in the politics of the country.

Unless a radical change is effected in the sentiment at the palace, Mr. Lind will not have an opportunity to talk with President Huerta, nor will he be successful in meeting any other official of the Government.

The native newspapers praise Huerta's declaration that Mr. Lind will be persona non grata. The Independiente calls it "irreproachable logic." The Imparcial says it will present to all nations the attitude of Mexico in the face of the menace of intervention by the American Government. El Pais says "the dignity and decorum of Mexico are in firm hands."

According to a consular despatch from Torreon, a ten-day battle has been fought between Government forces and rebels in which the rebels were repulsed with great losses. The despatch adds that a further attack by the rebels is expected, despite their defeat. Foreigners in Torreon are reported safe.

DENIAL BY PORFIRIO DIAZ.

Ex-President of Mexico Says He Is Not Going to Japan.

PARIS, Aug. 7.—Gen. Porfirio Diaz, ex-President of Mexico, announced today that he had no intention of going to Japan. It had been reported that he intended to go there, meet his nephew, Gen. Felix Diaz, and return to Mexico with him.

Gen. Diaz is in excellent health. He is well informed as to conditions in Mexico through correspondence, and by means of conversation with visitors from that country. He, however, declines to express any opinion on the situation.

WHITMAN ACCEPTS FUSION NOMINATION

it was a foregone conclusion that Mr. Mitchel could not obtain the Republican indorsement under these conditions.

Hapgood Is Happy.

When the District Attorney finally made up his mind that he would announce his position, Norman Hapgood, former Judge William H. Wadhams, and District Leader Frederick C. Tanner were with him. They urged him to make his position clear before he left the city, and the District Attorney finally dictated the letter. He gave a deep sigh of relief when it was finally off his hands, and at once began making ready for his journey to the White Mountains.

The Fusion Committee, in prevailing upon Mr. Whitman to accept its nomination for District Attorney, has practically given up the job of naming the balance of the ticket that has not already been announced. Mr. Hapgood said he would turn over the offices to the various organizations and let them fight it out. He seemed to think that the Fusion Committee had done enough in landing Mr. Whitman. He said, however, that he expected the offices would be divided up without much strife and with satisfaction to everybody. Mr. Hapgood said:

"Mr. Whitman has again earned the gratitude of the community. Nobody except those who have been close to him in the last few days can realize just what his decision has cost him. The result will, I am sure, be an ample reward. Our ticket is now so strong that if all elements will fall in behind it we shall immediately offer a united front to Tammany. The prospect of victory is bright. It is the kind of a ticket that will gain strength with every week. There could be no sharper contrast between the kind of government offered by this ticket and the kind that Tammany stands for.

Price Sees Victory Ahead.

Joseph M. Price, Chairman of the Executive Committee, said:

"I had no doubt whatever, that Mr. Whitman would rise to the occasion in this crisis of municipal affairs in the City of New York and help to retain what we have gained during the past four years. I cannot conceive that a ticket which contains the names of such admirable men as Mitchel, Whitman, McAneny, Prendergast and the other members of the Board of Estimate could fall of election.

The Fusion Executive Committee will meet on Tuesday next to discuss the balance of the ticket.

WILL NOMINATE WHITMAN.

Despite the decision of District Attorney Whitman to accept the Fusion nomination for his present office, the Whitman Independent League, it was announced last night by its Chairman, William B. Stambaugh, is going ahead to nominate him for the Mayoralty by petition. The league passed resolutions last night stating that whereas Mr. Whitman announced last Spring that he would accept a nomination for Mayor from any body of reputable citizens, the league would mail a letter to each one of the 13,157 enrolled voters of the Progressive Party urging them to write the name of Charles S. Whitman in the blank space provided on the primary ballot.

DAILY WIRELESS AND CABLE DISPATCHES TO THE TIMES

FAMOUS SURGEONS PRAISE DR. ALBEE

Watch Him Perform in London His Operation for Tuberculosis of the Spine.

PROF. CUSHING'S ADDRESS

Declared by Sir Thomas Barlow to be "Keynote of the Medical Congress"—Plea for Vivisection.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Friday, Aug. 8.—American delegates to the International Medical Congress took a prominent part in the proceedings yesterday.

Prof. Harvey Cushing of Harvard University gave before a large general meeting in the Albert Hall an address on surgery which Sir Thomas Barlow, President of the congress, declared to be "the keynote of the congress"; Dr. F. H. Albee of New York performed an operation of a kind seen for the first time in England before some of the most renowned surgeons of Europe, and Drs. C. L. Dana, B. Sachs, and M. A. Starr of New York read papers in the Section of Nervous Diseases.

High expectations had been aroused and were not disappointed by Dr. Cushing's remarkable address. The tall, athletic professor has a clear, penetrating voice and an unconventional style of address, rich in metaphor and simile. He argued that surgery and the study of internal medicine were now more drawn together than they had been since the thirteenth century, saying: "The slipper of surgery has been found to fit the Cinderella of medicine and experimental pathology."

This view of the affinity between physicians and surgeons was loudly applauded, as well as this picturesque passage: "The kaleidoscope of medicine is turning, and new patterns come from the original forms."

Dr. Cushing rebuked the anti-vivisectionists for their opposition to experiments on animals, saying: "Animals whose preservation is desirable benefit as greatly as man from these investigations." This statement was cheered loudly.

The general opinion of the meeting was that the address was one of the most interesting in many years. In the course of it Dr. Cushing referred to Dr. Albee's operation as a specimen of practical demonstration which was far more important than the reading of papers and which was an absolutely essential feature of such congresses.

Famous surgeons from all over the world crowded the operating room in which Dr. Albee gave his demonstration. A London surgeon thus describes the operation in The Daily Mail:

"The basis of our present method of treatment of tuberculosis of the spine is to reduce to a minimum the movements of the diseased spinal bones by means of splints or plaster casts applied to the body. Dr. Albee applies his splint to the unaffected ends of the diseased bones themselves.

"With the patient, a child of four, lying on its face, Dr. Albee made a semi-circular incision through the skin and raised a skin flap some three inches in diameter from over the diseased bone. Then projecting portions of each vertebrae were split vertically about a third of an inch deep with a chisel and mallet.

"This wound was then temporarily covered in with bandages and a new skin incision was made over the front of the shin bone with a circular electric saw. Dr. Albee then cut out of the shin a piece of bone about three inches lond and a third of an inch wide. This was then inserted edgeways into the furrow made in the diseased vertebrae. The splint was then firmly fixed in place by stitching ligaments on each side of the backbone over it. Both wounds were then closed and the child was sent back to bed."

The observant surgeons were unanimous in praise of the operation.

Dr. A. L. Soresi of New York described in another section how the heart's action and respiration had been restarted in animals after all signs of life had disappeared.

LONDON, Aug. 7.—The thousands of doctors who are attending the International Medical Congress were scattered all over London to-day, as twenty-three sectional meetings had been arranged in as many halls.

Suffragettes again claimed the attention of the delegates by patrolling in the neighborhood of all the halls, carrying mottoes printed in English, French, and German, and also chalking "Votes for Women" on the sidewalks.

The Anglo-American Medical Society to-day gave a luncheon to 100 distinguished delegates to the congress. Sir Malcolm Morris, one of the leading specialists in skin diseases, presided and welcomed the guests. Dr. S. J. Meltzer of New York replied on behalf of the American contingent and Dr. Chaffard of Paris responded for the other visitors.

For every day of the congress there is a bewildering programme of social functions, consisting of garden parties, luncheons, dinners, and receptions in honor of the delegates.

COMING WITH NOSE RING.

Mlle. Polaire Expects to Introduce New Fashion in America.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

PARIS, Aug. 7.—How many American women will follow the daring innovation of Mlle. Polaire, who calls herself "the ugliest woman in Paris"? She intends, during her forthcoming trip to America, where she will appear upon the stage, to wear a dainty golden ring hanging from the tip of her nose.

PROOF OF IMMORTALITY?

Sir Oliver Lodge Expected to Surprise the British Association.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Friday, Aug. 8.—The Daily Mail says that Sir Oliver Lodge has some surprise in store for the British Association in his Presidential address, which will be delivered on Sept. 10.

Sir Oliver has already told the world that "the boundary between the two states—the known and the unknown, life and death—is still substantial, but is wearing thin in places, and excavators are engaged in boring a tunnel from opposite ends. We are beginning to hear now and again strokes from the pickaxes of our comrades on the other side."

"In a summary received from Sir Oliver of the argument of his forthcoming address," says The Daily Mail, "curiosity is stirred by his protest against comprehensive negative generalization and his insistence on a belief in the ultimate continuity of existence before and after death as essential to science.

"This at least suggests that he has new evidence to offer and fresh tests to disclose, for all the evidence that has been produced in the past by him and the little band of psychical researchers yields no scientific proof of that larger life which is understood by 'immortality.' The vague scribbling and vacuous utterances of alleged 'spooks' and the quaint jig-saw puzzles of cross-correspondence are not such proof.

"The world must wait on tenterhooks for a whole month to discover the meaning of these mysterious intimations."

SAYS PANAMANS DISLIKE US.

French Observer Declares Americans Put on Airs of Superiority.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

PARIS, Aug. 7.—The alleged anti-American sentiment developing in the Republic of Panama is the subject of an article which is printed with prominence in to-night's Temps. It is by the Vicomte Maurice de Perigny, who is now in the United States.

M. de Perigny says the Americans in the Canal Zone are giving themselves airs of superiority, adding:

"I gathered from conversations that the majority of Panamans have a feeling of antipathy toward the Americans, which is more or less concealed according to their station. There is no doubt that the Panamans appreciate their independence, the stability of their Government, their good financial condition, thanks to the $10,000,000 paid by America, and the better sanitation, but they feel that all this is not for the benefit of the Panama Republic, but for the canal builders.

"They admire what the Americans have done, but it has been done with a brusqueness which was perhaps necessary to shake up the natural apathy of these tropical regions, but which naturally wounds people who, after throwing off the Colombian yoke, thought that they would be independent and free.

"What is causing the bitterest antipathy is the contempt too openly displayed by the Americans for the Panamans. This contempt is shown not only by humble employes, but high administrators do not mix with the best Panaman circles. The Americans affect to ignore the old families, who for several generations have enjoyed the benefits of culture and education, and whose society is agreeable."

M. de Perigny concludes by saying that this "affectation of superiority, which is quite unjustified, shocks an impartial observer."

WANT ENGLAND TO EXHIBIT.

Writers in Papers Urge Reconsideration of Decision as to Fair.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Friday, Aug. 8.—Another plea for the reconsideration of the British position regarding the Panama-Pacific Exhibition appears in to-day's Daily News over the signature of E. Harold Spender, who argues that it is unwise to refuse to participate in the celebration of an event in which the United States takes great international pride. Mr. Spender writes:

"I frankly believe that if the British Government and people at the present moment were to take the friendly course of helping America to celebrate this splendid enterprise the American people would be quick to respond.

"There has always been a strong body of public opinion in the United States in favor of equal terms for all ships passing through the Panama Canal. That body of opinion would swing around, and the British nation would be amply rewarded for having done a generous thing. Otherwise this little sore might grow into a big ulcer, and the very slight and trivial friction arising from the question of these tolls might gradually spread through the whole relations of Great Britain and America.

"Is it not worth while to avoid that risk by reconsideration of a refusal which has so unexpectedly offended the pride of the United States?"

LONDON, Friday, Aug. 8.—In a special article published to-day The Daily Mail advocates British participation in the San Francisco Exposition.

The article argues that it is better to spend $1,250,000 than to risk a disturbance of the present happy relations between the two countries by offending the pride of America over a great event in its history, especially at a moment when a new Government is in power.

BERLIN, Aug. 7.—Prominent Germans have started a campaign to induce the Government to participate in the Panama-Pacific Exposition.

Appeals will be made directly to Emperor William and Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg, and every possible influence will be brought to bear to induce the Government to reverse its decision not to take part in the exposition.

AVIATOR CODY KILLED IN A FLIGHT

Anglo-American Colonel Was Trying a New Hydro-Aeroplane at Aldershot.

HIS PASSENGER ALSO DEAD

Cody's Sons Witness the Accident—British War Secretary Sends Condolences to Mrs. Cody.

LONDON, Aug. 7.—Col. Samuel F. Cody, the famous Anglo-American aviator, and his passenger, an Indian civil servant named Evans, were killed in an aeroplane accident at Aldershot to-day.

Col. Cody was trying a new hydroaeroplane. He and Evans were flying over the open country, most of which is Government land, in the Aldershot district, and had just reached Government House when their aeroplane was seen to be traveling badly, and finally to fall with a crash to the ground. Some persons rushed to the spot and found the bodies of Cody and Evans lying among the ruins of the aeroplane.

The aeroplane was flying at an altitude of between 200 and 300 feet when it fell. Members of the Royal Flying Corps removed the bodies to the military mortuary, and an inquest is to be held to-morrow.

Col. Cody's neck was broken and both of Evans's legs were fractured in the fall, and their bodies otherwise were badly mangled.

Cody's sons, Leon and Frank, were witnesses of the accident, which was attributed by spectators to the circumstance that the body of the craft proved too heavy for the wings. The machine, they say, appeared to crumple up, the wings suddenly shooting upward and the whole structure collapsing. During the descent the aeroplane struck some trees and portions of the wings were left hanging on the branches. The motor was shattered and the remainder of the aeroplane was smashed into matchwood by the violence of the shock when it hit the ground.

The aeroplane had been out earlier in the day, making an extended flight and giving every satisfaction. It was a new hydroaeroplane, which Cody was tuning up for the forthcoming race around England and Scotland, for which a prize of $25,000 is offered. The machine weighed over a ton. It was fitted with a motor of 100 horse power and had a wing span of sixty feet.

The Secretary of State for War in telegraphing his condolences to Mrs. Cody on the death of her husband said: "The science of aeronautics owes much to his mechanical genius and courageous perseverance. The British War Office has special reason to mourn the loss of his valuable services, both in regard to man-lifting kites and his contributions to military aeronautics."

Sir Hiram Maxim, when he heard of Col. Cody's death, characterized him as undoubtedly the greatest military aviator in England.

Almost simultaneously with his victory in the War Office competition in 1912, when he won a prize of $20,000, Col. Cody obtained an award of $25,000 in an arbitration case with the British War Office in respect to the rights of his inventions of many-carrying kites.

Mr. Evans was a member of the Indian Civil Service who had obtained leave of absence to come to England to study aviation.

CODY A NATIVE OF TEXAS.

Became a British Subject in 1909—His Ability as a Constructor.

Samuel F. Cody was born in Texas. Early in life he was a cowboy in the Western States, and he had a striking resemblance to Col. W. F. Cody, "Buffalo Bill." Samuel Cody went to London several years ago and at first made a precarious living, but ultimately attracted the attention of the British War Office on account of his natural gifts of construction, particularly in regard to aerial machines. He was said to be able to build anything in the way of flying machines or balloons. This led to his appointment as adviser to the British War Office in regard to aerial machines.

Cody was asked to become a British subject in 1909, and was informed that unless he did so he would lose his position. It was in November of that year that he was naturalized. At that time the War Office had rather lost confidence in him, after several mishaps, but it was not long before he regained the officials' confidence by making an aeroplane flight of forty-seven miles in sixty-three minutes. This was the longest cross-country flight made up to that time.

Col. Cody had several accidents. While making a flight at Aldershot on Oct. 17, 1908, he fell from a height of 20 feet and was slightly injured. Exactly one year later he met with another accident, but this time he fell from a height of 1,000 feet. His machine was wrecked, and he was slightly injured. Again on July 4, 1910, he fell at Aldershot. This time he was seriously injured, and when he was taken from underneath the wreckage he was unconscious, and was removed to a hospital, where he remained for several days.

Cody was the chief factor in making a success of the dirigible war balloon Nulli Secundus, which sailed over London.

With the death of Col. Cody and his passenger and that of John F. Bryant yesterday, the aviation fatalities this week number five. Since the beginning of aviation in 1908, 308 persons have lost their lives in aeroplane accidents, and many have been seriously injured. The total for this year is 85, which is 26 more than at the same date last year.

HURT FLYING ON A DARE.

Ex-Chauffeur Falls Thirty Feet and Is Crushed Under Machine.

OMAHA, Neb., Aug. 7.—Henri de la Roche, 26 years old, motor mechanician and former chauffeur to the King of Greece, is in a local hospital severely injured, the result of a peculiar aeroplane accident.

La Roche, with several companions, attended a local aviation exhibition yesterday. The regular aviator failed to appear, and La Roche, who had been explaining to the crowd the intricate workings of the engine, was goaded by taunts and jeers to try an ascent. He made a good start upward, but when he reached a height of about 30 feet he lost control, the machine dropped to the earth, and crushed him beneath it. Both legs and three ribs were broken and he suffered internal injuries as well.

CALIFORNIA AIRMAN KILLED.

John F. Bryant's Machine Fails in 600th Flight at Victoria, B. C.

VICTORIA, B. C., Aug. 7.—John F. Bryant, a California aviator, was killed here yesterday. The aeroplane, in which he had made 599 flights, failed him on the six hundredth, and after a few moments of aerial acrobatics fell on the roof of a building near the heart of the city. Firemen who rushed up a ladder to rescue Bryant found him dead in the wreckage of his machine. His back, neck and both legs had been broken.

A heavy woman who insisted on climbing into the machine last week to have her picture taken, is said by Bryant's friends to have been the indirect cause of the accident. The fragile seat was damaged and had to be repaired before Bryant could attempt another flight. The damage was not fully repaired, and the machine became unmanageable because the wire attachment of the steering gear had been weakened.

METEORS THREATEN AIRMEN.

New Peril to Aviators Described by a German Aeroplanist.

BERLIN, Aug. 7.—A new danger for aviators was chronicled to-day by the German airman, Victor Stoeffler, of the Johannisthal Aerodrome, who reports that his biplane was caught in a shower of meteors last evening while he was flying with Lieut. von Brederlow of the Prussian Army.

At an altitude of one mile they heard the whiz of the meteors, which passed so closely to the flying machine that both aviators say they felt them rush through the air.

DEPERDUSSIN AS A SPENDER

Bundle of Banknotes for a Girl Who Had No Curling Irons.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 7.—Astonishing details have come out concerning the life and adventures of Armand Deperdussin, the aeroplane manufacturer, now under arrest on charges of forgery, whose liabilities amount to $8,000,000.

In 1895 Deperdussin was a commercial traveler in Belgium for a firm of chocolate manufacturers. He himself used to relate that he was dismissed because one day when he was hungry and had no money to go to a restaurant he ate all the chocolate samples he carried.

The following year under an assumed name and with two friends he opened in Brussels a sort of café concert like those of the night houses of Montmartre. When in 1897 the Brussels Exhibition opened the future magnate was glad to accept a position as programme seller at the door of a cinematograph show.

When he became wealthy he was fond of making unusual purchases before crowds of onlookers, pulling out a bundle of notes and paying on the spot. He always drank a special champagne, saying he had an interest in the company producing it. He always had pockets full of banknotes and would never take change after paying a bill.

One afternoon at a restaurant a girl came in with her hair cut short. He said, "You ought to curl your hair." The girl replied that she had no curling tongs. Deperdussin took a bundle of banknotes and handed them to her with the remark, "Go and buy some."

POWERS TO COERCE TURKEY

Take First Steps to Compel Her to Evacuate Adrianople.

LONDON, Friday, Aug. 8.—The representatives of the European Powers took the first step at Constantinople yesterday to compel Turkey to evacuate the fortress at Adrianople, which Ottoman troops reoccupied after war began between the former Balkan allies. The diplomatic body demanded that the Turkish Government respect the treaty signed in London between the former belligerents.

It is asserted in diplomatic circles that the contemplated action of the Powers, in the event of the present demand made by them proving futile, will be such as to render further hostilities between Bulgaria and Turkey unnecessary.

SOFIA, Aug. 7.—The Bulgarian Government has notified the representatives of the powers in Sofia of its intention to demobilize the army immediately the peace treaty is signed and to rely upon the powers to take measures to induce Turkey to withdraw within the Enos-Midia line and respect the treaty of London.

BULGAR ATTACKS GREEKS.

Tsanoff Says Charges of Atrocities Are Due to Their Press Bureau.

A statement charging that the accounts of Bulgarian atrocities in the present war in the Balkans are the product of a Greek press bureau, organized before the war started, was issued yesterday by S. V. Tsanoff, Vice President of the Bulgarian Society in this city. Papers arriving in this country dated just before the war, he says, told of plans for such a press bureau to portray "Bulgarian barbarities and atrocities" in the "inevitably coming war," and one of the Greek newspapers, the Acropolis, added:

"Such a bureau would be worth two wars against Bulgaria if it only does its work well."

"No doubt," said Mr. Tsanoff, "some highly regrettable happenings have taken place in the war zone. Any one could go after the battling armies and write most horrible stories of carnage and destruction. The retreating sides always imprison persons or destroy properties which the enemy may use against them, and they can't be blamed for it. The exceptional conditions in the Balkans may have produced exceptionally bad results. There, besides the armies against one another, the races also dislike one another, and for this feeling the Greeks are chiefly to blame. As the Turk has been exploiting the people politically for centuries, the Greek has done so in the name of the Church.

"When ten years ago the Macedonians began rising against the Turkish rule, Greek bands were organized against them, siding largely with the Turks. Naturally traitors and betrayers appeared and caused great damage to the revolutionary cause. Macedonian volunteers in this war who have lost dear ones through such traitors may have tried to avenge them now, but when one comes to talk about atrocities characteristics, they belong much more to the Greeks than to the Bulgarians. The world may soon have a chance to see that the Greeks, by charging Bulgaria with hideous acts, have been speaking rather of their own misdeeds.

"Who has corroborated the Greek charges against the Bulgarians? Where are the protests of Austria and Italy for dragging away their Consuls at Seres and disgracing their families? What Americans were killed at Xanty? How could 30,000 Turks be slaughtered at Doiran when that town has a population scarcely half so big and the majority are Christians? Where are the protests of the American Tobacco Company for destruction of their property?

"Let American people be assured that Bulgarians are not atrocious, but the Greeks are tricky and treacherous, and it is much like the Greeks to scorch bodies, cut noses and ears of the same, and say Bulgarians mutilated them alive."

ANDRADE RIDICULES CASTRO INVASION

Man from Whom Latter Took Presidency of Venezuela Is Visiting New York.

DOUBTS HIS BEING THERE

Present Minister to Cuba Says That the Exiled ex-President Has Not a Friend in the Country.

Gen. Ignacio Andrade, who was President of Venezuela until Gen. Castro wrenched the Government from his hands in 1899, arrived here yesterday from Cuba, and his first act after registering at the Imperial was to have an interpreter read to him the newspaper dispatches from Venezuela for the last three weeks.

The news that his old enemy, Gen. Castro, was back in Venezuela and was fomenting a revolution distressed Gen. Andrade a great deal.

"I cannot believe it," he said. "It is incredible. I seriously doubt if the dispatches recently printed are correct. Where Castro is I do not know, but I cannot believe he is in Venezuela.

"It is now three weeks since I left Venezuela, and during that time I have been in Cuba, and have not had direct advices from the Government. But three weeks ago I left Venezuela with everything in a tranquil condition and not the slightest rumors even of a revolution.

"All the trouble must be the fighting of a few barracks of roysterers. They have no money back of them and no men of influence or standing.

"Castro? I don't think he has a friend in the country of any consequence. As President he had some servitors, but no considerable number of real friends. We do not fear Castro. He can do nothing. Next year there will be a regular election, and it will settle who is to be the next President.

"Our people were busy when I left building roads—roads from the interior to the seaports and the stimulus for this work was furnished to us by the United States. Your Panama Canal stirred us to seek our industrial development by this road building to our ports and we are too intent on that to engage in serious revolutions.

"President Wilson is loved by all in our country for his love of freedom and the faith he has created that he will allow our countries to flourish as free countries also. I fear that if he should throw an army into Mexico it would cast a spirit of distrust over our country toward the United States. We have regretted seeing Mexico permit domestic anarchy to the point of giving President Wilson the serious problem he faces."

Gen. Andrade said he loved diplomacy too much to ever care to re-enter the race for the Presidency. He is now Minister Plenipotentiary from Venezuela to Cuba. His present trip to this country is on personal business, and he will return to Cuba within two weeks.

ENGLAND LESS SUSPICIOUS.

German Writer's View of the Meaning of the New Naval Move.

BERLIN, Aug. 7.—In reviewing the decision of the British Government to station several naval cruisers at Bermuda, Capt. Persius, the naval expert of the Tageblatt, sees the first breach in Admiral Lord Fisher's policy of concentrating every available ship of the British Navy in home waters and an indication of the waning of the tense Anglo-German rivalry, which has kept the two nations on the verge of war for a decade.

From this point of view Capt. Persius finds the action of the British Admiralty of more importance to Germany than to the United States. He says Germany also may take similar steps of deconcentration. He believes that in general the decision was dictated more by the desire to show the British flag than by actual necessity.

MIKADO RECEIVES GUTHRIE.

Emperor and Our New Ambassador Speak of Countries' Friendship.

TOKIO, Aug. 7.—The strong ties uniting the Japanese Empire and the United States were mutually voiced to-day by the Emperor and by George W. Guthrie, the new American Ambassador, on the occasion of the presentation of his credentials by the latter.

Ambassador Guthrie conveyed the greetings of President Wilson to the Emperor and dwelt on the warmth and sincerity of American friendship for Japan.

A regiment of cavalry escorted the Ambassador to the imperial palace, whither he drove in an imperial coach. The pedestrians along the route respectfully uncovered as he passed.

While the Ambassador and his staff were in audience with the Emperor the ladies of the diplomatic party were received by the Empress.

CITY IN DANGER FROM BLACK FLEET

New York May Fall To-day in the Mimic War Game.

BADGER'S CLEVER STRATEGY

Admiral Hides His Battleships from Forts Behind Smoke from Destroyers' Funnels.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Aug. 7.—The mimic war between the Black Fleet, which to-night is stretched out between Point Judith and Montauk Point and the soldiers under Major Gen. Barry, will come to an end to-morrow, the last day of the war game, with no less a finale perhaps than the capture of New York City by Rear Admiral Badger, who is commanding the attacking naval force.

Some time to-morrow the Black Fleet may attempt to dash past Forts Wright, Michie, and Terry, commanded by Major General Barry, with 3,000 regular troops, steam into Long Island Sound and train its guns upon Manhattan Island.

The mimic battle started at 10 o'clock yesterday, and there was no let up until 2 o'clock this morning, Forts Wright and Michie being the main targets for the broadside discharges from the huge guns on the ships. The fleet retired at daybreak after annihilating sections of the forts, sweeping mines, and destroying observation stations and searchlights, in turn the naval vessels having been raked and some of them sunk by the galling fire from the land batteries—of course, theoretically.

To-day's fighting followed a strategic measure adopted by Rear Admiral Charles J. Badger, in command of the Black Fleet, which threatens to storm New York, assisted by low barometric pressure, which enabled the warships of the enemy to make what might have been a successful attack upon the island forts during last night.

Smoke Blocks Search Lights.

The divisions of battleships and three divisions of torpedo boat destroyers made a concerted onslaught on Forts Wright, Terry, and Michie. Their approach was discovered by the searchlights on the fortifications, and immediately every battery on the islands resembled a wall of flame as broadsides were directed against the dark gray hulls.

But for once the mammoth searchlights were blocked in their duty of directing the aim of the gunners. Here and there a destroyer moved apart from the remainder of the fleet and sent up a dense cloud of thick black smoke, which arose for an instant over the dreadnoughts and then settled down upon them like an ebony mantle drawn by unseen hands. Vainly did the brilliant beams of light seek to penetrate the mysterious shroud. The carbon drapery served its purpose well, and the destroyers and battleships swept the channel for mines and directed broadsides at the searchlights on the forts, the sinking barometer causing the clouds of smoke to linger just above the almost motionless sea.

Fighting Resumed in Afternoon.

Not until 2 o'clock this afternoon did the fleet again go into action, but then for three hours there was a continual streak of flame from the immense mortars and guns on land and sea. Late to-night the warships are about fourteen miles distant to the southeast of the island forts, but another scrap is exspeced before morning, and the artillerists are anxiously awaiting the approach of the enemy.

This afternoon the Black Fleet had two divisions of torpedo boat destroyers, and also two divisions of battleships, in the attack, with the flagship Wyoming and a third division of destroyers in reserve. The Dixie and Tonopah were placed in line of the battleships.

The battleships during the afternoon scrimmage were distant about 10,000 yards, while some of the destroyers again daringly ran directly under the guns at Fort Wright and Fort Michie and sent up the clouds of ebony smoke from their funnels that once more almost totally eclipsed the view of the ships from the forts.

The Government cable is cut, but it is out of commission by accident, a schooner's anchor having fouled the wires. The break is causing the army officers great inconvenience.

CHARGES ESPIONAGE ON FEDERAL JUDGES

Senator Borah Asserts Department of Justice Has Sought to Influence Bench.

COLT AND O'GORMAN DENY

Attorney General's Answer to Works Resolution Said the Report Was Baseless.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—Senator Borah made a stir in the Senate to-day by charging that the Department of Justice used special agents and spies in systematic efforts to intimidate the judiciary and dictate the decisions of the Federal courts.

Mr. Borah's charges were made follow the receipts of the Attorney General's reply to a resolution introduced by Senator Works, asking for information as to the use of secret agents against Judges. The resolution was based on a speech by Judge Emory Speer of Georgia, in which he said he had been shadowed by agents of the department.

The Attorney General's reply to the inquiry was that any report that the Department of Justice was maintaining a system of espionage over Judges "was entirely without foundation."

"No Inspectors or other agents are appointed by the Attorney General or by the Department of Justice specifically to investigate and report upon the conduct or proceedings of any of the courts or Judges of the United States," said the report.

The report added that only three Judges had been investigated. One of these was Robert W. Archbald. Mr. Borah then made his charge:

"I know this is a very serious charge, but I am so reliably informed that I make the statement that within the last four or five years special agents have carried on such investigations with a view to influencing Judges."

Senator Works denounced the Attorney General's report as "evasive" and unsatisfactory, and said he would make a further demand for information.

Senator Borah's charge was characterized as "startling" by Senators Crawford and Sutherland. The latter declared it "needed investigation," and that if such "sinister influences" continued, the "end of the Republic was in sight."

Senators O'Gorman of New York and Colt of Rhode Island, both Judges of long experience, stated that they had never known of improper efforts to influence them or their associates.

"Give me a committee to investigate this charge," said Mr. Borah, "and I will prove it. If I was not prepared to sustain the charge I would not make it. From information in my possession I know these things have occurred. The Federal Judges are under the influence of the Attorney General and his department. Their promotion and demotion—since failure to promote is equal to a demotion—are in the hands of the department. These influences, I am informed, have been used to influence their decision along lines desired by the Government.

"If this condition is to continue, I want Judges elected subject to popular recall. But I am deeply opposed to election and recall on principle."

No action was taken in the matter.

"DR. KRAUSS" SENTENCED.

International Crook Convicted in France—Once Lived in California.

NANCY, Aug. 7.—A sentence of twenty years' imprisonment was passed here to-day on Dr. Krauss, whose real name is said to be Walter Hermann, and who lived for some time in California. He was found guilty of setting fire to his house in order to obtain the insurance money.

On hearing the sentence Krauss simulated paralysis, but four doctors who examined him decided that he was shamming, although he was weak from a "hunger strike" that he had undergone during the three days' trial.

The evidence showed that Krauss had led a very adventurous life, and was wanted by the police of several countries for various offenses. He was born in Germany.

Krauss practiced medicine in Nancy. Last October he and his wife left here, ostensibly for Alsace-Lorraine. The day afterward his residence was burned and the firemen found a number of petroleum cans, the contents of which had been emptied about the rooms. Krauss was informed of the fire and at once returned to Nancy, where he was arrested. When brought before a magistrate he swallowed a capsule of poison and fell insensible, but an antidote was administered and he recovered.

DR. McNAMARA RECOVERS.

Quick Treatment Saves Physician Who Took Bichloride of Mercury.

The condition of Dr. Thomas McNamara of 613 Hudson Street, Hoboken, who swallowed a bichloride of mercury tablet on Tuesday, mistaking it for a headache wafer, was so greatly improved yesterday that he was permitted to leave St. Mary's Hospital and go to his home. As a result of the prompt treatment he received the physician is apparently out of danger.

Dr. McNamara, who is a member of the Hoboken Tax Commission and active in the work of the Board of Trade, has a sanitarium for persons suffering from nervous disorders. He had as one of his patients his cousin, Edward McNamara. On Tuesday evening his cousin complained of a headache, and Dr. McNamara gave him one of the wafers. To illustrate the approved manner of swallowing the tablet, Dr. McNamara took one himself. Then he discovered that he had taken poison. He was hurried to the hospital.

STREET TALKERS ARRESTED

Agents of Lower Rents Society Subject of Jeweler's Complaint.

Benjamin C. Marsh and Charles James, members of the Society to Lower Rents and Reduce Taxes on Homes, were talking to a crowd at the corner of Fifth Avenue and Twenty-third Street early yesterday afternoon, when Charles Broderick, a clerk employed by the Seabolt Jewelry Company, ordered them to go away, as they were blocking the entrance to the store. The lecturers stuck to their guns, and Broderick called Patrolman Foley of the Traffic Squad.

The "lower rent" men were taken before Magistrate Corrigan in the Jefferson Market Court. They were paroled in the custody of counsel to await a hearing this morning. The society has its headquarters at 320 Broadway.

CAROLINA II. WINS ASTOR GOLD CUP

Elena Captures Silver Trophy for Schooners in N. Y. Y. C. Race to Newport.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 7.—The race to-day for the Astor gold and silver cups for sloops and schooners, sailed in the lightest kind of a breeze and finished in a drift, was won by the fifty-foot knockabout sloop Carolina II., owned by Pembroke Jones of Newport, and the schooner Elena, owned by Morton F. Plant of Groton, Conn.

Owing to the death of Mrs. Morton F. Plant, the Elena will leave for New London and Greenport in the morning to go out of commission.

It was one of the most tedious races that has ever been sailed in the Goelet-Astor series, which had its thirty-second renewal to-day. From the time that the thirteen sloops and three schooners drifted over the starting line, a little more than an hour before noon, until the Carolina finished, just at sunset, none of the yachts experienced a breeze of over three knots an hour. Despite the fact that the course was practically two long reaches and a run, it took the Elena, with all her big sail spread, over 6 hours, 16 minutes and 24 seconds to sail the thirty-eight miles, while the Carolina's elapsed time was 8 hours 52 minutes and 54 seconds.

The race was one of the social features of Newport's Summer season, and a score of large steam yachts and power boats were clustered about the lightship when the first signal was sounded at 10:30 and the blue letter "D" flag hoisted for the Buzzard's Bay course. At that time the wind was about south-southeast, and the committee hoped to give the yachts a seventeen-mile beat to the Vineyard Sound lightship, a four-mile run to the Hen and Chickens, and a seventeen-mile reach to the finish, twenty-eight miles around the triangle.

The breeze, however, was not only light but fickle, and by the time the signal for the start of the sloops was sounded at 10:40 it had hauled to about south and dropped to a mere zephyr. A strong flood tide was setting across the starting line against the yachts, and only those skippers who realized the conditions and hugged the line while waiting for the signal were able to get across within the first five minutes. The Sumaria and Barbara were the first to drift over, followed by the Carolina and Avenger. These yachts constituted what might be called the first division, for the rest of the fleet did not get up to the start for some time later.

The first division of sloops was still at the starting line when the schooner signal was sounded at 10:45. In this class there was also a wide division between the yachts, the Elena making a fine start, while the Irolita, although but a quarter of a mile astern, was nearly half an hour in reaching the line.

With the breeze from the start, the early part of the race was a trifle off the wind, and for the first five or six miles the Elena made fairly good time. The Barbara pulled by the Sumaria and took the lead in the sloop class off Price's Neck, while even the Irolita, two miles astern, began to pick up. Off Sakonnet, however, the wind began to die out again, so several of the yachts made boards to port in the hope of finding stronger conditions off shore. This proved a good move, and by the time the Vineyard Haven lightship hove in sight the fleet was well bunched. For the last three miles to the first turn there was more breeze, but it was ahead and the yachts all had to beat for the mark. The times around the Vineyard Sound lightship were as follows:

Elena, 1:34:30; Irolita, 1:40:10; Carolina, 1:51:10; Shimna, 1:51:30; Avenger, 1:52:05; Barbara, 1:56:12; Spartan, 1:58:30; Pleione, 1:59:50; Sumaria, 2:01:25; Dorello, 2:03:30; Grayling, 2:04:35; Acushla, 2:06:10; Iroquois, 2:08:40.

It was a long, slow run across the entrance of Buzzards Bay to the old Hen and Chickens lightship, and the order of the yachts remained unchanged, although both the Elena and Carolina drew away from their rivals.

As the yachts started on the last leg the wind faded to a breath, although out ahead the Elena seemed to find some kind of air that kept her head sails drawing. All the yachts carried balloon jib topsails on this last leg, and these sails did the most of the work. The Elena was half an hour ahead of the Clark yacht at Seal Rock buoy, about a mile from the finish, but another half an hour was necessary to cover the remaining distance, and reach the finish line a few minutes after 5 o'clock. The Irolita drifted in thirty minutes later, while far astern the sloops had just wind enough to kept the balloon jibs in action.

The Dorello was the first to give up, followed by the Grayling, Iroquois, and Acushla. All but the committee boat and the steam yacht Narada of the spectators' fleet had fled for the harbor as the Carolina heaved past the lightship. The committee had to stay, while the Narada remained that Capt. Henry Watters might see his friend, Pembroke Jones, win the biggest yachting event in the country, next to the America's Cup. The Carolina crossed the line at 6:52:24, amid the screams of the Narada's siren and the boom of her gun. Ashore, Fort Adams answered with the sunset gun.

When the Carolina crossed the line the Avenger was about a mile astern, with the Shimna and Spartan a short distance on her weather beam. The Barbara was half a mile behind the Spartan and a mile ahead of the Pleione. All of these boats were practically becalmed, although the new flood tide gave them a little headway. The victory of the Carolina was a popular one ashore, and Mr. Jones spent a very pleasant evening, receiving congratulations.

Two schooners and seven sloops have entered for the Knig's Cup, which will be raced for to-morrow, the list being the schooners Elena and Irolita, the fifty-foot New York sloops Spartan, Iroquois, Barbara, Grayling, and Acushla, the Boston knockabout Dorello II., and the New York sloop Avenger. The last-named yacht won the King's Cup in 1908. The summary of to-day's race follows:

Justice Weeks Gets A. A. U. Medal

Justice Bartow S. Weeks has been presented with an Amateur Athletic Union standard die gold medal by the A. A. U. delegates to show their appreciation of the honor conferred on one of their number by his appointment to the Supreme Court bench.

Gustavus T. Kirby, President of the Amateur Athletic Union, suggested the idea, and a mail vote was taken among the other A. A. U. officials, who acquiesced unanimously in Mr. Kirby's plan.

It is the first time that an A. A. U. die medal has ever been conferred upon any man in connection with American or world's athletics. Heretofore the possessors of these medals have been men that won them in championship contests.

Quakers Defeat Australians.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 7.—The Australian cricketers met the first defeat of their American tour here to-day, when the Germantown Cricket Club, playing twelve men, won a two-days' match with four wickets to spare. The final score was Germantown, 271; Australians, 270. In their second innings the visitors were retired for a total of 126 runs, Clark taking six wickets for only 38 runs, while Greene took the other four wickets for 28 runs. W. Bardsley, who scored 64 of the visitors' runs, made the best stand for the Australians. W. P. Newhall, who carried his bat out for a total of 31, was top scorer for the home team.

JOHNSTON LEADS MAN AT TENNIS

Californian Captures Semi-Final Round in the State Tournament.

William M. Johnston, the California schoolboy, yesterday won his way into the final round of the New York State championship in singles on the Crescent Athletic Club courts by defeating Alrick H. Man, Jr., of Yale in a hard three-set match by the score of 6—4, 7—5, 9—7. Johnston will play S. Howard Voshell for the Crescent bowl tomorrow, as Maurice E. McLoughlin, the holder, is in Europe, and will not defend his title.

Johnston gave a splendid exhibition of tennis and showed remarkable speed at times. His service, which was very speedy and accurate, resembled McLoughlin's, and bewildered the Yale champion. The first set was well contested up to the ninth game, when the Pacific Coast expert won his service and that of his opponent and captured the set. The second set produced the highest quality of tennis, and Man showed improvement in his game. The set was caled 5-all before Johnston carried the next two games.

The third set found Johnston at his best, when he overcame a 5—3 lead. His smashing was brilliant and effective, while Man made a number of clever crossing shots. The set was long drawn out, and finally won by Johnston by a 9—7 score.

R. D. Little, former national champion, paired with F. C. Inman, won a place in the final round of the doubles along with S. H. Voshell and F. C. Baggs. Little and Inman defeated C. F. Watson, Jr., and L. E. Mahan at 4—6, 6—4, 6—4, 7—5, and Voshell and Baggs defeated C. M. Bull, Jr., and H. C. Martin at 4—6, 6—3, 6—1, 6—1. The doubles championship will be decided to-day. The summary:

New York State Championship Men's Singles.—Semi-final Round—William M. Johnston, California, defeated Alrick H. Man, Yale, 6—4, 7—5, 9—7.

New York State Championship Men's Doubles.—Semi-final Round—Raymond D. Little and Frederick C. Inman defeated C. F. Watson, Jr., and Lyle E. Mahan, 4—6, 6—4, 6—4, 7—5; S. Howard Voshell and F. C. Baggs defeated C. M. Bull, Jr., and H. C. Martin, 4—6, 6—3, 6—1, 6—1.

Fast Tennis at Woodmere.

Many of the leading metropolitan tennis players competed yesterday in the annual men's invitation tournament of the Woodmere Club at Woodmere, L. I., and a number of interesting matches were witnessed by a big gallery. Nearly all the contests were decided in straight sets, several of which went to deuce for a decision. Six of the long list of contestants reached the third round. T. Ackerland surprised Frederick G. Anderson of the Kings County Club by forcing him to 7—5 to win the second set of the match.

Harvard Tennis Captain Wins.

EAST PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 7.—E. H. Whitney, the Harvard tennis Captain, captured the Rhode Island singles championship by defeating H. A. MacKinney of Providence on the courts of the Agawam Hunt to-day. Whitney showed the best tennis that he has exhibited during the tournament and won in straight sets, 6—3, 7—5, 6—1. The championship bowl, which Beals C. Wright of Boston won a year ago, now goes to Whitney, Wright not having entered the tournament this year.

URGE A. A. U. SECESSION.

Pacific Association May Quit as Result of Fair Appointments.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 7.—The appointment by James E. Sullivan, secretary treasurer of the Amateur Athletic Union and director general of amateur athletics at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition in 1915, of "Tom" Mulvey to be assistant director general has been followed by such resentment here that the Pacific Association of the A. A. U., in an open letter signed by President John Elliot, refuses to allow Ralph Rose, George Horine or any other of its members to compete in 1915 if the appointment stands. At a meeting at the association's office today, secession of the Pacific Coast from the parent body was urged.

HERRESHOFF LOSES TO BOY.

Seventeen-Year-Old Youngster Defeats Golf Crack at Ekwanok.

Special to The New York Times.

MANCHESTER, Vt., Aug. 7.—A. G. McIlwaine a 17-year-old golfer, playing from the national course, defeated successively to-day G. C. Stanley, the recent Yale Captain, and Fred Herreshoff of Garden City in the first and second round of match play for the first President's cup at the Ekwanok Country Club.

Herreshoff was never up, and was three down going to the fourteenth, which he won. He also took the fifteenth and sixteenth and was again square. At the seventeenth the youth had a wild drive, but recovered for a par four, and halved with Herreshoff, who drove poorly at the next. In his desperate effort to save a halve, Herreshoff took five to get on the green when McIlwaine lay up for an easy four. The match was conceded at this point. The summary:

LEATA J. PACES FAST.

Winner of Burdick House Stake Covers Mile in 2:03.

KALAMAZOO, Mich., Aug. 7.—Sensational racing marked the fourth day of the Grand Circuit races. Five heats were necessary to decide the winner of the silver cup in the Burdick house stake of $6,000 for 2:12 pacers. This event was raced on the four heat plan and Leata J., and Frank Bogash, Jr., after winning two heats each, raced the fifth heat alone. Not until the home stretch was reached was there an indication of which might win, Leata J., pressing under the wire only half a length ahead. Stetbrino Lad, the favorite, never got out of second place in any of the heats.

The second fastest time of the year was made in the third heat when Leata J., stepped a mile in 2:3. This heat was one of the best of the meet, the entire field being bunched until well into the home stretch. Leata J., did not show well in the first two heats but in the next three she was in front most of the time, displaying wonderful speed on the home stretch.

Free-for-All at Auto Races.

At a meeting of the race drivers who are to compete in the Brighton Beach Automobile races to-morrow afternoon, Chairman George Robertson of the Racing Committee was asked that the special match race, originally arranged for De Palma, Mulford, Wishart, and Ferguson, be made a free-for-all. The four named finally consented to the change, and several more entries were made for this race. The new entries include Jack Le Cain with a Stutz, J. C. Jessop with a National, Louis Menenghetti with his Fiat "Tornado," Douglas Coote with a Jackson, Alvin Marsh with a Stoddard-Dayton, and Carl Limburg with a G. J. G. The race will be a twenty-five-mile event. The seven events on the programme have been well filled, but the closing of entries has been extended until to-night, and it is expected that several moree cars will be added to the already extensive list. A number of the drivers had their cars out yesterday afternoon for practice spins and they went around the track in near record time.

The Judgment House

By Sir GILBERT PARKER

For two consecutive months "The Judgment House," according to the Bookman's official figures, stood at the head of the best sellers—a most unusual occurrence this. The enthusiasm of a reader makes other readers, as a snowball grows the longer it rolls. Figure out then where such momentum must carry this novel.

GIANTS AND YANKEES WIN---YACHTING---TENNIS---GOLF---TROTTING

GIANTS WIN NINTH INNING VICTORY

New Yorks Come from Behind and Down Reds by a Score of 5 to 2.

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Aug. 7.—With the line-up shifted so as to place Doyle back at his old position and allowing Shafer to shift from second to left, Manager McGraw's aggregation of Giants kept pegging away at Tinker's Reds this afternoon, and when the game was over they were safely launched on the long end of the 5-to-2 score.

Victory came to the visitors in the closing round of the affair, when they reached Chief Johnson, and after tying the score with no one out, the Winnebago Indian was forced to give way to Miner Brown. But the "three-fingered finish-up king" could do nothing with the lead obtained by the visitors, and they romped home in that inning with four runs and the contest.

Up to the ninth the Indian was in great form. He allowed but four safe drives, two of them coming in the eighth, when the visitors scored one run. Marquard also was in fine form, allowed the Reds but four hits, Sheckard getting two of them, up to the finish of the seventh, when he was yanked and Art Fromme went in against his former team mates. Fromme handled himself in grand form in the two innings he officiated, and not a Red reached first.

Up to the fourth not a Giant had reached first. In this round, after Burns had grounded out and Shafer was thrown out by Groh, Fletcher got the first hit off Johnson, a single. Doyle was hit, but Merkle fouled out. In the fifth the visitors got another hit when Wilson bounced a single off Johnson's glove.

For the Reds, Bescher opened the first round with a triple, and scored when Devore sent a long fly to Shafer. They got another hit in the fifth, when Sheckard singled.

The seventh saw their finish in the hit and run column, when they got two off Marquard, enough to score one run. Groh opened the round with a single to right. Hoblitzel sacrificed. Tinker grounded out, and Groh took third, from where he scored on Sheckard's single. From the fifth to the eighth the Giants could do nothing with Johnson. In the eighth, however, they got to him for two hits, which netted them one run. Wilson singled for a starter; McCormick, batting for Marquard, fanned. Grant ran for Wilson. Burns walked. Grant scored when Shafer singled.

The ninth saw the usual nightmare so frequent at Redland Field. Doyle, the first man up, walked, and took third on Merkle's single. Murray ran for Doyle, and scored when Herzog singled. Here Miner Brown replaced Chief Johnson. Snodgrass sacrificed. Berghamer threw low to the plate on Hartley's grounder, and Merkle scored. Herzog scored when Fromme singled. Burns singled, and Hartley came across with the last run of the contest.

A conference held by Manager Tinker and McGraw renewed the Bescher-Herzog trade talk, and it is likely that something along that line will be doing before the visitors leave here. Herzog, so the talk goes among the New York players, will retire to his Maryland farm if he is traded. Larry McLean, traded for Crandall, did not report to-day, but is expected to-morrow. The score:

GRINER BEATS BROOKLYN.

St. Louis Pitcher Returns to Game and Wins by Fluke.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 7.—Dan Griner returned to the fold this afternoon and defeated Brooklyn 3 to 2, although the victory was not well earned. Allen's wild throw to first base in the opening inning paved the way for the home team's victory.

Huggins walked and Oakes singled. On Magee's easy roller Allen threw the ball to right field, Huggins and Oakes scoring and Magee stopping at third. He scored when Konetchy rolled out to Kirkpatrick.

Brooklyn tallied its first run when Kirkpatrick tripled and scored on an out. In the third inning Allen drove the ball into the right field stand for a home run.

Daubert was troubled with an ailment of the stomach and Kirkpatrick was on first base. He tripled and singled twice in four attempts. The score:

NEW TEXAS PLAYERS STRENGTHEN YANKS

Chance Shakes Up His Team and Beats Detroit by the Score of 5 to 1.

Two young ball players from Texas were dedicated with appropriate exercises at the Polo Grounds yesterday. During the happenings attending their début as members of the Yankees, the Detroits were defeated by a score of 5 to 1.

The young athletes in question are Luther Cook, an outfielder from Austin, and Harry Williams, a first baseman from Galveston. Williams, who is only 21 years old, and eats three meals a day, won the popularity of the crowd in the seventh inning when he pounded Joe Lake for a home run into the left-field bleachers. Cook accommodated with three hits, one of them a double. Cookie looks like the lead-off man, forlorn Mr. Chance has been looking for. Cookie wouldn't say where he got that first name, but he thinks it was wished on him when a boy.

The advent of this Texas talent shamed the other Yankees into playing the best baseball they have shown on their present sojourn here. After the game Williams and Cook said that although this town couldn't compare with Texas, they thought perhaps they would stay around a while and try to like it. This morning the newcomers will charter a rubberneck wagon and go down to see the Aquarium and the Atlantic Ocean.

Manager Chance took his team yesterday, poured it into a shaker, gave it a good shaking up and added a lot of pepper. All the kinks and wrinkles were smoothed out and the Yanks looked like an honest-and-true ball club.

While the jump of Cook and Williams from the deep grass of Texas to the big show was something quite sensational, it mustn't be overlooked that Leftie Heinie Schulz, the young Savannah southpaw, spun the ball over the plate with such keen cleverness that its course resembled the shape of a pretzel, something which Heinie is very fond of.

Schulz held the Detroits to three hits, and the only run which the Tigers harvested was presented to them by Schulz on a wild pitch. Cobb, Crawford and Gainer, who have been known to be able to hit more or less, were successfully subdued.

Bush greeted Schulz in the first inning with a single to right. He went to second while Bauman was being thrown out at first, and extended his journey to third on Crawford's out. Then Schulz lost control of the ball, and one of his shoots rolled to the backstop and Bush counted.

Joe Lake ceased to be a mystery to the Yankee batsmen in the third inning. After Gossett had flied out, Schulz beat out a tap to short. Cook made his first hit in the big league, a single to right, and was warmly cheered. Wolter forced Cook at second. Cree's single to right scored Schulz. When Stanage threw wild to second to get Cree Wolter scored.

In the seventh inning Williams, who had been playing a smart game at first, drove the ball into the bleachers for a home run, and the crowd stood up and greeted him with cheers as he romped to the plate. In this same inning Cook made his third hit, but was caught stealing second.

Lake was abstracted from the game in the eighth to permit Dubuc to make an unsuccessful try for a pinch hit. Hall succeeded Lake and was merrily prodded for hits in the eighth inning. After Wolter had fanned, Cree singled through short, and went to third on Hartzell's double to the left-field fence. Peckinpaugh's single scored Cree and Hartzell scored while Knight was being retired at first.

Otis Crandall, the Giant pitcher, who has been traded to St. Louis for Larry McLean, saw the game. Crandall will report to the Cardinals in a few days. St. Louis opens a four-game series today. The score:

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 7.—With a selling stake as the feature offering by the Saratoga Association to-day there was little call for the truly high-class horses, though it brought about a thrilling finish when Henry J. Morris's Scallywag beat John O. Talbott's Palanquin a matter of inches. There was a slight falling off in attendance, but the crowd was still of generous proportions, and the devotees of the sport found plenty of entertainment, while a bit of scandal broke loose that resulted in the ordering from the track of James Reid and John Langemann.

This scandal dates back to Belmont Park, and grew out of two races ridden by Jockey John Wilson there. It was charged that he had received $1,000 to pull a horse, and that he had ridden the race out and thereby "double-crossed" the men who would have him lose. In another race he was said to have stopped a horse according to orders. The two races in question were when Working Lad was beaten with Wilson up, and later when John C. Talbott's Delft was winner at a good price.

It was after Delft had won that Wilson was warned to return the bribe money or the matter would be laid before the stewards. He said he did not have the money, but he gave up a ring in lieu of the cash and to prevent the exposure. Later the whole matter was laid before the stewards, and while no official ruling was handed down the two mentioned were ordered from the track. In the meantime Wilson was permitted to ride, and the presumption is that he was able to clear his skirts of the charge of fraud. The Reid mentioned in the case is a former jockey, who rode abroad. He has been ruled off the turf. Langemann is known about the race courses as "Dollar John," and he was charged with being the one to offer the bribe.

Since these two races Wilson has ridden two races that did not look any too well at the present meeting, and with the breaking of the scandal his more recent performances were freely discussed. It was he who rode Palanquin in the opening race of the meeting, and had him well beaten when he was a hot public choice. Later he had the mount on Jawbone, a 1 to 3 choice, and he, too, was beaten in a disgracefully slow race. At the time the races had a bad look and should Jawbone win to-morrow, it will look blacker still for the boy. The summaries;

HEAVYWEIGHTS AT GARDEN.

Gunboat Smith and Jim Flynn Will Box Ten Rounds To-night.

Gunboat Smith of California, the leading claimant for the white heavyweight title, and Jim Flynn of Pueblo, Col., finished up their training yesterday for their ten-round bout at Madison Square Garden to-night, and from both camps came reports that the boxers are fit for battle. The pair will face each other at 10 o'clock to-night, with Billy Joh as the third man in the ring.

Flynn, although not counted heavily as a likely successor to the title recently held by Luther McCarty, is somewhat of an enigma in pugilism. He is the sole survivor of the heavyweights who flourished before the much discussed white hope situation arose, being 34 years of age, and, despite numerous setbacks before and since that time, he continues to occupy a prominent place in the heavyweight ranks.

Smith has been going through the heavyweight ranks without a setback for more than a year, and in a number of battles he has shown that he possesses that one great requisite to success in the ring—a knockout punch. To-night he will have the advantage of three inches in height, a longer reach, and about ten pounds in weight over Flynn.

Kramer Defeats Australian Rival.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 7.—National Champion Frank L. Kramer proved too much for Jackie Clarke, the Australian who has been riding in phenomenal form recently in a one-mile match race at the Velodrome tonight. Kramer, after losing the first heat of the match, came back and left no doubt about his supremacy in the next two heats. In winning the second heat Kramer negotiated the last one-eighth of a mile in 11 4-5 seconds, which equals the best previous time for the distance, made at the track by Verri, the Italian.

Donald McDougall of the New York A. C. and National amateur title-holder, won the two-mile race in his division from scratch. In the final sprint he engaged in a fine duel with Aubrey Taylor, the Australian champion. The American youth was much the speedier, and led the foreigner to the tape in 4:13 1-5.

Bad Fall for French Motor Cyclist.

Andre Grapperon, the European motor cycling champion, who arrived in this country only a few days ago, suffered a painful but not serious accedent yesterday afternoon during a practice spin at the Brighton Beach Motordrome. Grapperon was closely following a field made up of Henry St. Yves, Hagna, Davis, and Costello, when the last named, in attempting to lower his position on the track, bumped into the Frenchman's machine. The collision threw Grapperon heavily, but he managed to push the heavy motor cycle forward and thereby escaped serious injury. He was able to go back to the track for a slower workout later in the day, and declared that the fall would not interfere either with his one-mile exhibition tomorrow night or his title race with Charley Davis Sunday night.

GOV. SULZER AND THE PEOPLE.

"The people know William Sulzer and trust him," said Mr. Sulzer in a statement put forth on Oct. 7 last, during his campaign for the Governorship. The people may have trusted Mr. Sulzer at that time, but recent disclosures indicate that they did not know him. As knowledge increases confidence dwindles. The last vestige of the people's confidence will be withdrawn from Mr. Sulzer, and with it their respect, unless he can satisfactorily explain the transactions in which the revelations of the Frawley Committee show him to have been involved.

Upon the one hand, the disclosures, as they stand, indicate that Mr. Sulzer has been guilty of a misdemeanor in making affidavit to his campaign receipts far below the actual amount which the evidence shows he actually received; upon the other, they make it appear that money evidently received by him for campaign expenditures was employed in Wall Street investments. Thus, the Governor is put in a position where proceedings may be taken against him for a violation of the law relating to campaign contributions, while personal dishonor and disgrace would be involved in the proof that funds contributed for use in his campaign were used in the way indicated.

The people of New York do not want to believe these shocking things of the Governor of the State. But if the charges are untrue, why does not Mr. Sulzer deny them at once? If he has any explanation, why does he not make it? To make countercharges against Mr. Murphy and to seek to ferret out wrongful practices, chargeable to the Murphy influence, in the State departments is no answer to the evidence affecting Mr. Sulzer's reputation and honor. Can he be so blind as not to see that his silence will be construed as confession, that any attempt on his part to baffle the committee in its work or to evade a full investigation will also be construed as confession?

The case as now made up against him is so dreadful that every reasonable man will hope that he may clear himself. But he must take up the work of exculpation at once, and in a very different way from that which he has followed up to the present time. There is danger that he will lose not only every shred of reputation, but the office he holds. The only course that can save him is to make known the whole truth, but the truth must show something very different from what now appears upon the record, or even that will not avail.

THE TARIFF ON AUTOMOBILES.

The Senate debated the tariff on automobiles in the same week that the year's exports of automobiles were published, but the Senators made no use of the figures. The high level of the Senate debate was shown in Senator Williams's argument that "there "are a lot of fools in this country "that will insist on completed foreign "cars, thinking they are better, and "these rates are fixed for them." Accordingly the proposed rates were adopted:

> Valued at $1,500 or over, 45 per cent.; valued at less than $1,500 and more than $1,000, 30 per cent.; valued at less than $1,000, 15 per cent.; automobile chassis and finished parts of automobiles, not including tires, 30 per cent.

Apparently there is nothing to prevent anybody taking apart his car dutiable at 45 per cent. and importing it at 30 per cent. The figures of the trade show that the tariff on automobiles has about as much economic effect as the duty on wheat. We export more value in automobiles than France, the hitherto leading exporter. We send more cars to France itself than France sends here, to the class of buyers who want something "different," and better in that respect if in no other. It was only in 1902 that there were enough automobile exports to justify classifying them separately. Five years later they had increased more than fivefold, to $6,000,000. In the fiscal year 1913 they were $44,000,000. The number was 25,000, against 7,000 no longer ago than 1910. As the exports have risen the values have fallen to a figure for a typical machine now of about $1,000. On the other hand, the value of the imported machines has fallen from over four millions in 1907 to two millions in 1913, and an average per machine of only $2,300. It is the countries where costs are high that our machines are most appreciated, and the average to Europe was only $800. Europe now is proposing to send us "cycle cars," which are neither bicycles nor automobiles. In comparison with our cheap cars they have no merits but cheapness, and if we undertake to make them they will lose that on comparison.

The relevancy of these figures to the tariff debate is apparent. The tariff did not produce this trade, and the tariff cannot develop it. This trade is the product of the American genius for quantity production by standardizing parts and making them by machinery. The tariff never claimed to produce intellect, and it was intellect applied to industrial operations which enabled one firm to declare a ten-million-dollar dividend. It is absurd to talk about protecting an infant of that sort.

MR. WHITMAN ACCEPTS.

Resisting the almost overwhelming pressure put upon him by the leaders of his own party, District Attorney Whitman has had the wisdom and the public spirit to accept the fusion nomination for the office he now holds. It might be said that he would have spared himself a great deal of trouble had he made up his mind, and announced his decision, before returning to the city. But the choice he has made is right, and he deserves all praise for making it.

He had before him the splendid example of Mr. McAneny, whose acceptance of the fusion nomination for President of the Board of Aldermen was one of the most notable acts of magnanimity, fine public spirit, and devotion to the interests of the city that is to be found in all our chronicles of fusion or other politics Mr. Whitman was greatly tempted to abandon the fusion cause and make an independent canvass for the Mayoralty. Such a proceeding would have been senseless and devoid of all justification. Defeat would have been certain, and a third candidacy would have been an open invitation to Tammany to do its worst. Tammany is now on notice that it must pay decent respect to public opinion.

FACTS OF THE BUSINESS OUTLOOK

Some think that Congress has done its best to kill prosperity, and some think Congress has done its worst, which may be another way of saying the same thing. What those of the differing ways of thinking ought to consider is not their differences of opinion, but the facts in the case. And the fact is that all records are broken for the facts of trade under such conditions as those now existing regarding legislation. We published yesterday a Chicago dispatch quoting leading men of business, and such bankers as Mr. Forgan, to the effect that business is good and improving, regardless of the money market and what Congress is doing or not doing. We published also the testimony of a representative of Claflin & Co. that there is no complaint of the buying for the Fall season. It is the buyers' business to know what the quality of the selling will be. Goods are scarce, and buyers must take them while they can get them, because later on there will be greater scarcity unless there is such activity in production as will cause the wage-earners to rejoice.

There was published on Monday the official statement of the goods piled up in bonded warehouses awaiting release under the new rates of duty. There are $106,000,000 worth, and calamity hunters may think that spells prostration of manufacture. It can only spell that for the present moment. Looking ahead, it spells corresponding activity. Materials of manufacture are not accumulated for fun, nor to put into cold storage indefinitely. Those materials are imported to be turned into goods for sale, and the larger the quantity the larger the demand for labor and the stronger the testimony to the importers' belief that it is going to be worth while to make the materials into the finished goods.

Raw wool to the amount of 20,000,000 pounds is among these warehoused materials. That may or may not mean misery for the few producers of wool. It certainly means work for the makers of wool goods and lower prices for the wearer of the domestic product. The proof of this is the Fall price lists. The American Woolen Company, the leading producer, is not reducing wages, but is reducing its prices by 10 per cent. or more. A typical product is priced $1.12½, or cheaper by 17½ cents. The United States Worsted Company follows this lead by a reduction of 10 to 20 cents a yard. It is plain that there is to be domestic competition for the foreign goods, quite as surely as the lamented competition of the foreign with the domestic. There are $3,000,000 of foreign linens waiting to "flood" this market. Buyers of linen will hardly bewail that fact, and the makers of the goods which will be sold to pay for the linens—since they will not be given to us—can see work and wages as plainly as the heads of households can see cheaper supplies of what they could hardly afford under the higher protective schedules.

It is true that it is possible to collect instances where weak domestic producers are taking advantage of the tariff agitation to make exculpatory explanation of their embarrassment. But that is not the general temper. Our efficient producers are going to take a great deal of beating before they succumb to the stress of meeting the foreign produce on their own ground. For example, here are the words of Mr. William M. Wood, President of the American Woolen Company, on his return from abroad:

> I understand that wool has finally been put on the free list. I cannot say what the attitude of woolen manufacturers as a body will be, but for my part I will say that I will endeavor to run my factory in accordance with the terms of the law. We have the best-equipped woolen mill in the world, and I see no reason why we should not be able to produce woolen fabrics as good as any produced elsewhere. The higher cost of labor in this country necessarily makes the cost of production higher, but I think even with free wool and a moderate tariff on the manufactured article of say 30 per cent. to 40 per cent. we will be able to successfully compete with foreign manufacturers.

This is a survey of the most contentious part of the business outlook. When the survey is limited to existing conditions they seem even better. The Wall Street farmers are bewailing the crops, but the nearer the observer gets to the fields the better the prophecy. For example, the Chicago Continental and Commercial Bank has just made a crop examination for itself, and finds nine million bushels more of growing wheat than last year, a bumper crop, in fact, with 30,000,000 of last year's yield in elevators. "There are over and above the domes- "tic need 170,000,000 bushels, and for "the second consecutive year the Unit- "ed States becomes a heavy exporter "of wheat." Only recent damage has prevented the growing corn crop from being a record. As it is, the prospect is for 2,800,000,000 bushels, against a ten-year average of 2,670,000,000. To this must be added old corn to a total of 400,000,000 bushels above last year's reserves in supply at this time. It is possible that a larger supply of corn might be a disguised blessing. Of hay there promises to be a billion dollars' worth, and hay is as important as hens in the farmers' economy. The bank thinks there will be a million more bales of cotton this year than last, or 14,700,000.

To gild this glowing prospect, it is only necessary to add that yesterday's report of foreign trade puts it at a trifle of $4,275,000,000, or $421,000,000 over the preceding year. Of the exports the farmers' share was $181,693,263, against $99,659,025 the year before. Yet the farmer outshrieks the manufacturer ruined by the wicked tariff reformers.

MR. LIND'S MISSION.

It is not necessary for Provisional President Huerta to jump at conclusions as to the nature of Mr. Lind's mission. All that is known in this country, by official statement, is that Mr. Lind goes as adviser to our embassy. The Mexican Government has no occasion to take offense at the sending of such an adviser—certainly not before it is officially informed what advice is to be given, and probably not then. Mr. Lind will not take with him to the City of Mexico the warship in which he proceeds to Vera Cruz. His mission is entirely friendly, that is to be assumed. It is, therefore, preposterous for President Huerta's Minister of Foreign Affairs to say that if Mr. Lind does not bring with him recognition of the Government of Mexico his presence there will be "undesirable."

The situation in which our relations with Mexico have been placed is delicate, it is unfortunate. Our belief has been, and is, that it should have been avoided by earlier and different action. But it is to be assumed that President Wilson has been actuated by a sincere purpose to bring about a better understanding and to put our relations upon a more definite footing. That being the case, there is no occasion for President Huerta and his Government to be unduly apprehensive. There is a way, well known in diplomacy, of declining to receive unacceptable communications. It is first to find out what they are, and then to say that they cannot be entertained. That course will be open to the Government of Mexico after the arrival of Mr. Lind. President Huerta would be very ill-advised should he now take an attitude that would tend further to impair in this country confidence in his steadiness and sobriety of judgment. It is to the interest of both countries that all causes of irritation be avoided.

A RUN AROUND THE WORLD.

The record achieved by John Henry Mears, who for The Evening Sun traveled over 21,000 miles around the world in less than thirty-six days, beating the fictitious Phileas Fogg in this globe-girdling exploit by more than forty-four days, "Nellie Bly" by more than thirty-six days, Henry Frederick by over eighteen days, and Andre Jaeger-Schmidt by nearly four days, has greater significance than a mere sporting event. Mr. Mears accomplished his feat not so much by the interlocking of train and steamship schedules as by the ready aid in emergencies which he found everywhere among peoples of many nations and races. For example, the deluge of rain that washed away part of the track on the Trans-Siberian Railway would have defeated his purpose to take a fast Pacific liner to Seattle from Yokohama were it not for the active interest of the Russian, Manchurian, Korean, and Japanese officials of transportation. They enabled him to make up nearly a day of lost time and got him through to Yokohama on the schedule. A tug, a yacht, and a hydroaeroplane overcame the disadvantages of fog on Puget Sound, and a great transcontinental railway system saved for him three days in crossing the United States.

That the ends of the earth may be brought together, that deep shall call unto deep, and that time and space may be annihilated in the attempt to bring mankind into more friendly and understanding relations, has been the chief aim of modern progress. Mr. Mears's record is a testimonial that the obstacles of distance and of time are shrinking.

A CALL FOR SPECIFICATIONS.

The Bureau of Municipal Research has done well to call attention to a number of matters not treated, or treated vaguely, in the programme of the Fusion Committee and in that of the Progressive Party. Some of these, we should say, are too minute for definite presentation in a political platform, but they are not without importance and might with effect be used in the canvass of the candidates. Others are of real importance, and the neglect of them, we fear, is due to the fact that the nominating committees had little information about them and no clear opinion, and were too much occupied in the log-rolling of the several factions to attend to them.

One thing on which the bureau dwells is the specific measures by which expenditure can be kept within bounds. This is a case, literally, when a penny saved is very nearly equal to twopence earned, because if the spending of the city revenues is put on a business basis the spirit of borrowing will be more than proportionately checked. The standardizing of tools, equipment, and office methods; the elimination of unnecessary or obstructive employes; full time for all employes; the strict inspection and report on all offices; the fair application of the principle that veterans are entitled to preference but not to maintenance—these are all points as to which the reform candidates might well stand on a definite platform to be emphasized and reinforced in the discussion of the campaign.

It must be admitted that the minds of the voters in a municipal campaign are more influenced by the character of candidates and by the general work they may have done than by specific professions. In the light of this fact the Fusion Committee would have done much better to present the name of Mr. McAneny, whose character and general work are thoroughly established and well understood, and who is absolutely free from entanglement with faction or subjection to fads. Such a candidate would have the great advantage before the public of being able to discuss specific policies with adequate information and with trained judgment. And he would be listened to, because he would know what he was talking about, and the public would know that he knew it.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Of Course They'd Be Welcome.

It has been suggested to us by Dr. Charles B. Davenport of the biological laboratory—or Eugenics Record Office, to use its official name—which by its work has made Cold Spring Harbor, L. I., known all through the scientific world, that the International Congress of Eugenics, now assembled in Paris, should be formally invited to hold its next meeting here. The idea is an extremely good one, not only because New York is a city which the workers in this highly important field would find of particular interest, but because the wide and intelligent publicity which would be given by the local press to their papers and discussions would be sure to lead to a much-needed diffusion among our public of accurate information as to what eugenics really is and what its exponents are trying to do.

On each of these points much both of illusion and delusion prevails, with the result that this youngest of the sciences has many enemies who ought to be friends and that not a few of its friends have been led into making mistakes that excuse, or at least explain, the existence of the enemies. This unfortunate and harmful state of affairs has just been illustrated in Pennsylvania, where some perfectly well-intentioned people have secured in what they thought the general interest the passage of a marriage license law so ill-devised that a prompt return to the old ignoring of all scientific restrictions and protections is only too probable.

For this law, while the questions it propounds as to those meditating marriage are right enough in substance, addresses them, not to a competent authority, like their selected physicians, but to contracting parties. Of what use is it, for instance, to ask candidates for matrimony if they are mentally defective, if they have been or are likely to become public charges, if they are suffering from the effects of alcohol or other drugs, or if they are the victims of transmissible diseases? Of course it is of no use at all, especially as the answers are not made under oath or with any penalty provided for falsehood.

Many of the Pennsylvania papers are denouncing this law and finding in it proof that eugenics is a stupid and offensive fad. Of course it is nothing of the sort, but simply proof that not all who call themselves eugenists deserve the name or are notable for common sense. Most of these denunciations, by the way, are based on the assumption that such questioning will be hotly resented. Curiously enough, the local columns of the same papers show that few if any of the applicants for licenses were disturbed by the foolish queries, but all took them either humorously or in entire calm.

We, Too, Can Give Some Advice.

Of the letters recently printed on this page in response to a request for advice from a would-be farmer, only one has mentioned, and that one did not sufficiently emphasize, the need in farming as in every other business of adequate capital. The days are past in the United States, at least for all but highly exceptional men, for attaining success on a farm through the mere inclination and ability to do hard work. The modern farmer raises things to sell, and not, like his colonial predecessors, for the direct sustenance and clothing of himself and his family. For his products to be readily and profitably marketable his operations must be on a considerable scale, and he must be prepared not only to buy a lot of machinery and fertilizers in large quantities, and to wait months—in some cases years—for the return on his investment.

The alternative to this sort of farming is more than apt to be a more or less prolonged struggle against hopeless odds, with ultimate return to town work as the only escape from complete failure. The small farm has gone, or is fast going, the way of the small shop, though of course it must be remembered that what would be a small farm might be a large garden for the raising of "truck."

Another point which the advisers have not sufficiently impressed on the seeker for information is that cheap access to near markets counts for much more toward farming success than does natural or unassisted fertility of land. Most valuable of all, perhaps, is the possession of sufficient intelligence to realize that farming is, or ought to be, applied science, and that it is to be acquired from colleges, not from the old fellows who resent criticism of the old ways and regard the "book farmer" as half imbecile and half criminal, always to be derided and never imitated.

RURAL FIRE INSURANCE.

Companies Encourage Carelessness by Charging Equal Rates.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Dr. Dawbarn has opened an important subject in his letter on rural fire risks, printed recently in The Times. In all things just rates are, within the range of reasonable application, in proportion to the service rendered. But in the matter of rural fire risks no regard whatever seems to be given to the question of proportion, good risks and poor risks being tumbled together in one lot at a uniform rate.

My own situation with reference to fire insurance rates on country property is similar to that of Dr. Dawbarn. I have a detached brick house with sixteen-inch walls, and all else in proportion, metal roof, lightning rods, 400-gallon tank of water in the attic, nine three-gallon chemical fire extinguishers distributed through the house, all fireplace, range, and furnace chimneys made with flue linings filled about with cement, only safety matches used, &c. Yet I am given the same rate as the worst risk that the companies will take in our district.

As Dr. Dawbarn points out, this is not only unjust but seems to be folly in its failure to encourage precautions against the enormous rural fire waste in the State of New York. Can it be possible that the companies, better aware of the true situation than any others, purposely tax the provident and improvident alike, conserving their own financial interest, as they see it, and disregarding the economic waste to the State?

If an agent can come to make inspection for a single small risk, only $2,000 in my case, why cannot a general survey be made of country houses, the same as of town houses?

Yet some measure of justice might be accorded without such survey through allowing concessions for certain conditions to be reported by the local agent. DATUS C. SMITH.

THE PANAMA EXPOSITION.

Its Official Status Declared by Resolution of Congress.

By Telegraph to the Editor of THE TIMES.

San Francisco, Aug. 7, 1913.

In your issue of Aug. 3 Dennys P. Myers advances as one of the possible reasons for the alleged non-participation of Great Britain and Germany in the Panama-Pacific Exposition that that exposition is not official, its officers having failed in securing the status of official recognition defined by the Berlin Convention of 1912. Permit me to point out Mr. Myers's error. The corporation constituting, directing, and managing the Panama-Pacific Exposition has obtained the recognition and authorization of the United States Government as effectively and solemnly as such recognition and authority can be put into words. This may be seen in the joint resolution of Congress, approved Feb. 15, 1911, whereby the President of the United States was authorized to invite foreign countries to participate in the Panama-Pacific International Exposition at San Francisco, and in President Taft's proclamation issued through the Department of State Feb. 15, 1912.

The commercial nations which see fit to decline this Goverment's invitation to participate have other reasons than those advanced by Mr. Myers. However, at this writing we have every reason to believe that no commercially important nation will be unrepresented when the gates of the greatest exposition in history are opened on Feb. 20, 1915. PEACEFUL ANARCHISTS.

Albanians Do Not Suffer by the Absence of Government.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

To the student of political philosophy I commend the following extract from an intelligent-looking newspaper dispatch describing the present outlook in Albania:

> To me the most interesting thing in an unparalleled situation is the prevailing peace. Outside the six-mile radius of the Admiral's authority in Scutaria the country has no Government at all. It is in a state of anarchy, and I have never seen such peace—never enjoyed such entire ease and freedom in traveling. Of course, there is little to eat, very few horses, no "accommodation," or other tourist delights.

The only flaw in this piece of aid and comfort for the Anarchist is that every dispatch from the Balkans is destined to be contradicted by the next dispatch. But I am a good deal inclined to put faith in this one. From time immemorial the Albanians have got along on the basis of their own customary law as well as the Government would let them, and for half a thousand years, if not for two thousand, Government has entered into Albanian life as a disturbing rather than a pacifying factor. It is not surprising in a country at once so primitive and so conservative if the disappearance of Government is felt as a quieting relief.

The Slaughter of Wild Birds.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Since reading a letter in The Times by May Riley Smith commenting on the widely circulated pamphlet entitled "The Steam Roller of the Feather Importers in the United States: A Warning to the American People," (which every one should read,) I am desirous of adding my protest to legislation which enables a couple of dozen importers and dealers to control the existence of our wild birds and exterminate them at their pleasure.

Women do not need the suffrage to put an end to this cruelty. If every woman who has a heart and a conscience will refuse to wear "these scalps of the slain"—informing herself so she will not be deceived—she will wield a more potent influence than she could by haunting the Capitol or circulating a petition, and since legislation is so slow and so fickle, let us agitate the matter!

PLUMAGE PLUNDERERS.

Only Way to Save Native Birds Is to Forbid Importation.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

When we were fighting every Winter against Spring and Winter shooting of wild fowl, it was at first argued that "the poor" must have birds to eat in Winter, and the loud voice of many an advocate of the wasteful practice was heard in season and out of season, urging the claims of the poor. For the poor to eat up all the breeding stock of birds, so that their own children later could have no birds, would have been wasteful and foolish enough, but what language can be made to convey any idea of the wastefulness of the rich importers of birds' plumage for women's hats going on with their trade, which, without the least doubt, involves the extermination of the species, not only in other countries, but in our own country.

Practically the importing of foreign birds' plumage makes it costly and impossible to enforce laws against using the plumage of native birds for millinery. There are not enough ornithologists to do the work of identifying plumage as the foreign plumage comes in. Of the seventy-five milliners who have been prosecuted in Massachusetts for selling native birds' feathers, the chief defense was that they could not tell the difference between native and foreign. Why, then, is it so necessary that the foreign birds come through our ports that we should be willing to sacrifice our own? What selfishness could be more idiotic. In fact, it is sheer idiocy, without even selfishness.

For whose interest is the feather importing for millinery kept up? Not really for women, as the representative women everywhere are protesting more and more, and the more thoughtless women are ignorantly imposed upon by the shopkeepers. If they inquire, they are assured that the particular ornaments they desire were "picked up" and involve no cruelty or waste. I know this, as I have often inquired of milliners about their wares. There are beautiful ostrich feathers and ribbons enough for all, so that milliners themselves can have no reason for desiring anything more. Yet only last week a syndicate article was published widely, giving pictures of new feather flowers and praising their beauty in the light style assumed by men who intend to force a fashion on the public for their own gain.

The passage of the feather proviso in Schedule N by the Senate as it passed the House is the most necessary in the interests of conservation of any of the plans of conservationists. Forests may be destroyed and grow again, deserts may be reclaimed, water may be supplied at vast costs, but when species of birds are exterminated, no late regret and no need of men can ever restore them throughout all time. In the brief time since we have occupied this continent we are responsible for the loss of several species of birds, as will be seen in detail by perusal of the new book published by the State of Massachusetts, "Game Birds, Wild Fowl, and Shore Birds."

MR. McANENY'S LOYALTY.

Voters Urged to Rally in Support of Fusion Ticket.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I am very glad to note your appreciation of Mr. McAneny's statement.

He has infused into the whole movement a splendid spirit of loyalty and self-sacrifice even while smarting under a sense of the injustice of the committee's decision.

May I be permitted to urge most strongly that The Times emulate his "civic virtue" and throw the weight of its great influence squarely on the side of the Fusion ticket, even though it is as disappointed as I am that the ticket is not headed by Mr. McAneny?

WILLIAM E. WILLCOX.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The people of the City of New York are to be congratulated on the nomination of George McAneny for President of the Board of Aldermen and his patriotic and unselfish attitude in accepting the nomination and supporting the Fusion ticket.

In common with many of his friends on the east side we urged his nomination for Mayor. We will now do our utmost to assure his election to another office. In the last analysis, it is the man that makes the office. The Board of Aldermen under the guidance of Mr. McAneny will be restored to the position to which it is entitled as the legislative body of the City of New York.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

If the Republican majority had one good notion in matters governmental, it was the common sense of maintaining a board of paid experts who, assuming a fair degree of honestness of purpose, could at least read understandingly the laws they had themselves framed. In lieu of such a board, why not a series of classes for legislators, to be presided over by a certain professor of general lore? We are peculiarly fortunate at this time in having the services of a President who could amiably combine his old-time classroom proclivities with affairs of State.

Dangerous Street Games.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

To my mind the city streets have become nothing but schools for the development of criminals, and it seems to me that if any one person is directly responsible for the present condition of affairs it is the Mayor through his statement that the boys have a perfect right to play in the streets. Granting the privilege is one belonging to the boys, does it carry with it the right to maim or seriously injure those of the general public who have occasion to be upon the streets? I am heartily in accord with Mr. Weigert's idea of fining the parents, but would make the fine at least $5. G. F. HAVEN.

TRANSFORMATION.

Where is my wife of yester-year?
  I miss her everywhere,
With double chin and baggy throat,
  And silver in her hair.
I loved her for her solid walk,
  I loved her for her size,
I loved her for the wrinkles
  That had grown about her eyes.
I watched those wrinkles coming,
  And I miss those wrinkles now,
For they came from mutual trouble,
  And I matched them on my brow.

But the Beauty Doctor got her,
  And he fixed her double chin,
And he paraffined her shoulders,
  And he pulled her waistline in.
And her figure of a matron,
  Which I'd grown to know so well,
Is as slender as a willow
  And as swift as a gazelle.

Do I hunt that Beauty Doctor,
  With a summons in my fist?
Do I swear eternal vengeance
  For the age-marks that I've missed?
Do I rage for charms lymphatic?
  No! I sound a minor note,
For she's got herself up shipshape,
  To be ready for the vote.

CLAIM TO HAVE NAMED TAFT

Manufacturers' Association Also Warned Republicans of Labor Plank

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—James L. Ewell of Hampton, N. Y., who formerly conducted an export magazine for the National Association of Manufacturers, was the only witness before the House lobby committee to-day. He testified that soon after the election of William H. Taft to the Presidency, J. P. Bird, General Manager of the association, said to him:

> People are beginning to realize the power of the National Association of Manufacturers. A committee of the association, before Mr. Taft was nominated, went to him and to the convention Committee on Resolutions and told them that if they put any such labor planks in the platform as were suggested by Gompers and the American Federation of Labor, we would defeat them, but that if they did not and left it to the Democrats to support such planks, the Democrats would be defeated.

"Then," the witness continued, "with a little smile Mr. Bird said: 'That plank didn't go in, and we feel pretty well satisfied at having put Mr. Taft over.'"

The witness went at great length into several internal dissensions that disturbed the association, and attacked rather bitterly some of its officials, particularly Mr. Bird, who, he declared, treated him unfairly in discharging him from the employ of the association. Toward the close of his examination Robert McCarter, for the association, questioned him about an unsuccessful suit he prosecuted against the association for some $50,000 which he declared was due him when he was discharged.

"I lost that suit through the false testimony of Mr. Bird and his counsel, Mr. A. Parker Nevin," he shouted.

Little of Ewell's testimony bore on the legislative activities of the association, although he did describe two conversations between Mr. Bird and M. M. Mulhall, at which he was present.

"On one occasion," he said, "I knew there was a tremendous fight on in the district of Representative (now Senator) Hughes of New Jersey. I was talking to Mr. Bird when Mr. Mulhall came into the room. In his characteristic way he shouted: 'Well, I could have done better if I had had more money. I didn't have enough money. There were plenty of Democrats over there, and I didn't have enough money to buy them. I think I did damn well with the money I had, don't you?'"

On another occasion, Ewell said, he heard Mulhall demand $2,500 from Bird "for work in Washington." Bird promised him the money, the witness declared.

Ewell told the committee the circumstances of the resignation of Marshall Cushing as Secretary of the association. He said that Cushing declined to tell the officers and Directors the details of the expenditure of money in a campaign to re-elect Representative Littlefield of Maine.

"They wanted to know just what he did with the money he had," said Ewell. "He said that he thought that it wouldn't do him or the Directors any good if he told them. He told me he went the limit to secure Littlefield's election. He wouldn't tell the Directors, so he resigned."

According to Mr. Ewell, there were about 3,000 members of the National Association of Manufacturers. The dues were $50 a year.

The committee adjourned until next Monday, when Mulhall will be asked to take the witness stand.

On the Senate side the lobby committee continued its examination of James A. Emery, counsel for the National Association of Manufacturers. Mr. Emery told of the steps that led to the formation in 1908 of the Council of Industrial Defense. A collector for that organization, Mulhall has testified, raised between $500,000 and $700,000 for "legislative work."

Senator Reed tried to get Emery to testify that the council had its origin at a convention of the manufacturers in 1907, when James W. Van Cleave appealed for a fund of $500,000 for three years. The witness denied that the $500,000 fund was raised.

WILL QUIT CARRYING MAIL.

Problem Confronts Government as Result of Clover Leaf's Action.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—Postmaster General Burleson is confronting a big problem in the notice served on the Post Office Department by the Toledo, St. Louis & Western Railroad Company (the Clover Leaf) that after Sept. 28 it will discontinue the transportation of the United States Mails. This action is the outcome of dissatisfaction over the changes made in the rates of payment to common carriers for carrying mails. The acute cause of the Clover Leaf's attitude is the recent order of Postmaster General Burleson providing for an increase in the maximum weight of parcel post packages from eleven to twenty pounds.

The Clover Leaf and practically all the other railroads have maintained that the present compensation received by them under mail carrying contracts is unjust. With the increase in the weight and size of parcel post packages, mail carrying roads will be obliged to increse their carrying space for mail.

Post Office Department officials admitted to-night that there was no law that could compel a railroad to carry mail against its will. They said that the United States courts had rendered decisions to that effect.

Department officials said that the grounds given by the Clover Leaf for declining to haul the mails were "trivial," but they declined to make known what these grounds were. An effort is being made by the department to adjust the differences, and officials expressed a fair degree of confidence that this effort would be successful. The Clover Leaf has been informed that its contract will not lapse for two years, and the department will insist that it be carried out. The contract brings the Clover Leaf $62,000 a year.

The notice served by the Toledo, St. Louis & Western is believed to be the entering wedge of an effort backed by a large number of railroads to test the Government's method in fixing the rates of railroad compensation for carrying the mails.

NEW STOCK ISSUE ALLOWED

N. Y. Municipal Railway Corporation Will Sell $400,000 Worth.

The Public Service Commission has approved a further issue of $400,000 of the capital stock of the New York Municipal Railway Corporation. This company's total authorized capital is $1,000,000, and when it was organized the commission allowed an issue of $100,000 to cover preliminary expenses. With the $400,000 just allowed the company now has permission to issue one-half of its total capital stock.

In granting permission to issue this $400,000 the commission stipulates that it shall be sold at not less than par; shall be issued for money, and that the proceeds shall be applied only to the following purposes:

"For acquisition of property, or for construction, completion, extension, or improvement of its facilities, or for the discharge or lawful refunding of its obligations."

The stock must be issued on or before Sept. 30, and the company must keep separate accounts showing the receipt and application in detail of the proceeds of the stock, and make monthly reports to the commission.

G. G. Thorne Buys Wells Estate.

LENOX, Mass., Aug. 7.—Gilbert G. Thorne, Vice President of the National Park Bank of New York, has bought the Orchards, the country place owned by Mrs. R. B. Wells at Lakeville, Conn. This property is north of Mrs. Wells's own country place and was formerly the country estate of M. B. Wells of Chicago. There are 150 acres in the estate, with large barns and buildings and a handsome big villa on the crest of Wells Hill, with a view of sixty miles to the north. Mr. Thorne will occupy the place at once.

OWEN BILL TO LIFT 2 PER CENTS TO PAR

SEEKS BIGGER GOLD RESERVE

And to Unify Currency Issues—Proposal May Be Added to Administration Bill.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—A method of retiring outstanding national bank notes and a market at par for the 2 per cent. bonds, used as circulation security, are provided in a bill introduced to-day by Senator Owen of Oklahoma, Chairman of the Committee on Banking and Currency. Though Mr. Owen later explained his bill as simply a means of increasing the gold reserve and unifying currency issues by replacing both gold certificates and national bank notes by heavily protected Treasury notes, it is believed that the immediate purpose of the bill is to offset the recent depreciation in Government 2s by having the Government itself provide a market for their redemption at par.

The bill authorizes the Secretary of the Treasury, as fast as gold certificates are received, to cancel them and transfer the gold which they represent to the redemption division. In lieu of the canceled certificates the Secretary shall issue Treasury notes, redeemable in gold.

The retirement of the national bank notes and the 2 per cent. bonds securing them would be accomplished by a provision in the bill that, on the request of national banks, at his discretion, the Secretary of the Treasury may purchase the bonds used for this purpose at par and accrued interest. He would then assume redemption of the notes, secured by the purchased bonds, charging the amount of the notes against the proceeds of the bonds and paying the balance in cash to the banks.

These 2 per cents would then be cancelled and a like amount of 3 per cent. bonds placed in the redemption division, the annual interest on them being credited to the division's fund. As fast as the national bank notes secured by the bonds thus purchased came into the Treasury they would be canceled and Treasury notes issued in their place.

Mr. Owen explained that his bill was intended merely as a supplement to the General Currency Reform bill, of which he and Representative Glass were the authors. In no sense, he said, was it to be considered as a substitute or as a measure intended for quick passage while consideration of the regular reform measure was postponed.

To Build Up Gold Reserve.

"The bill," said Mr. Owen, "intends to build up the gold reserve, which is now $150,000,000, against $346,000,000 of greenback issues, and its purpose is to unify the currency and simplify the forms used. We can build up the gold reserve in the redemption division without cost, and by building up a very large reserve in the redemption division it has the psychological effect upon the nation of establishing and maintaining confidence in the stability of our financial system.

"The United States has 100 per cent. of gold against its gold certificates, less than 50 per cent. of gold against its greenbacks, and no gold at all against the national bank notes. The bill I introduced provides for the retirement of such national bank notes as the bankers wish to relinquish, and the taking over at par and accrued interest of the 2 per cent. bonds now in the hands of the Controller of the Currency as the basis of the issue of such national bank notes.

"This follows the principle pursued by the reserve banks of Europe, which keep on hand Government securities with which they could, if necessary, obtain gold for the redemption in gold of any notes offered for redemption by the public.

"If all the gold certificates were thus transferred, and all the 2 per cent. bonds were thus taken over, the Redemption Division would have $1,086,000,000 of present warehouse gold and $150,000,000 of reserve fund gold, now in the Redemption Division, a total of $1,236,000,000 of gold; and $730,000,000 of 3 per cent. bonds, against which would be outstanding $1,086,000,000 of new treasury notes, plus $346,000,000 greenbacks, plus $730,000,000 of Treasury notes issued in lieu of national bank notes, making a total of $2,162,000,000 of notes, against $1,966,000,000 of gold and bonds, which would give the United States the most gigantic reserve in the world, and exercise a powerful psychological influence over the United States and the people of the world. It would establish confidence and play an important part in stabilizing the commerce and industry of the United States."

Republican Aid for Bill.

Representative James R. Mann, minority leader in the House of Representatives, said to-day that the Glass-Owen Currency bill will probably have strong support from the Republican minority in the House of Representatives.

Mr. Mann indicated that the Republicans were not ready to accept the bill as a whole, but expressed his belief that if a few changes were made in the measure most of the Republicans would vote for it. This information has been conveyed to Floor Leader Underwood and to Chairman Glass of the House Banking and Currency Committee.

State Bankers Attack Money Bill.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Aug. 7.—The Currency bill pending in Congress was condemned as fundamentally wrong because "it would take the banking business of the country out of the hands of trained bankers and upset business conditions," in a resolution passed to-day by about fifty members of the New York State Bankers' Association, who met here. Albany bankers especially attacked the bill.

KINGSLEY ESTATE $234,940.

Through the filing of the report of the State Tax Appraiser yesterday at the Surrogate's office in Brooklyn, it was learned that the gross value of the estate left by Mrs. Sarah Kingsley was $234,940.52. After the expenses of administration and the State tax were deducted the net value of the estate was $227,274.91.

Fifteen beneficiaries were named in Mrs. Kingsley's will. The bulk of the estate was left to her two grandsons, Kingsley and Halstead Swan. Each receives the sum of $99,674.38. Of this amount, one-half is to be turned over to them to do with as they will, and the other half is placed in trust. Of this trust fund they may spend the income, but the principal is to be left to their heirs.

The largest holding of Mrs. Kingsley was seven shares of stock in The Brooklyn Daily Eagle. The par value of these shares is $1,000, but their value to-day, according to the Tax Appraiser, is $16,000 a share.

Mrs. Kingsley was the widow of William C. Kingsley, a well-known contractor of Brooklyn. He was a member of the commission that superintended the building of the Brooklyn Bridge.

Boy Hadn't Working Papers.

The Paulus & Howell Press of 54 and 56 Third Street has written to The Times to explain that the fine of $20 against it in the Court of Special Sessions on Monday was not for employing a boy under 14 years of age but for employing a boy over 14 years of age without his working papers, which fact was not known to their manager.

SCHRANK CAUSES ODD REAL ESTATE TANGLE

IS SANE IN THIS STATE

No Legal Service of Papers in the Case Possible in Wisconsin—The Problem Worries Lawyers.

A lis pendens was filed yesterday in the County Clerk's office by Harold Swain as attorney of record in an action entitled "City Real Estate Company vs. John Schrank, also known as John Flamming." John Schrank is the man who attempted to kill ex-President Roosevelt in October last in Milwaukee. The City Real Estate Company is a subsidiary corporation of the Title Guarantee and Trust Company. A mortgage for $13,000 is to be foreclosed. The money was loaned on premises at 433 East Eighty-first Street, a tenement house. The payment of principal and interest had been guaranteed on the mortgage, and as the interest has not been paid the action looking to foreclosure has been started.

The action has disclosed several facts concerning Schrank's career. Schrank frequently used the name of John Flamming and was better known by his assumed name than by his own. For twelve years he made his home with an aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Dominick Flamming, at 370 East Tenth Street, both of whom are dead. This was the period directly following his arrival in this country from Bavaria thirty years ago.

Schrank's father and mother had died within a short time of each other in the old country, the father a maniac. When the Flammings left Erding, Bavaria, for the United States, Mrs. Anna Flamming brought with her her nine-year-old nephew John.

The Flammings settled on the lower east side and John Schrank adopted his foster-parents' name. The Flammings prospered, and in course of time bought the brick tenement house at 433 East Eighty-first Street. The Flammings lived there until Mrs. Flamming became insane in 1907. She died on Nov. 25, 1907, in the Presbyterian Hospital. Schrank's uncle died on Feb. 5, 1911, and he became the heir to his estate, of $25,000. Included in the estate was the house in East Eighty-first Street, upon which Mr. Flamming had placed a mortgage of $13,000 on Dec. 18, 1908. This left him an equity in the house of only a few thousand dollars.

During Flamming's life the interest upon the mortgage was promptly paid and Schrank later kept up the payments until July 1, 1912. Since that date, however, no interest has been paid on the mortgage.

Schrank now is confined in the Northern Hospital for the insane at Winnebaga, Wis. At his trial in Milwaukee on Nov. 12 last, he pleaded guilty, but sought to paluate his guilt. Judge Backus appointed a commission to examine into Schrank's mental condition, and this commission later held him to be insane.

In the action brought by the City Real Estate Company the corporation finds itself in a curious position. Although declared insane by the Wisconsin courts, Schrank in the eyes of the law in this State must be regarded as sane, inasmuch as the New York courts have never passed upon his mental condition. Then again the law requires that in such an action as the present one the mortgagor must rective a notice of the intended foreclosure. No service of papers upon Schrank would be legal in Wisconsin law, inasmuch as he is legally incapable of protecting his rights.

The plaintiff probably will get an order from the New York courts permitting it to serve Schrank by publication. The courts also will be asked to declare the defendant incompetent to manage his affairs and the appointment of a guardian will be sought.

Inasmuch as Scrank is without the jurisdiction of the New York States courts it is doubtful whether the question of his competency will be passed on. Under the law an alleged incompetent has the right to oppose any petition and defend himself.

Schrank cannot be brought to this State from Wisconsin for examination without automatically obtaining his liberty. As soon as he crosses the border of Wisconsin he becomes, in the eyes of the law, sane and competent. Schrank could oppose any attempt made to take him back to Wisconsin.

Unless the jurisdiction of the New York courts is established beyond all question the title to the property involved will be endangered. In order to take undisputed title to the property the plaintiff will have to see that every legal right of the defendant is protected. Just how this can be accomplished is a problem which is causing the attorneys in the case much worry.

A MOVING PICTURE TRUCE.

Kinemacolor Co. Comes to Agreement with Trust Being Investigated.

The Kinemacolor Company, one of the independent moving picture companies which has been in opposition to the Motion Picture Patents Company and the General Film Company, the last two composing the moving picture trust, has signed an agreement with its former opponents and will henceforth operate under a license from them. The Kinemacolor Company was one of the independent companies that appeared against the trust at the hearings that were held here this Spring by the Government investigators of the charge that the Motion Picture Patents Company and the General Film Company were a combination in violation of the Sherman Anti-trust law. A. H. Sawyer, secretary and general manager of the Kinemacolor Company, testified that the business of his company had been restricted and generally injured by the methods and operations of the trust.

The contract which was announced yesterday by Mr. Sawyer as ending the contest between the two companies will give the Kinemacolor Company the right to sell its films to all the moving picture houses that are licensed by the trust, but it was said that the contract did not hinder the company from dealing with the independents as well.

The Kinemacolor Company entered the field in America about three years ago and has specialized in colored motion pictures. Its dramatic work is produced in California, and it also deals in travel pictures and educational subjects.

Swan, called "Her Own Money." The play opens at the Comedy Theatre on Sept. 1. GEN. GRANT LEFT $107,500 ESTATE

EVERYTHING GOES TO WIDOW

No Inheritance Tax on Estate—He Had Planned to Live in Retirement in Washington.

That Major. Gen. Frederick Dent Grant, who was in command of the Eastern Division, United States Army, had tendered his resignation from the service shortly before he died last April was disclosed yesterday in the appraisal of his estate as filed in the Surrogates' Court.

At the time of his death Gen. Grant was on a four months' leave of absence from the duties of his divisional command, the headquarters of which are at Governors Island. This extended leave of absence gave rise to the report that he was seriously ill, afflicted with cancer of the throat, from which his father, Ulysses S. Grant, died. This rumor was emphatically denied by the members of his family, and the cause of his death they later gave as a sudden attack of heart trouble. Gen. Grant was 62 years old.

The assets of Gen. Grant's estate are estimated in the report of Transfer Tax Appraiser Nagle at $107,500. From this amount there are made deductions of $12,500 for debts and administration expenses. All the property passed under the will to the widow, Mrs. Ida Honore Grant, and no inheritance tax was placed upon the estate, as Appraiser Nagle decided, after considering the arguments of the estate's counsel, that Gen. Grant, although formerly a resident of New York and at the time of his death stationed at Governors Island, died a non-resident.

Mrs. Grant, as executrix of the estate, stated that her husband, after announcing his determination to live in retirement in Washington, had made a visit to that city and had selected a house for purchase. He also sent all his furniture used at Governors Island to Washington. Shortly after his death, Mrs. Grant said, she purchased for $21,000 the home which he had selected.

In his argument to prove Gen. Grant a non-resident, William A. Purrington, her counsel, gave a brief sketch of the soldier's life to show that as a man subject to the marching orders of the War Department his domicile rested with his own determination. Mr. Purrington argued that as the commanding General of an army division Gen. Grant had a right to claim any post in that district as his domicile, and that Washington was included in his command.

In his will Gen. Grant made no specific bequests to his two children, Princess Julia Cantacuzene and Ulysses S. Grant, 3rd. These he said had been amply provided for under "the will of my deceased mother, and they will be more gratified to have their mother receive the entire estate belonging to me than to have it diminished by present gifts to them."

The assets of the estate in New York include bank accounts of $6,229; jewelry, $500; silverware inherited from his father, $500; a horse valued at $400; pay due from the United States Government, $244, and an unpaid balance from a trust fund created by his mother, $610.

The securities amount to $93,221. The largest single holding is 13 Government bonds valued at $13,325. Other holdings include 10 bonds of the American Ice Company, $7,912; 5 bonds of the Houston, Texas, Central Railroad, $4,787; 8 bonds International Nickel Company, $8,040, and 25 shares of the preferred stock, $2,600, and 33 shares of the common, $9,355.

MRS. BURRELLE'S ESTATE.

Appraisal Gives It $25,458 Value —Divided Between Sisters.

The estate of Nelle M. Burrelle, widow of Frank A. Burrelle, founder of Burrelle's Press Clipping Bureau, was appraised yesterday at a total value of $25,458 on the day of her death, Dec. 6, 1911. Shortly after her death a will tangle developed in which Dr. Jesse W. Amey, one of her acquaintances, was said to have discovered under his door a mutilated will in which he was made principal beneficiary of the estate. The property was at that time estimated at $178,000.

Under the will approved for probate by Surrogate Cohalan the estate was distributed in equal shares to the decedent's sisters, Miss Lucy Bowers and Mrs. Lida Atwood. Her husband on his death in 1910 made but small provision for the children of his first wife, from whom he was divorced, and gave most of his property to Mrs. Nelle M. Burrelle, stating in explanation that she had been a great help to him in the management of the press clipping bureau. He also said that he had given her fifty-two shares of this company as a reward for this service. These shares were appraised in yesterday's report as worthless. The largest asset of the estate is a bank account of $17,222.

HARTFORD GETS AEOLIAN CO.

Special to The New York Times.

HARTFORD, Conn., Aug. 7.—Primarily because of labor troubles, but in a general way because of increased advantage and inducements, the Aeolian Company will at once remove its plant for manufacturing music rolls from Meriden to Hartford, and eventually the entire musical factory will be brought to this city, according to an announcement made to-night by the company's officials, who have been looking over possible sites in Hartford ever since the company became involved last month in trouble with labor factions in Meriden and declined peremptorily to treat with them concerning the discharge of a few of its employes.

The company will locate in a vacant factory on Sheldon Street. The Hartford Chamber of Commerce, the Board of Trade, the Business Men's Association, and the State Manufacturers' Association, working in conjunction, have assured the company of all the space necessary for the new plant, which will be much larger than the present factory in Meriden.

POP TO YETTA'S TRUSTEES.

She Loses Inheritance if She Weds Without Their Consent.

In a will filed in the Surrogates' Court yesterday, Abraham Welbel, who died on June 5, leaving an estate of about $10,000, provided that his two children, Aaron and Yetta, who live at 27 Hester Street, should receive the residuary estate on condition that they marry only with the consent of the trustees he named. The specific legacies outside of this provision amounted to $650.

The decedent appointed Rose Guritz of 27 Hester Street, and Simon Karganow of 40 Canal Street trustees of his residuary estate, with directions not to give either child a share in the estate until one year after marriage. He further provided that these marriages must be with the consent of the trustees, otherwise the residuary estate passing at their discretion either to the Hebrew Orphan Asylum of New York City or some similar institution.

INEBRIETY DEFINED.

Drunk, Intoxicated and Sober Stages Everard Estate Suit.

Surrogate Cohalan began hearings yesterday on the application of Mrs. Olga Julia Williams, daughter of the late James Everard, the brewer, to remove Robert J. Tracy as executor of her father's estate. One of her charges was that Tracy had been unduly addicted to the use of liquors.

Ferdinand Fey, night clerk of Everard's baths on Twenty-eighth Street, was the first witness for Mrs. Williams. His replies to questions on his observance of alcoholic symptoms provoked much interest among students of night life in the courtroom. Surrogate Cohalan asked with respect to certain occasions when Tracy had visited the baths and bought three or four highballs for Fey and himself, according to the night clerk's testimony:

"Mr. Fey, would you say that Mr. Tracy was drunk on these occasions?"

"Not drunk, but intoxicated," distinguished Fey.

"What is the distinction between drunk and intoxicated?" queried Michael J. Horan, counsel for Tracy.

"Why, when a man can't navigate I call him drunk, but when he can look out for himself, I call him intoxicated."

"Well, then, when do you consider a man sober?" interrogated Surrogate Cohalan.

"It's a matter of breath," faltered Fey.

Fey further testified that for two months and a half prior to Mr. Everard's death Tracy was accustomed to come to the baths twice a month and remain there for three or four days and nights. He said Tracy "had drink in him" on those visits.

GAMBLING IN BASEBALL.

Charge Made Against Head of So-Called "Information Bureau."

Henry Francis Toren, reputed head of the Metropolitan Baseball Information Bureau, was held yesterday in $500 bail for examination by Magistrate Barlow in the Tombs Court. Toren is charged by William S. Odlin, a sporting writer, with selling chances on baseball results in violation of Section 1,373 of the Penal Code.

According to Odlin, the bureau has desk room in the office of George Robinson, at 99 Nassau Street, and from this office has been selling coupons on which were printed names of a combination of teams, one from each of four leagues. If all of the teams combined made the highest score during the week out of many thousands of possible combinations, the purchaser received a prize.

Odlin says that the tickets sold for 25 cents each, which the purchaser paid ostensibly to become a member of the "information bureau." The complaint asserts, however, that upon several occasions when he and others called up to ask for the scores of games, no information was furnished. The card advertised to give the scores at any time between 4 and 7 o'clock in the afternoon.

The scheme was worked in two ways, Odlin says, a "blind" pool and an "open" pool. In the "open" pool the purchaser marked the names of one team in each of the four leagues. The "blind" pools had the names of teams selected by the bureau itself. Toren will come up before Magistrate Barlow for examination on Aug. 14.

MOVIE OPERATOR BURNED.

G. W. Daddo Dies in Newark Hospital as Result of Film Accident.

George W. Daddo, a moving-picture operator, died yesterday in the Newark City Hospital from burns he received when a film ignited in the Warren Square Theatre in Newark on Tuesday night. Daddo had his injuries dressed that night at the City Hospital, after which he insisted on going home, despite the protests of the physicians. He returned to the hospital to have the burns redressed, and again refused to stay, although strongly urged to do so.

On Wednesday night Daddo's condition became worse, and Dr. C. L. O'Neill directed his removal to the hospital. Acting County Physician Minihan, who viewed the body, said that death was due to the burns and consequent shock.

RACES TO FIRE IN BALLOON.

George Gay Adds a Feature to a Flight Over the River.

When a $2,500 blaze spread through the upper floors of the five-story apartment house at 21 West Sixty-fifth Street early last evening the crowd's interest was divided between the firefighters and a dirigible balloon which circled above the burning building.

The youth in the balloon was George Gay, Goodale's pupil, who was adrift over the Sound earlier in the Summer. More expert now, he made a forty-minute trip to Manhattan last evening and enlivened it by discovering Deputy Chief Burns speeding down Broadway past Seventy-seventh Street and racing him to the fire.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Prices Rise Again—Money Rates Show Relaxation—Corn News Still Unfavorable.

In weighing the factors presented to its attention yesterday, the stock market attached more importance to the signs of relaxing interest rates than it did to the continued reports of damage to the corn crop owing to the lack of rain over a large portion of the corn belt. It will be more possible after the publication of to-day's Government crop report to judge whether the market has been justified in the extent to which it has ignored the grain market news of the last ten days. The report to be issued to-day is being compiled as of Aug. 1 and since that date instead of relief there has been a continuance of conditions which have been hurtful to corn. The showing to be made in the Government report will, of course, have to be considered in the light of this fact and it will give greater importance, therefore, to any deterioration which may be shown to have occurred during the month of July.

Traders were disposed yesterday, however, to put this matter over until to-day and to make much meanwhile of the money market improvement which found reflection in an easing of short time rates. There is no reason to doubt that this movement was in part due to the sentimental effect of the recent announcement by the Secretary of the Treasury. There were elements at work, however, before that announcement was made which were tending in the direction of lower rates for the shorter maturities. What the prospect of obtaining a large amount of additional cash from the Government has done is to create the feeling that any urgent needs which arise later can be filled at least in part from that source, and that there is justification, therefore, for freer use of the funds now in hand. This situation reflects in a normal manner the logical effect of the proposed release to the money market of an amount of cash as large as $50,000,000 which is now without the channels of trade.

The news of the signing of a treaty of peace among the Balkan States was accepted as decidedly good news both abroad and here, but its effect would have been greater had not the recent course of events led Turkey to resume a war already formally ended. Turkey may find it easy to dicker if not to fight and the end of this business does not yet appear to have been reached. For months past emphasis has been laid on the fact that a vast amount of gold was being hoarded on the Continent because of concern aroused by the conflict in southeaster Europe, and the release of this gold upon the re-establishment of peace has been counted upon as a much needed source of relief for the European money market. This gold is not likely to come back suddenly in any event, but the practical question now presented is whether the pacification of the Balkans has now reached a stage which will start the process of coaxing this gold out of hoarding. Meanwhile the Bank of France is gaining gold but slowly, although Paris seems to be counting on some of the gold which is now finding its way to Europe from South America. This last week the Bank of England lost gold to the extent of $1,300,000.

Consols rose further in the London market yesterday responding to purchases made for the sinking fund. This operation is not without interest to us here at a time when similar purchases by this Government under the authority vested in the Secretary of the Treasury would be the best sort of practical offset to the cumulative effect of the uncertainty which has been felt regarding the position of the Government's 2 per cent. bonds. The market for those bonds for the last few days has fluctuated narrowly at a level about 1½ to 2 points under par. Were the Treasury to ask for tenders of the bonds for purchase and cancellation by the Government it seems improbable that any very large amount would be offered under their full face value.

MONEY AND EXCHANGE.

Money on call loaned on Stock Exchange collateral at 2¼@2½ per cent., with the last loan at 2¼ per cent. The renewal rate was 2¼ per cent.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Harrimans Continue Strong.

The average investor is more certain that stocks are cheap to-day than he was on June 11, when some of the leading issues were at their lowest level for the year up to date. People who would not have considered a purchase of Union Pacific at 137¾ on the earlier date were willing yesterday to pay 152 for it. It is easier to believe that the market is going to continue in its present direction than that it is going to turn about. That is why so many people are never so bullish as they are at the top of a big market, and never so bearish as at the end of a long decline. The recent advance in the Harriman issues was probably responsible for the accumulation of confidence by a great many investors. At its best price yesterday Union Pacific was selling up 1½ from Wednesday's close, and Southern Pacific up 1¼.

Harriman Directors still maintain that they themselves do not know at what price Southern Pacific certificates will be offered to the holders of Union Pacific. There is to be a special meeting of the Union Pacific board on Tuesday next, if there are enough members in town to make a quorum, and a regular meeting of the board is scheduled for Thursday. It is planned to send an announcement as to the price of the stock offering along with the warrants, which are to be mailed next week, so that it looks as though the price might be made known on Tuesday. It is generally believed that the offering figure will be approximately the price at which Southern Pacific closes on the day prior to the announcement.

Tobacco Expenses and Profits.

Increased cost of supplies and greater expenditures in marketing their products are expected in the Street to be reflected by smaller net earnings of the four major tobacco companies in the current year, but the best information obtainable goes to show that the American Tobacco, Liggett & Myers, P. Lorillard, and Weyman & Bruton Companies are earning from two to three times dividend requirements after taking care of bond interest. An officer of one of the concerns was quoted yesterday as saying that Virginia and North Carolina leaf tobacco was costing more at the present time than in any period since the war. The war in the Near East worked to advance the price of Turkish tobacco also, but the heaviest drag on net income, probably, has been advertising. In floating new brands and in keeping old ones before the public all the companies disbursed many thousands of dollars more in the first half of 1913 than in the corresponding part of the preceding year. The results of the campaign will show, it is believed, in larger business at a smaller margin of profit than in preceding years.

Exchange May Help Investigation.

If brokers summoned by the Frawley Committee persist in their refusal to divulge the names back of accounts suspected to be connected with the Governor's campaign funds, it is quite likely that the Governors of the Stock Exchange wil indicate their willingnes to help the Legislature obtain information if asked to do so. Members of the Exchange must know for whom accounts are carried, and the Governors have the unquestioned right to summon a broker to learn the identity of the man back of "Account No. 500," or any other account. If the information desired is thought to be for the public good, it was said by a Governor yesterday, there is little doubt that the officials will cooperate with the investigators in tracing the history of any stock dealings thought to have a bearing on the present inquiry.

⁂

Exchange Seats Go Higher.

The quotations for Stock Exchange memberships have benefited by the improvement in the security markets and the partial restoration of confidence. The sale of a seat owned by Edwin T. Maynard to Rush C. Estee at $41,000 was announced yesterday, an advance of $3,000 over the low price recently established.

Failed of Election to Exchange.

Through the posting for transfer of Mr. Maynard's seat to Mr. Estee it became known that Irving Bunnell, who applied for membership three weeks ago, had not been elected to the Exchange. None of the officials of the Exchange would comment on the reason for passing over the application of Mr. Bunnell. A few years ago Mr. Bunnell paid $68,000 for a seat on the Exchange. Four months after his election ill-health forced him to take a vacation, and he sold his membership at a profit of about $3,000. With the recent decline in the price of memberships, he decided to return to the Exchange, and made arrangements for the purchase of Mr. Maynard's seat for $39,000. Notice of the proposed transfer was posted on the Exchange bulletins. According to the Stock Exchange practice, the sale was not to be confirmed until the election of the candidate to membership. No announcement of Mr. Bunnell's election was made, and yesterday the seat he had contracted for was posted for transfer to Mr. Estee. Mr. Bunnell would not comment on the matter, but it was said by a member of the Exchange that failure to elect him was meant to discourage speculation in memberships.

EXPRESS RATE CONFERENCE

Heads of Big Companies Called to Consider I. C. C.'s Ruling.

The American Express Company sent to the heads of other express companies in the city yesterday a letter inviting them to a conference at the American offices this afternoon, on the recent order of the Interstate Commerce Commission reducing rates. The companies invited were the Adams, the Wells Fargo, the United States, and the Southern. This conference may prove to be the first of a series at which the commission's rulings will be studied.

Vice President Flagg, of the American Express Company, said yesterday that while the Interstate Commerce Commission's findings appeared, on the surface, to call for an average reduction of about 16 per cent., a survey of the situation would probably show that rates would have to be lowered nearly 25 per cent. As the companies did not receive copies of the Commission's voluminous decision until Wednesday, the full scope of the ruling, he said, had not yet been determined.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

Alexandre & Burnet have issued a circular on the New Haven convertible bonds, showing the effect on the yield of different prices for the rights to subscribe.

The Equitable Trust Company, Kean, Taylor & Co., and Eastman, Dillon & Co. report that the $1,900,000 Seaboard Air Line equipment notes offered last week were oversubscribed.

The Commonwealth Power, Railway and Light Company reports for the year ended June 30 last gross earnings of $1,655,000, compared with $1,181,000 last year and net income of $1,486,000, compared with $1,102,000 for 1912.

OUTSIDE SECURITIES

Business in the mining stocks was dull yesterday, and prices left off with only small and irregular changes. Southern Pacific certificates displayed fair strength, but Union Pacific rights failed to show a corresponding vigor, although they were bought extensively in early trading.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

It was a strong and active market on the Consolidated Stock Exchange. Sales totaled 39,900 shares, with forty different stocks represented in the dealings. An improving tendency showed with the opening of business at 9:30 o'clock, when on the call there were quite general price gains of ⅛ to ⅜ of a point, compared with Wednesday's closing quotations. Announcement of the conclusion of peace among the Balkan States was an early favorable factor. Later the decline in corn prices and reports of needed rainfalls in the West helped the improvement in sentiment.

BOURSES OF EUROPE

Firm Undertone in London—Prices Improve in Berlin After a Bad Opening.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Friday, Aug. 8.—The Times, in its City article this morning, says:

"In the money market the demand was brisk in the morning, money being called for in connection with the payments on the Brazilian Treasury bills. In the afternoon the supply increased and the rate for daily money became very easy. Discount quotations were hardly altered, but were steadied in the afternoon by the Bank return, which showed an expansion in the home metallic circulation larger than had been expected, while the private deposits had fallen below £40,000,000.

"The Bank bought a fair quantity of bar gold, but £100,000 in sovereigns was withdrawn for export, probably to Turkey.

"The chief feature of the stock markets was the further advance in consols and rubber shares. Foreign bonds showed a general advance and American shares ruled firmer."

PARIS, Aug. 7.—Prices were generally firm on the Bourse to-day.

Three per cent. rentes, 87f. 47½c. for the account.

BERLIN, Aug. 7.—Prices on the Boerse were not affected by favorable Balkan reports to-day, and the markets opened flat.

Shipping shares were depressed by the rate war, and Canadian Pacific lost two points on New York advices, but became firmer later in the day.

Industrial shares also rallied, and closed from one to two points higher.

Bargains in Bonds

Prices of standard bonds of all classes are well below the average in any year since the great depression of 1893.

It is a time for bargains in bonds and for careful, discriminating buying.

We offer the services of a house which has no securities of its own for sale, but will serve its clients with critical judgment and careful analysis of all stocks and bonds recommended for purchase.

COMMODITIES MARKETS

The sentimental effect of the Government statement on crop condition, due this afternoon, was apparent in yesterday's trading in the grain markets. Transactions were generally reflective of evening-up operations, and prices of wheat and corn moved off. Oats, on the contrary, were in good demand at better quotations than on Wednesday. New cotton crop months lost ground, but quiet buying imparted firmness to the old maturities. The provision market was sluggish and price changes were irregular.

WHEAT.

The Government report, giving the preliminary estimate on Winter wheat and the condition of the Spring wheat crop, will be published at the close of the market this afternoon. It appeared to be the consensus of opinion yesterday that the total estimated crop will be considerably over last month's figures of 701,000,000 bushels, as thrashing returns from the Winter wheat belt have revealed larger yields than anticipated, and experts have been quite unanimous in stating that the conditions in the Spring wheat belt have improved materially from those of a month ago.

Operations during the day were partly in the form of evening-up for the report, and the market was rather unsettled, without a strong tendency either way. The foreign markets showed little feature, and offerings of new native wheat abroad were said to be larger. The increased available supply of home-grown wheat in Europe appears to have taken the snap out of the export demand, and sales for the day amounted to only about fifteen loads.

The feverish market in corn exerted more or less influence on values, and after an early decline of ½c to 1¼c the market regained part of the loss and closed at a net decline of ⅛c to ⅜c. The weather was unsettled over the West, and some authorities were rather inclined to be a little apprehensive regarding the possibility of a wet harvest in the Spring wheat States, while, at the same time, a report by The Northwestern Miller stating that owing to claims of damage by hot winds and high temperatures last Friday and Saturday some interests are disposed to cut their earlier estimates of 200,000,000 bushels for the three States, attracted considerable attention.

Receipts at interior points were somewhat smaller, but this was offset by lighter exports. In the local market No. 2 red Winter wheat was quoted at 93c, cost, insurance, and freight, New York, export basis, and 95c, free on board, to arrive; No. 1 Northern Spring, 97½c, free on board, afloat.

COFFEE.

First prices were 18 to 20 points above the previous close, following a sharp advance abroad, where Havre showed an advance of 1 to 1¼ francs and Hamburg an advance of 1 to 1½ pfennigs. Later changes were comparatively narrow, and the close was steady, with net gains of 15 to 18 points. Operations were largely exchanges from the near to the distant positions, and out of total sales of 146,250 bags, 81,500 were switches. Cost and freight offers from Brazil were steady, at about 10 points advance. Rio was 150 reis lower; Santos spots were unchanged, while futures were 25 to 50 reis higher. The weather in Brazil was fine, with temperature seasonable.

COTTON.

Prospects of better weather in the Southwest as reflected in private predictions of lower temperatures and showers before the end of the week checked an early advance in the cotton market yesterday and eased prices off to a net loss of 6 to 7 points on new crop months at the close. Old crop positions were relatively quiet and steady during the entire day, closing 5 points net higher. The continued dry, hot weather in Texas and Oklahoma was apparently responsible for quite an active buying movement during the early session.

The market opened steady at an advance of 1 to 9 points and sold about 6 to 12 points net higher during the morning, with Wall Street and houses with Western connections taking considerable cotton. According to estimates around the ring, one of the large Wall Street houses bought fully 20,000 to 25,000 bales for new crop delivery, while there was an equal demand from wire houses with Chicago connections. This buying was supposed to be largely in the way of short covering, however, and after the execution of a few stop loss orders at an advance of about 20 points from the low level of last Monday demand slackened.

Both local and New Orleans weather experts thought they saw signs of better weather approaching the Southwest. There was a low barometer in the Gulf south of New Orleans, which was thought likely to cause showers along the coast and in South Texas, while an area of high pressure in the Northwest working southeastward was accompanied by lower temperatures and represented a condition very similar to that which caused the Texas rains at the end of last week. Detailed reports showed very high temperatures again in both Texas and Oklahoma on Wednesday, and there were further reports of detorioration. Southern spot markets were unchanged to ⅛c lower.

COTTONSEED OIL.

Active liquidation occurred in the near positions in the cottonseed oil market, and as the demand was inactive prices were easier. The new crop months were relatively steadier than the old, but the whole list was influenced by the selling pressure, and at the close the market was 5 to 22 points lower. The outside demand appeared to have fallen off, and as bulls were less aggressive longs became nervous and inclined to sell. Furthermore, crude oil has been offered a little more freely recently, although it was thought that there was comparatively little pressure here in the form of hedging operations.

CORN.

Showers occurred over portions of the corn belt with indications of generally unsettled conditions, but private reports regarding the extent of the precipitation and the prospect for further rains were so conflicting that the market during the day was very feverish and more or less irregular. There was a sharp decline early, but late in the day the September position rallied on active covering and closed ⅛c net higher, while the other months were ⅝ to ⅞c net lower. Crop advices from Kansas were particularly gloomy, but the trade seemed disposed to even up and wait for the Government's opinion regarding conditions. In the local market export corn was quoted at 78¼c, nominal, free on board, afloat.

OATS.

The oats market was also nervous, in sympathy with corn, but after showing weakness early prices rallied on buying by strong interests and closed at net gains of ⅛ to ⅝c. Crop news was rather bullish, and the trade seemed to be anticipating a bullish Government report. The local cash market was steady; standard white quoted at 47½ to 48c; No. 2, 48½c; No. 3, 46½ to 47½c; No. 4, 45½ to 46c; ordinary clipped white, 46 to 47½c; fancy clipped white, 48 to 49c, all elevator.

PROVISIONS.

The market for hog products was only moderately active, but prices were steadier on buying by commission houses and by leading packers. Receipts of hogs at Chicago were 17,000, estimated for Friday 15,000; Kansas City received 6,000, and Omaha 12,600.

SETTLE INSURANCE FIGHT.

Companies Which Withdrew from Missouri to Return to State.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Aug. 7.—Acting on the assurance of Attorney General Barker of Missouri to-day that he considered unconstitutional the clause in the Orr insurance law which impelled more than a hundred fire insurance companies to withdraw from the State last June, attorneys representing the companies to-day sent to the main offices letters advising them to return to Missouri.

This result was reached at a conference here to-day between the Attorney General and the insurance attorneys, at which the former made a verbal promise to dismiss the suits in the Supreme Court to penalize the companies on a charge of conspiracy to withdraw from the State.

The promise was made on condition that 75 per cent. of the companies return. He also will dismiss the case against the 25 per cent. which say that their Missouri business has been conducted at a loss, and that therefore they do not desire to return.

A majority of the companies, however, are expected at once to notify their agents throughout Missouri to resume the writing of new insurance. It is expected that resumption of business will take place next week.

BUILDING AND LOAN GROWTH

Assets Increasing at Rate of More Than $100,000,000 a Year.

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 7.—The assets of the Building and Loan Associations of the United States are growing at a rate exceeding $100,000,000 a year, according to the report of the United States League of Local Building and Loan Associations, presented at the tweny-fifth annual convention of that body to-day.

There are 6,279 associations, with a total membership if 2,518,442, and having assets amounting to $1,136,949,465. The total resources increased $106,262,434, or a little more than 10 per cent. for the year, and the membership increased 185,613, or a little less than 8 per cent.

The receipts for the year 1912 amounted to $779,479,200, an increase of $71,294,068 over the previous year.

PIG IRON OUTPUT LESS.

Decrease Coincident with Better Demand and Higher Prices.

Coincident with an improvement in the demand and higher prices during the past week a reduction in the production of pig iron is reported by the trade authorities. The Iron Age says:

> At 2,560,646 tons, or 82,601 tons a day, the July output represents a falling off of 5,018 tons a day from the total of June, which was 2,628,565 tons for 30 days. Thus the July rate is 2,000,000 tons a year less than that of June, 3,000,000 tons a year less than that of May, and 3,500,000 tons less than that of February, when the high point was reached. In February the country was producing pig iron at the rate of 34,000,000 tons a year. The July rate of 30,500,000 tons (estimating charcoal iron) thus represents a decline of about 10 per cent. in six months.
>
> Reports from iron and steel markets are rather more favorable on the whole, just as the statistics are accenting pig iron curtailment. The foundry pig iron market has shown a smaller proportion of large sales in the past week than in the heavy movement of the second half of July. In general, foundry iron prices have been advanced 50 cents above the point touched in the July dip; Southern iron is probably 75 cents higher at $10.75 Birmingham, though $11 better represents the market.
>
> The situation in semi-finished steel is somewhat easier. In the East, where Steel Corporation purchases are no longer a factor, the long standing $28 basis could be considerably shaded. One Eastern steel plant has curtailed production.

The Iron Trade Review says:

> With pig iron prices hardening as the result of continued heavy buying and softening in finished lines, due to sharp decline in volume of specifications and new orders, the iron and steel trade presents marked reversal from conditions prevailing several months ago, when pig iron declined to lower than cost basis, and finished products were exceptionally strong. Fortunately, the favorable features of the situation outweigh the unfavorable tendencies, and it is generally believed that pig iron activity is the forerunner of a buying movement in finished lines. A total of more than 100,000 tons of pig iron is involved in recent purchases made by large buyers in all sections of the country.

Prudential to Pay More Taxes.

The Prudential Insurance Company will pay taxes on a personalty valuation this year of $7,792,200, which is about $3,000,000 higher than last year. Last year the personalty assessment returned by the company to the Newark Board of Assessment and Revision of Taxes was $4,003,340. Nothing in the Prudential declaration indicated to what causes may be attributed the large increase in its valuation. The statement merely shows that the increase comes under the head of the gross assets.

IN THE BUSINESS WORLD

New Wall Papers to be Wider.

Arrangements have been practically completed for the exhibition of 1914 lines of wall paper, which will open in this city on Thursday next. As has been the case in former years, most of the manufacturers will show their lines at the Hotel Breslin and the Hotel Imperial. Some, however, will make the Hotel Victoria and the Hotel McAlpin their headquarters. It is said that several changes will be evident in the papers shown this year, one of the most important of which will be a sharp increase in the amount of 30-inch merchandise to be offered. In some cases the manufacturers have almost entirely abandoned 18-inch papers. Embossed and textile effects will be prominent, and a number of makers will show papers that are non-fading. Cut-out borders will be shown extensively, but in many cases they will be narrower than heretofore and lighter in weight. Embossed oatmeal papers will be featured, as will a new imported material on the order of oatmeal paper that is distinguished for its color glow and surface richness. A number of new effects in applique friezes and crown hangings are promised also.

Sashes and Slashes Mark Fall Skirts

Sashes and slashes play prominent parts in the make-up of the best selling Fall skirts in this market. Draped models are very popular, especially those in which the front is left quite plain and the draping placed at the back. Early buying is said to have favored front drapes to a considerable extent, and they are still being taken well. In the lower and medium grade skirts there is a tendency to do away with draping altogether. Novelty fabrics are meeting much greater success than staples, and the demand for broadcloth skirts, which earlier in the season gave promise of developing strongly, is now the subject of considerable difference of opinion in manufacturing circles. In the high novelties offered imitation fur skirts rank among the best. Charmeuse is again running big. Small checks and stripes are favored, and there is an echo of the European liking for plaids in the present demand here. Tartan plaids, both in silk and wool, are being taken freely.

Duvetyn to be Used for Hats?

It is reported in local millinery circles that there is a strong possibility that duvetyn, a new dress fabric which is being well thought of in this country, will be used here in making Fall hats for women after the manner of some of the leading Parisian milliners. According to recent reports from abroad duvetyn is being widely used in conjunction with patent leather, but its high cost will prohibit its use on any but the most expensive hats. The leather is used for brims, brim bindings, and small garnitures, most often with the crown of the hat made of draped duvetyn. It is said that the idea has taken well here, and that several substitutes for duvetyn are being experimented with for popular-priced hats. Greens, browns, tans, ruby, and wine shades are the most favored colors. A sharp falling off in the sale of velvet and plush hats is predicted in the event of duvetyn or its substitutes coming into general use this Fall.

Dealer Wants Washable Shoes.

A shoe retailer said yesterday that washable insoles, linings, and uppers would prove popular, if such an innovation in shoemaking could be made practicable. This dealer thinks that laundering might well be applied to shoes as well as to hosiery. A manufacturer to whom the suggestion was referred said that the idea was not practicable, because the insole holds the shoe together, and it could not be removed any more than the lining could be taken out and laundered. He added that canvas uppers came nearest being washable, but that even they could not be washed successfully.

⁂

Mail Order Houses Give Credit?

A report has been circulated that some leading mail-order houses had determined to extend credit, especially to farmers, on purchases of hardware and implements. No credit, however, was to be given without definite, signed agreements of payment, such as interest-bearing notes. An official of a local mail-order house said yesterday that he believed all his competitors were doing a strictly cash business, and that the trade took sufficient risks in accepting personal checks from customers. He had not heard of the plan mentioned above, but thought that some newer houses, anxious for business, might be attempting it. He would venture no opinion regarding the probable result of such a plan.

Dyed Rabbit Fur for Trimmings.

According to advices from Paris, red fox fur is being widely used, the reddest shades being the most popular. Australian or blue opossum is also worn extensively, and imitation silver fox, made from white fox, is favored because of its striking effect and moderate cost. The craze for brilliant colors there has produced novel effects in rabbit skins for use in trimmings. These furs are dyed in bright violet, orange, and champagne shades. Ermine is still a favorite with the more expensive trade, but is worn without tails. Gray furs are not as popular as formerly.

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Smokers' Articles Gain Reductions —Other Protests Sustained.

The Board of United States General Appraisers decided yesterday that metal cigarette cases were not articles of personal adornment under the Tariff act of 1909. Collector Mitchel regarded them as such, and levied 85 per cent. ad valorem under Paragraph 448. A. J. Dale, the importer, established them to be dutiable at 60 per cent. as smokers' articles.

A protest by Vom Cleff & Co. regarding skeleton cigar cutters was also sustained. These goods were also assessed as smokers' articles. The importers showed that as they were unfinished they were dutiable at 45 per cent. ad valorem, under Paragraph 199, present law, as manufactures of metal.

E. A. Bliss & Co. won on mesh of German silver wares linked, taxed at New Haven 85 per cent. ad valorem, under Paragraph 448, act of 1909, on unfinished bags. Evidence was that the merchandise was used in making mesh bags and purses, and was cut into sizes for that purpose. The claim for a 45 per cent. duty under the metal schedule was sustained.

The board upheld A. H. Ringk & Co. that small opera glasses should pay 35 per cent. ad valorem, act of 1909, as toys. The Collector had returned them as opera glasses under Paragraph 108, at 45 per cent.

SIDELIGHTS ON SELLING.

One of the latest developments abroad, shown by samples of foreign-made fabrics, is the adaptation of jacquard designs to duvetyn and peau de peche.

The latest importation in lighting fixtures comes from Paris, and is now on exhibition here. It is an electrolier with an oval cut-glass bowl, suspended by crystal chains, and bears a fringe of cut-glass pendants.

Parasols made of messaline in Japanese shapes, with hems of striped messaline, in Bulgarian effects, are selling well at the moment.

Velvets and velveteens will probably be used extensively as early Fall novelties in men's neckwear. Retailers are now showing several effects of this character in plaids, embossed gold figures, stripes, and plain colorings. The goods are causing considerable comment, and are opening another field for pile fabrics.

KESNER COMPANY PUT IN BANKRUPTCY

BANKS FORCE THE ISSUE

Concern Already Was in Hands of Receivers Appointed at the Request of President Kesner.

A disagreement among the creditors of the J. L. Kesner dry goods department store, at Twenty-second Street and Sixth Avenue, was responsible yesterday for the filing of a petition in bankruptcy against the company. It was already in the hands of receivers friendly to the owners, who had been appointed upon the motion of Jake L. Kesner, the firm's President, upon the representation that receivers were needed to preserve the equities of all concerned.

According to statements made in the petition upon which the receivers now in possession were appointed, the firm controlled assets amounting to $1,400,000, while its liabilities amounted to only $870,000. Under the receivership, it was said, the plan was to pay all creditors in full, and then turn the concern back to the stockholders.

It now turns out, after four months of activity on the part of the receivers originally named, that the best the creditors could be offered was a settlement on the basis of 30 cents on the dollar.

An offer to settle at this figure is what caused the filing of the involuntary bankruptcy petition yesterday. Some creditors favored accepting the offer, while others opposed it and insisted on taking the assets over, in the hope of gaining a larger return.

The bankruptcy petition was filed by Percy S. Dudley, representing the Hanover National Bank, the Chemical National Bank, and the Chatham and Phenix National Bank. These banks had discounted notes of the concern, and on April 7, when receivers were appointed in an equity proceeding, they attached cash balances which they held, applying the sums against notes discounted by them.

The receivers appointed were Leo A. Price, President of Rothenberg & Co., and Abraham S. Gilbert, a lawyer of 43 Exchange Place. The concern was then said to own merchandise worth $600,000, with $120,000 in outstanding accounts, $35,000 cash in banks, and leases, fixtures, and improvements worth a considerable sum.

The receivers sold the stock and fixtures at auction a few months ago, and the total amount received was only $177,000. Prior to this sale the Twenty-third Street Stores Company had offered to take over the stock for enough to settle with all creditors at 80 cents on the dollar, but United States District Judge Mayer refused to confirm the plan, on account of the opposition of some of the creditors.

The corporation was formed in May, 1911, with a capital stock of $750,000. Jake L. Kesner, the President, came here from Chicago, where he was part owner in the Fair Store. He formed the corporation here to open a dry goods business in the building then about to be vacated by Ehrich Brothers.

The cause of the concern's financial difficulties was said to be the failure of business to reach the volume expected for that section of the city, on account of the uptown trend of the shopping centre.

GET INSURANCE AS A BONUS.

Standard Oil Cloth Co. Takes Out Million Dollar Policy for Employes.

The Standard Oil Cloth Company has taken out a policy of $1,000,000 in the Equitable Life Assurance Society to cover 1,000 employes. Each employe is insured for the amount of one year's salary, with a maximum limit of $3,000 on any one life. The insurance is evidenced by a certificate given to each employe, payable to the beneficiary of the employe in the event of death while in the employment of the Standard Oil Cloth Company.

All employes, from the President to the office boy, are covered, including those at the head office in New York, the salesmen throughout the country, and the employes at the plants located at Athenia, N. J.; Youngstown, Ohio; Akron, Ohio; Rock Island, Ill., and Buchanan, N. Y.

This insurance is written under the new group plan inaugurated by the Equitable Life, by which, under the right conditions, the insurance is made effective without medical examination during the period of employ. The Standard Oil Cloth Company is paying the entire cost of the insurance, as a bonus to its employes.

Other large group insurances effected recently on the Equitable group plan have been the Procter & Gamble Company for $3,000,000 and Montgomery, Ward & Co. for $7,000,000, besides scores of banks and smaller industrial institutions.

THAW SUES FIRST COUNSEL.

Begins an Action to Recover Money Advanced to Hartridge.

Roger O'Mara, trustee in bankruptcy for Harry Kendall Thaw, began a suit yesterday against Clifford W. Hartridge, who was one of Thaw's lawyers on his first trial for the murder of Stanford White, on which the jury disagreed. The suit is to recover for moneys advanced to Hartridge, as sole surviving partner of his law firm, for disbursements on Thaw's behalf on his trial. The amount sued for was not stated in the summons.

Hartridge sued Thaw and his mother, Mrs. Mary Copley Thaw, to recover large additional amounts and his suit was thrown out of the local and Federal Courts, with criticism of many of the items sued for, on the ground that the expenditures were contrary to legal ethics.

The Thaws denied that they had authorized such expenditures or that they were actually made. Disclosures made on that trial are believed to be the basis of the present suit.

CONSULAR TRADE NOTES.

The Siamese Government has a scheme in view for constructing a road across the peninsula from Langsuen to Renong, and an engineer is to be dispatched by the Ministry of the Interior to survey it. A Bangkok journal makes brief mention of a proposed line of railway to connect with the Bangkok-Petchaburi line at Ban Pong, on the Meklong. If carried out it would no doubt do a great deal to open up a stretch of very fertile but sparsely populated country which possesses great possibilities.

Permission has been asked of the Cuban Government to establish electric light plants at Madruga, San Nicholas, Catalina de Guinea, Jaruco, Carabello, Bainoa, San Antonio, and Rio Blanco del Norte, all in Habana Province.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Old Fifth Avenue Home of Late Mrs. Butterfield to be Sold at Partition — West End Avenue Deal — Riverdale Purchase—Brooklyn and Long Island Transactions.

A partition suit which is of more than ordinary interest in that it affects several parcels of property in which the late Mrs. Daniel Butterfield held a life interest was instituted yesterday by Emma G. Badgeley against Harlin J. Woodward and others. Among the properties involved is the parcel at 400 Fifth Avenue, which during the lifetime of her first husband, Frederick P. James, was the residence of Mrs. Butterfield, who died on Wednesday. The house was long ago altered for trade. It occupies a plot 27.7 by 120 feet on the west side of Fifth Avenue, between Thirty-sixth and Thirty-seventh Streets. The other properties to be partitioned include 104 West Thirtieth Street, just off Sixth Avenue, and a plot 100 feet front, in the same block, from 128 to 132, between the Public School and the police station. There are also four parcels in Twelfth Street, between Fifth and Sixth Avenues, being 39, 41, 43 and 47, on the north side, and 44 and 48 on the south side. Most of these properties have been held for the heirs by the Lawyers' Realty Company.

Interborough Realty Company Adjustment.

A meeting of the creditors of the Interboro Realty Company of 10 Wall Street and 286 Ninth Street, Brooklyn, held yesterday by Referee Peter B. Olney, was attended by more than a hundred men and women who had invested their savings in the profit-sharing debenture bonds of the company. The company, which was organized in 1902, owns 2,500 lots at Bayside, L. I.; Nutley, N. J., and Syracuse, N. Y., which are mortgaged for 40 per cent. of their value. The bonds, 5 per centers, were disposed of to investors at $840, the purchasers paying $10 down and $10 monthly.

At the meeting Henry W. Allen, President of the bankrupt company, made a statement regarding the affairs of the corporation and described its real estate holdings. He said that a plan of reorganization is under consideration, but thus far a capitalist willing to invest $100,000 to pay the interest on the mortgaged indebtedness has not been secured. In the event of this plan failing through President Allen said if the property is sold at auction the creditors will receive but 40 per cent. of the money they invested in the bonds.

BUFFALO-CLEVELAND ROAD IN GOOD SHAPE

New Rhode Island Route Also Reported by A. C. A.—Hints on New Tires.

Having inspected the roads between Buffalo and Cleveland, the touring department of the Automobile Club of America reports them as in good average condition. No construction work is in progress, and the poor stretches are few and far between. About 115 miles of the route between the two cities is in good condition, while some 75 miles might be called fair. The club also reports the opening of the new road between Westerly, R. I., and Providence. More than twelve miles is saved to motorists by this route, which runs through Ashaway, Wyoming, Noosnock Hill, Washington, Anthony, Quidnick, Centreville and Apponaug. The old route lies along the shore and runs through Charlestown, Wakefield, Allentown, Wickford, Apponaug and Norwood.

"Remember," said he, "that new tires carried on the side of the car, if not protected from the sunlight, will quickly oxidize, crack and become quite worthless. A new tire should preferably be put in service a little while until the cover has been soiled. If this is done it will not deteriorate so quickly. It is better still, however, to have a case for extra tires. Do not store them away in a warm place for any length of time. Light or heat will cause the sulphur to come to the surface and make the cover minutely porous. After this oxidization takes place and the nerve fibre of the rubber is destroyed. A dark, dry room at a temperature of 40 or 50 degrees is most favorable for retarding chemical action on the rubber and the 'friction' stock on the fabric."

⁂

The rapid replacement of the trolley car by the motor vehicle was freely predicted at the recent Imperial Motor Transport Conference in London, at least in so far as the large cities of Europe were concerned. W. Worby Beaumont, consulting engineer to the Chief Commissioner of Police, said that in London it was obvious that there should be no extension of existing lines. He added that the "tramcar" did not form 2 per cent. of the vehicular traffic of Greater London and that, apart from the cost of its working, it probably cost the community, by obstruction to the free passage of the general traffic and by losses and damage caused by the existence of the rails and the obstructions during repairs, far more than would a rate especially levied to cover interest and redemption of the whole of the capital that now stood as the tramway debt.

⁂

An automobilist, visiting the other day the Detroit factory where his car was made, told a joke he had played on a friend "back home." It seems there was quite a little rivalry between the two as to the respective merits of their machines. One day the narrator had just pulled up in front of the post office when his friend came along, and the usual car discussion began.

"See that dog over there?" said the first one to arrive, pointing to a hound basking in the warm dust of the road. "I'll bet you $5 I can drive over him without waking him up."

"I'll make it $10," was the answer.

The car was started and driven slowly up to and over the dog and then backed over the prostrate form again. The driver returned triumphant. That ended the argument for the day. The winner headed for the dog again, and, opening the muffler, dashed over him with an ear-splitting racket. Looking back, his friend was surprised to see the canine still peacefully reposing. Then light broke.

"Say," shouted the beaten one, "that dog's dead."

READY FOR AIR RACE TO FORT MYER TO-DAY

GOING AFTER FOUR RECORDS

To Demonstrate to Government Efficiency of Monoplane—To Keep at 5,000-Foot Altitude.

According to J. R. Hall, General Manager of the Moisant International Aviators, President Wilson has signified his intention to be present with some of his cabinet at Fort Myer, near Washington, at noon to-day to welcome Aviator C. Murvin Wood and to watch the exhibition flight and test of the new Moisant military monoplane, if Wood succeeds in making his flight from Garden City to Washington this morning. Mr. Hall returned from Washington yesterday, where he completed final arrangements for the arrival of Wood and the tests at Fort Myer.

The chief object of the proposed flight to Washington, which is to start at 4:30 o'clock this morning, is to demonstrate to the Government the efficiency of the military monoplane. At present the Government does not own a single monoplane, biplanes being used in both the army and the navy aviation schools.

Wood, incidentally, hopes to break four American records—those for distance in a continuous flight, speed, duration, and total mileage between sunrise and sunset. The American distance record for continuous flight was hung up last April by Lieut. Thomas De Witt Milling of the United States Army, who flew in a Burgess tractor biplane with Lieut. William Snerman as a passenger from Texas City, Texas, to San Antonio, a distance of 224 miles, in four hours and twenty-two minutes.

Under Aero Club Auspices.

The flight to Washington and return will be made under the auspices of the Aero Club of America. On board the special Pennsylvania flier, which is scheduled to leave Jersey City simultaneously with Wood's start from Garden City, will be two carloads of members of the Aero Club, it is said, including President Alan A. Hawley and Secretary Mortimer L. Delano.

The train, which Wood confidently expects to beat into Washington, although giving it a head start of nearly thirty miles, will consist of ten Pullmans drawn by a powerful engine, with "Patsy" O'Neil, a veteran driver of the Pennsylvania Railroad, at the throttle. In addition to members of the Aero Club of America and officials of the Moisant International Aviators, the train will carry a complement of army and navy officers, photographers, and aviation enthusiasts.

Representatives of the Aero Club will be stationed at Trenton, Philadelphia, Baltimore, and several other cities to record Wood's exact time as he passes over each place.

Late last evening Wood was still busily engaged in grooming the Bluebird, as the new military monoplane was named for good luck, and it looked as if he would have to start without having had a wink of sleep during the night. S. S. Jerwan, chief pilot of the Moisant International Aviators, will see him off, together with Messrs. Gilpatrick and Houghton of the Aero Club of America, who are to be on hand to certify to the exact number of gallons of gasoline and oil that he carries at starting, as the flight is official. Wood expects to carry twenty-eight gallons of gasoline and eight and one-half gallons of oil.

To Fly at 5,000 Feet Altitude.

"Nothing will keep me from starting at 4:30 A. M. except low threatening clouds climbing out of the ocean," said Wood last evening. "From Garden City I shall head straight for Belmont Park, thence to Sheepshead Bay and Coney Island, from where I shall cut across the lower Bay to South Beach, over Staten Island and across Jersey, picking up the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks at New Brunswick instead of at Elizabeth as we had at first planned. I don't want to fly at a lower altitude than 5,000 feet at any stage of the trip."

It had been said by officers of the Moisant Company that Wood would pass close to the Statue of Liberty, dipping down from 5,000 feet to 900 feet, partly as a tribute to the lady and partly to give newspaper photographers a chance to snap him, but Wood yesterday positively refused to go an inch out of his way, and will give the Statue of Liberty and the photographers the cold shoulder.

"I shall fly in a straight line, and mean to keep on going till I reach Washington. I wouldn't sacrifice a mile for all the photographers in the world."

TELLS OF $105,000 GRAFT.

Chicago Political Leader Accused in Voting Machine Inquiry.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 7.—Charges that a leader of a political faction in Chicago was to receive $105,000 as graft in Chicago's $1,000,000 voting machine transaction were placed in the hands of the Butts Legislative Committee today by ex-Gov. Deneen, the committee's attorney.

The statement came into the hands of Mr. Deneen from Lloyd L. Duke, formerly City Attorney of Ottumwa, Iowa. It purports to be the substance of statements made to Duke by former city officials of Ottumwa, who sought his advice regarding the collection of a "broker's fee" of $1,500 from the Empire Voting Machine Company, a New York State corporation.

This sum is alleged to have been promised to the three Ottumwa men as a reward for having introduced representatives of the voting machine company to "proper persons" in Chicago through whom a voting machine contract might be obtained.

Mr. Duke said that after the introductions had been made a lieutenant of the political faction who had an acquaintance in Ottumwa arranged a slate in which the lieutenant was to have received $14,000 and a leader of the faction $85,000.

It is alleged that when this leader looked over the slate and noted the item of $14,000 he crossed it out, saying that the lieutenant was not entitled to anything, and that the $14,000 with $6,000 more eventually was placed after the name of the leader, bringing the amount of money scheduled for himself to $105,000.

The charges are the first tangible intimation of graft which has come before the committee.

KIGHT HELD FOR CRUELTY.

Head of Fairview Training School Accused by Inmate's Father.

Special to The New York Times.

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Aug. 7.—Following a series of investigations by officials of several counties, Harry O. Kight, Director of the Fairview Training School, a correctional institution for boys near Frenchtown, was arrested today on the charges of cruelty brought by Edwin B. Sparks, whose son was placed in the institution some six weeks ago. As a result of this development a thorough investigation of the school will be made. County Judge Frederick W. Gnichtel of Mercer County has directed Probation Officer Charles H. Edmond to take up this work and to have all boys sent to the school from Mercer County removed immediately if the charges are sustained. Kight was put under $300 bail to await the action of the Grand Jury.

Kight indignantly denied that he had been cruel to Sparks or any other inmate of the school. On the other hand he admitted that he had used a whip to punish some of the boys and had at times chained boys, who had tried to run away, to their beds. It was necessary, he said, to be severe at times.

Assistant Prosecutor George W. Dunham of Hunterdon County, who recently visited the school, said that he had found "deplorable conditions." The school has also been criticised by Joseph P. Byers, now Commissioner of Charities and Correction, and Probation Officer J. J. Gascoyne of Essex County.

WOMAN PUTS BROKER IN JAIL

Causes Arrest of H. M. Creighton at Door of Republican Club.

Hugh M. Creighton, a broker, had just stepped out of the Republican Club in West Fortieth Street last night when he was served by a Deputy Sheriff with an order of arrest issued by Supreme Court Justice Guy in an action to recover $3,000 on a charge of fraud and deceit.

The plaintiff in the action is Mrs. Gurney T. Morse of 547 Riverside Drive, who said she had become distrustful of Creighton's investment advice. She is a widow of considerable means, and says she let Creighton have $3,000 on his promise to invest it so that it would bring her in $20 a day without risk of principal. She has received no return from the investment, and charges now that she was swindled.

Mr. Creighton drove in a taxicab to Ludlow Street Jail, and Mrs. Morse had the pleasure of following in another car to watch the doors of the civil lock-up close behind him.

Mr. Creighton's lawyer said that the action had taken his client by complete surprise, but that the answer to the allegations would be immediate and satisfying.

GIRL TAKES POISON.

Elsie Walmer Collapses in Trolley Car—Likely to Die.

A young woman, who appeared to be about 20 years old, was a passenger on a Broadway trolley car running to Yonkers late yesterday afternoon when she slipped to the floor unconscious, and was hurried to St. Joseph's Hospital, where the doctors found that she had taken strychnine. She regained consciousness just long enough to say that she was Elsie Walmer of 113 West 110th Street, New York, and admit that she had tried to kill herself. When they asked her why she simply said, "Love."

Late last night the doctors said there was small chance of her recovery. No Miss Walmer is known at the address she gave.

JAPANESE MURDERED.

Three Found Butchered in Oregon—Husband Proves an Alibi.

SALEM, Oregon, Aug. 7.—With their heads almost severed from their bodies, Koye Kowa and Mrs. Tami Koda and her child, all Japanese, were found murdered to-night in an alley near a restaurant owned by the woman's husband, Y. Koda. Beside the body were found two blood-stained knives and a revolver.

Koda and a companion were arrested. The police admit that they seem to have a satisfactory alibi.

Some excitement was created by the discovery of the bodies, and a report started that three Japanese and an American woman and child had been killed in a riot.

RENT MODEL FLATS AFTER RIGID TESTS

CLUB ROOM FOR TENANTS

Mrs. Rogers Combines an Odd Arrangement of Front and Rear Buildings with Connecting Link.

In West Forty-fourth Street, between Ninth and Tenth Avenues, north of the Hell's Kitchen district, just across the street from the English Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, are two fine, new connected five-story buildings of odd design, which children in the neighborhood and other residents have regarded with much mystery. The houses, Nos. 425 and 427, residents of the neighborhood said yesterday, were put up by a Mrs, Rogers as model tenements. They are lighted by electricity, have hardwood floors, and modern conveniences utterly unknown in the district, and are to be let to families at $5 a room, as compared with $10 a room demanded in other new buildings in the neighborhood, but they are let only under certain queer and rigid restrictions.

For instance, every one in the neighborhood who was asked had heard that nobody would be admitted as a tenant unless there was at least one child in the family; also, that no family would be taken whose weekly income exceeded $25; also, that a careful system of investigation of the personal history and character of all applicants was enforced, which made the process of application for flats in the new buildings "a regular civil service to get in."

Investigation showed that on June 11, 1912, Mrs. Catherine C. D. Rogers of 29 West Fifty-ninth Street had bought a two-story brick building at 425 and a frame building at 427 West Forty-fourth Street for $39,000. It was learned also that on the day after Election Day work was begun on the construction on this site of the two model tenements, and that the buildings, now finished and completely rented, would be thrown open for occupancy about Aug. 15.

The buildings, which were designed by Grosvenor Atterbury, the architect, for the development work of the Sage Foundation Homes Company, have a combined front of 50 feet, and include two units, a front and a rear building, each 29 feet deep, with extra large courts, 50 per cent. larger than are required by law, between them. Both units, with a connecting link two stories high, are of brick, with steel beams reinforced by concrete floor construction, and a tile roof. They are fire-proof. They are non-elevator apartment dwellings, each containing ten four-room and bath apartments.

The buildings have marble halls and double marble staircases leading from a common wide entrance. All the wood trim inside is semi-hardwood in natural finish, with hardwood floors everywhere except in the halls and bathrooms. Electric lighting is used almost exclusively, and each apartment is equipped with a fine large gas range. The apartments are heated by steam. The buildings have in the cellar a special incinerating plant for garbage, and the heat produced in this process of garbage incineration is diverted as an economical by-product to heating water for the tenements.

The second floor of the connecting link between the front and rear buildings serves the purpose of a common assembly room or reading room for the tenants, with large skylights and windows and built-in seats and bookcases. It is 15 by 18 feet. To get from one unit of the buildings to the other, however, it will not be necessary to pass through this common room, and the ground floor of the connecting link can be used.

On this ground floor of the connecting link, as well as in the basement, two perambulator rooms have been built for the baby carriages of the tenants, and on the roof, in addition to space for drying laundry work, there is space for a children's playground, properly protected.

It was said yesterday at 29 West Fifty-seventh Street, that Mrs. Rogers was out of the city. At the offices of her husband, John S. Rogers, a lawyer, of 27 Cedar Street, it was said that Mr. Rogers likewise was away. Mr. Rogers, it was learned was acting for his wife as her agent in renting the tenements, and it was added that a most careful search into the character and histories of all applicants for apartments in the two houses was made. Nothing was known at Mr. Rogers's office, however, of the rumored restriction of tenants to a maximum wage of $25 a week, nor of the rumored regulation that all families living there must have at least one child. It was said that already one or two families had been accepted who had no children.

Every apartment in both houses has been rented. The apartments in front, behind wide ornamental windows with neat white-railed balconies looking out upon the street, were rented for $22, while those in the rear units, equally large and commodious, were renting for $20. Even the old buildings in the neighborhood, it was found, are renting at rates as high or higher than those in the model tenements, six rooms in some of the oldest buildings, two or three flights up, renting for $29 and $30.

Mrs. Rogers, before her marriage at the Brick Presbyterian Church, on April 18, 1906, was Catherine Cossitt Dodge. Her husband, John Shillito Rogers, is a member of the Knickerbocker, Tuxedo, Down Town, and University Clubs, and a Yale graduate of the class of 1898. He has been identified for several years with Republican politics in the Twenty-seventh and Twenty-ninth Assembly Districts, and has been a member of the Executive Committee of the Business Men's Municipal Association. Besides his law practice he is at present engaged in literary work. Mr. and Mrs. Rogers have three children.

MRS. FRIEDMAN ATTACKED.

Probation Officer Hit with Blackjack at the Door of Her Apartment.

Mrs. Antonia Friedman, probation officer attached to the Children's Court, when summoned to the door of her apartment at 39 East Tenth Street yesterday morning, was met by a swarthy, stocky man who seized her by the throat, dragged her into the hallway, and struck her over the head with a blackjack. He fled as the noise of her struggle to defend herself brought to her assistance another charity worker, "Mother" Krause, who makes her home with the Friedmans. Mrs. Friedman is suffering acutely from shock and a slight brain concussion.

According to the story she tells the police, she suspects that her assailant in some way represented some one in the family of Violet Cooper of 69 Gansevoort Street, a child taken in charge by the Children's Society at the suggestion of Mrs. Friedman some two weeks ago. The girl was first sent to a home in Tenafly, N. J., but as she was found to be diseased, she was removed to Bellevue Hospital, where she is now a patient.

Mrs. Friedman tells the police that threats have come from the Cooper household and that on Sunday morning a note pinned on her door told her she would be killed if Violet was not returned.

Mrs. Friedman is the wife of Harry Friedman, a keeper in the Penitentiary on Blackwell's Island, and the daughter of Dr. Victor Lesser, a surgeon in the German Hospital in Philadelphia.

MISS KRILL GETS COUNSEL.

Will Tell All in Court, Accused Nurse Now Says.

Special to The New York Times.

UTICA, Aug. 7.—Emma Elizabeth Krill, suspected of administering the poison that caused the death of Dr. Tron, was to be arraigned in the City Court to-morrow, but the examination will be put off. J. Sidney Bernstein, a New York attorney, with offices in the Woolworth Building, wired her to-day that he would appear for her, and arranged with District Attorney Fuller to have the examination postponed. Mr. Bernstein is expected here in the morning.

Dr. Albert N. Hamilton, chief witness for the people, was brought from Auburn to Utica to-day by District Attorney Fuller and spent the day closeted in the prosecutor's private office going through the effects of Miss Krill and testing the many bottles and packages of medicine found in her trunks. Mr. Fuller will neither deny nor affirm the report that morphia was found in Miss Krill's handbag.

Mr. Fuller to-night took a new tack when he started investigating the story of a marriage between Dr. Tron and Miss Krill. In her excitement on the night of the doctor's death Miss Krill told a reporter that she was married in Jersey City in 1911 by a Magistrate. In her cell to-night the prisoner said she would tell the whole story in court, but not before.

The accused nurse is at the end of her financial resources. When she had paid for a luncheon this noon she shook her pocketbook into her lap. From it dropped three pennies. She looked up with a sad smile, saying: "That finishes it."

HAFF CASE SETTLED.

Arrangement to Care for Child Abruptly Halts Proceedings.

Special to The New York Times.

LYNBROOK, L. I., Aug. 7.—The judicial proceedings to establish the parentage of Vera Kathleen Bland, a baby born in Patchogue last Winter to Florence Haff, a lace mill operative, were halted abruptly to-day with the announcement by Town Attorney Smith that a settlement satisfactory to the authorities had been made for the child's support. Miss Haff, in court, had named William P. W. Haff, Jr., a wealthy business man and evangelist, as the father. Mr. Haff's lawyers seemed completely taken by surprise, and they fought hard to have the proceedings continued with the introduction of their client's testimony.

They wanted it in the record that Mr. Haff had made no settlement, and demanded that Mr. Smith tell who had made arrangements to care for the child. Mr. Smith refused. Then the Haff lawyers asserted that a smirch had been affixed to Mr. Haff's good name, and that this halting of the inquiry without giving him a chance to answer was "diabolical."

No bond has been filed as yet to guarantee the baby's support, and if such a bond is filed through a company the name of the person making the settlement may never be known.

COURT UNDERMINES DEFENSE OF DIGGS

Character of Girls Involved Not a Factor in White Slave Case, Judge Rules.

TEN MARRIED MEN ON JURY

Eight Are Fathers and of These Six Have Daughters—Taking of Testimony Begun.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 7.—The jury in the Diggs White Slave case in the United States District Court was completed to-day and the taking of testimony was begun. Just before adjournment Judge Van Fleet made a ruling which practically cut the ground from under the defense. He said the jury should not take into consideration any testimony that might be presented against the character of the girls who eloped with Diggs and Caminetti.

This announcement proved a bombshell in the Diggs camp. The faces of their lawyers fell, and it was plain that they were worried. Prosecutor Sullivan was elated, and declared that the conviction of Diggs was now certain.

The jury is composed entirely of business men, active or retired, and includes one retired liquor dealer and one friend of a former partner of Diggs, Sr. This friendship, the juror was sure, would not influence his verdict. Ten of the jurors are married, and eight of them have children. Of those who are fathers, six have daughters.

Theodore Roche, of special counsel for the Government, set forth what the prosecution would attempt to prove, viz.:

That Marsha Warrington, 21, and Lola Norris, 19, had been frightened by Maury I. Diggs and F. Drew Caminetti, married men with children, one 28 and the other 27 years old, into leaving Sacramento, lest a scandal explode and criminal prosecutions follow.

That marriage had been promised, after the two husbands should have divorced their wives.

That the four traveled as married couples occupying the same stateroom on a night train.

That on arriving at Reno, Nev., on March 11, 1913, they registered at a hotel as married, and occupied adjoining rooms.

That Diggs hired a four-room bungalow for three days before they were arrested.

That after the return to Sacramento Diggs had written to Marsha Warrington from Berkeley, adjuring her to keep up her courage and that all would end well if she would remember what he had told her, particularly if she was firm in denying that there had been any improper relations between them.

It was rumored that Marsha Warrington would testify this afternoon, and several hundred persons were turned away for lack of seats. The father of Diggs was present. Drew Caminetti's young wife also was in court, but she was stared at so persistently that she soon left.

The expected testimony of Miss Warrington was not given, and the testimony introduced was largely preliminary.

Just before court adjourned P. J. Peck, a real estate dealer from Reno, was on the stand. In cross-examination the defense sought to show that the bungalow the two couples occupied in Reno was not on the outskirts of the city, and had been rented with no view to sequestration and concealment.

"I don't see," interposed Judge Van Fleet, "how it can make any difference in this case whether they went there openly or secretly and clandestinely. Unless the Government can show that they went there for the purposes prohibited by the Mann White Slave Traffic act then the case of the Government fails. If the defendant procured their transportation and accompanied them there for immoral purposes, the case of the Government would stand."

Rector Who Annoyed Girl Fined.

The man who, when arrested on Tuesday night for annoying a girl in Surf Avenue, Coney Island, told the police that he was the Rev. Cecil P. Wilson, rector of the Episcopal Church at Brookland, Penn., was arraigned yesterday in the Tombs Court on a second charge of intoxication and was fined $10 by Magistrate Barlow. Wilson did not have $10 to pay his fine and was sent to the Tombs. Later in the day two well-dressed men, who refused to give their names, appeared and paid the fine.

HURT IN AUTO COLLISION.

Miss Laura Lyman's Arm Badly Cut in a Wreck in Central Park.

Miss Laura Lyman of 419 West 114th Street suffered a deep laceration of the right arm late yesterday afternoon, when an automobile owned by William R. Dillon, a paper manufacturer of 115 East Sixty-fifth Street, in which she was riding, was run down by another machine on the West Drive in Central Park near 110th Street. Miss Lyman had been visiting Mrs. Dillon and was on her way to her home. She was taken to St. Luke's Hospital.

According to the police records, the second machine was owned by Joseph Monet of 59 Pearl Street, and was driven by William Brown of 843 Amsterdam Avenue. Carl Neilson, chauffeur of the Dillon car, said that he was on the extreme right of the road and that the other machine collided with him. Both machines were badly damaged.

BOY KILLED BY AUTO.

Arbarti Was Crossing the Street When Car Ran Him Down.

While he was crossing Eighth Avenue at 129th Street last night on the way to his home, Charles Arbarti, 6 years old, was run down by a southbound automobile and mortally injured. The automobile, owned by Theodore Mansfield of the Hotel Ansonia, was occupied by Ernest Bellamy, a chauffeur, of 62 West Sixty-sixth Street, and a friend, Albert Chuaroff of 1,321 Franklin Avenue, the Bronx. Bellamy stopped the machine, and, accompanied by Policeman Armstrong, hurried the boy to the Harlem Hospital, but the boy was dead when they reached there.

Bellamy was not placed under arrest. He said that he had got permission from his employer to use the automobile. The police concluded that the accident was unavoidable. The boy lived with his father, a shoemaker, at 302 West 129th Street.
